Park Board Seeking To Fill Gilbert's Seat

The Elk Grove Park District Board of Commissioners has begun its search for a replacement for Daniel Gilbert, who resigned earlier this month.

Board Pres. Edward Hauser said yesterday the board would decide on a procedure for appointing a new member at its meeting last night.

In the past the board has asked for applications from persons in the community and then interviewed them, he said, adding that he hoped the board would follow the same procedure this time.

He said he hoped the board would make a decision on a replacement for Gilbert by the first of August.

Gilbert sent his resignation to the board's last meeting, saying, "in light of the fact I no longer am effectively performing the duties of commissioner," and that he was resigning.

He has offered no other explanation since then except to say, "I need more time to play golf."

Gilbert of 67 Lansdale Rd., has been on the board since he was appointed to fill a vacancy in 1967. He had served as board secretary and vice president.

IN JANUARY he was publicly critical of the park board for overemphasizing the development of baseball diamonds and for ignoring park beautification and passive recreation.

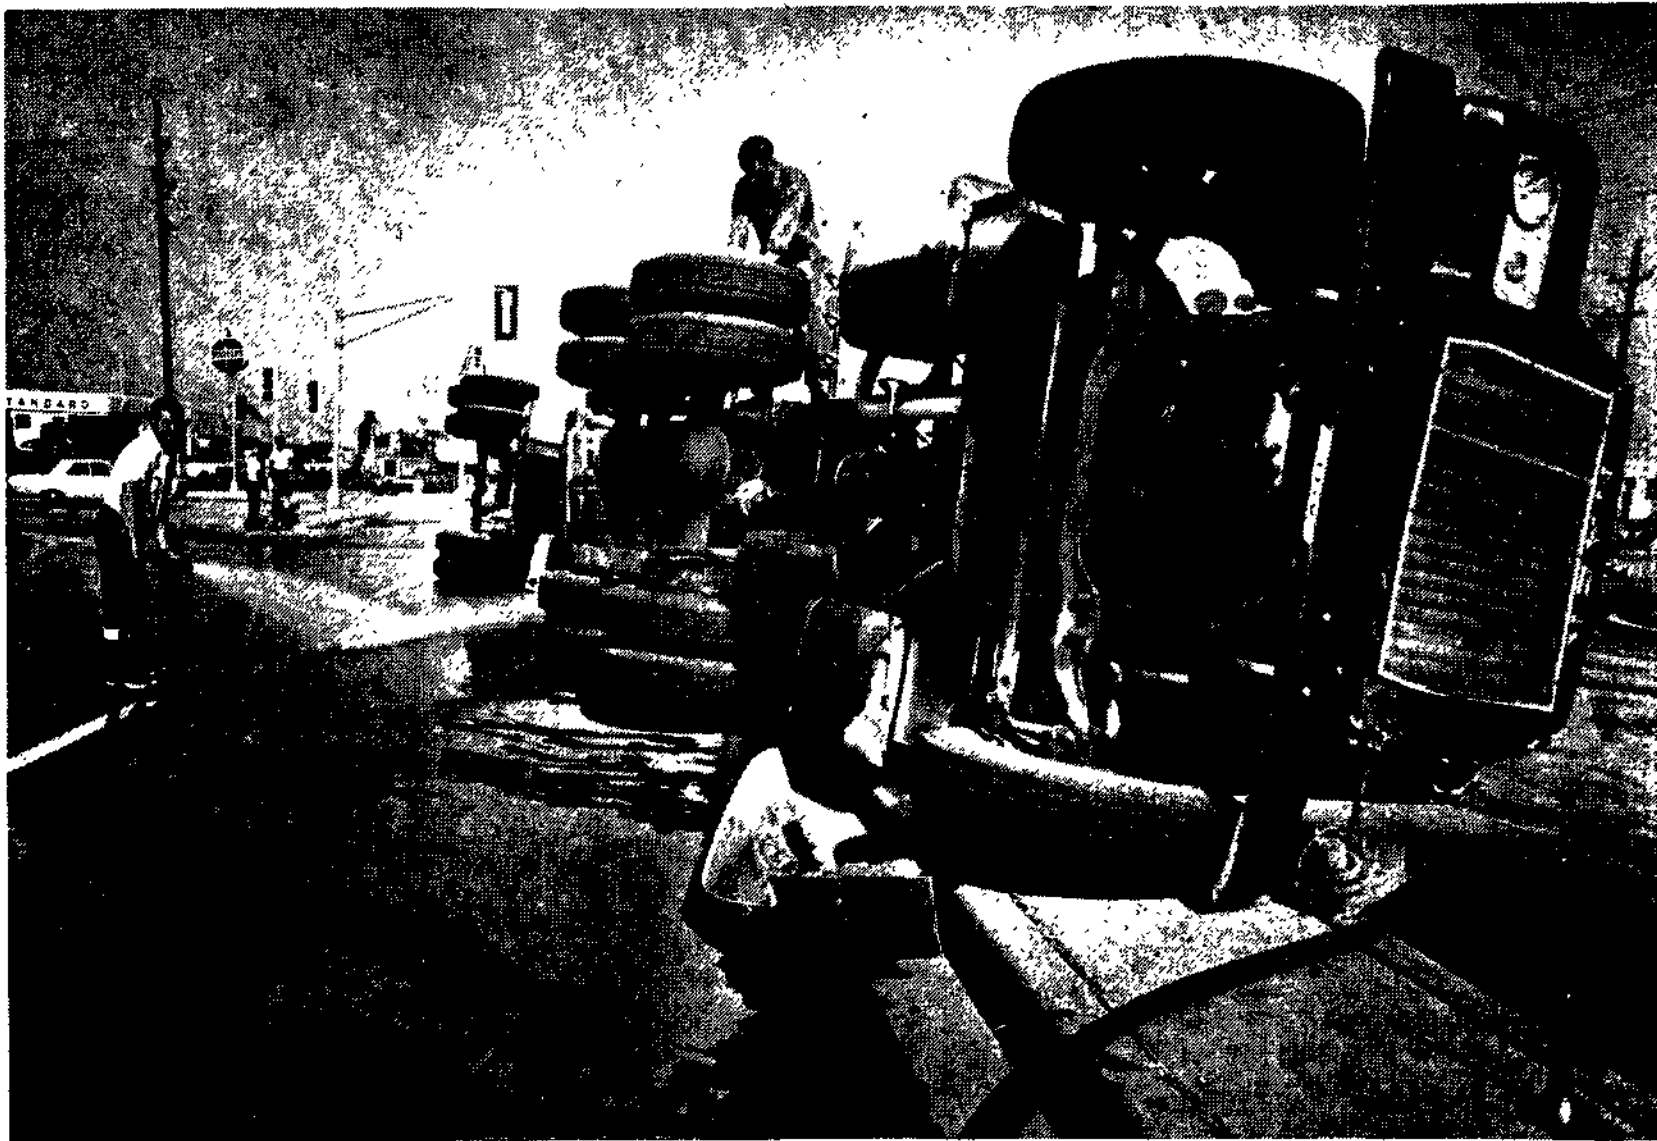

Board members chastised Gilbert for the stand and some felt his statements may have been partly responsible for the defeat of the March 6 referendum on park improvements.

Gilbert's replacement will serve until the next park board election in April, 1973. At that time the remaining two years of his six-year term will be filled by election.

The appointment will be the fifth the park board has made since it was formed five years ago. In 1967 Gilbert and Neil Cooney, president of the Bank of Elk Grove were appointed to fill vacancies of park board members who resigned because they were moving out of town.

In 1968, the board appointed Kenneth Kerwin, who resigned nine months later for business and personal reasons. Martin Durkin, the runner-up in the 1969 election, was appointed to replace Kerwin.

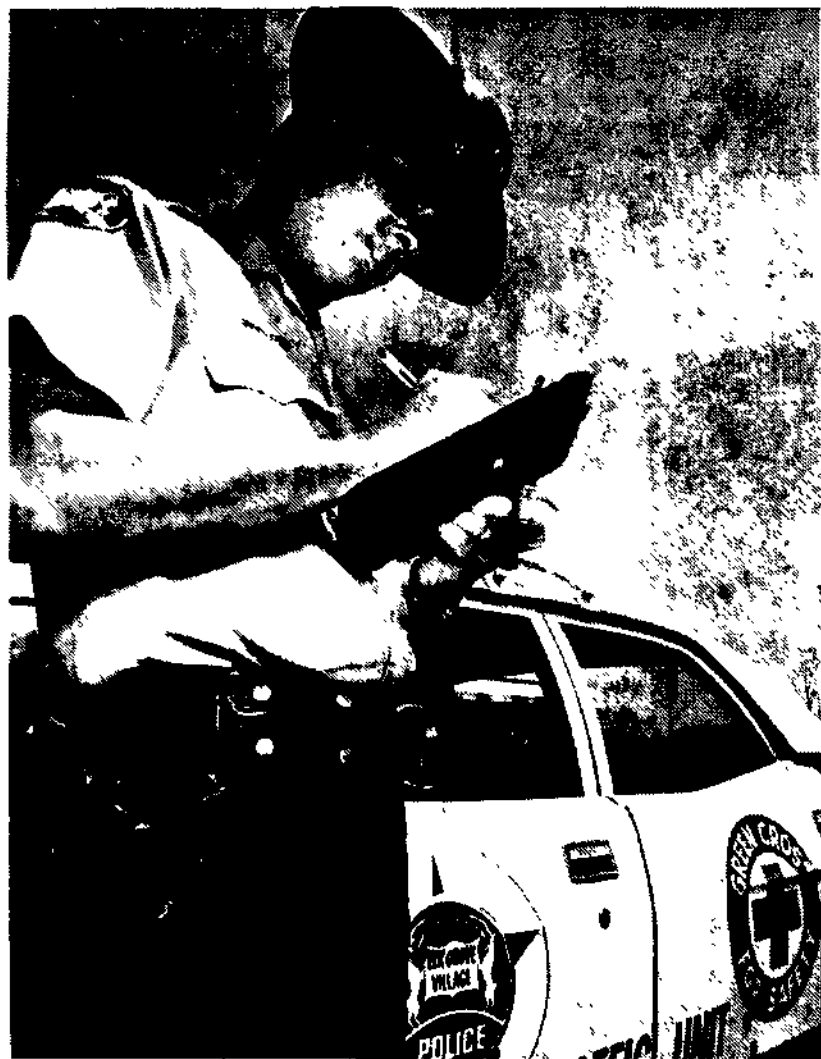

Hauser and Comr. David von Schaumburg are the only two members of the original park board still serving.

AN OIL TRUCK overturned about 5:45 a.m. yesterday while making a turn from Busse Road to Golf Road in Mount Prospect. The driver of the truck, Joseph H. Ament, 27, of Rockford, suffered minor cuts and bruises on his left arm, but refused medical aid, according to Mount Prospect Police.

Ament was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. The truck is owned by the Jensen Co., of Rockford. (Photo by Jim Frost).

PATROLMAN RAYMOND ROSE, 25 heads the traffic section of the Elk Grove Village Police Department. A policeman for three and one-half years, he will attend the traffic institute at Northwestern University in July.

Busse-Touhy Intersection Is 'Worst'

Touhy Avenue and Busse Road is the worst intersection in Elk Grove Village, according to Patrolman Raymond Rose, in charge of the traffic section within the police department.

From Dec. 18 when the six-lane Busse Road (Rte. 83) opened, through May 12, there have been 25 accidents at the intersection, located in Centex Industrial Park.

Of the 23 accidents, there were 15 with property damage and eight with personal injuries, Rose said.

The problem at the intersection is that motorists traveling east and west on Touhy Avenue have difficulty crossing the state highway. Touhy is a two-way stop street, and Busse Road is a through street for which the village board was to request traffic signals from the state highway division.

Rose said that other dangerous intersections in the village are those along Rohlfing Road (Rte. 53), including Nerge Road, Biesterfeld Road, and White Trail, which leads into the new Centex Corp. subdivision.

ROSE SAID there have not been too many accidents there, but there still is a problem at the intersections, all of the "T" variety.

Part of the cause for concern is that the 65 mile per hour speed limit on Rte. 53, he said, but most residents who use the highway realize it is too fast. The village is requesting a reduction to 45 m.p.h. from the state.

Rose said that through May, there have been 307 accidents in the village in 1971, up slightly from 1970 when there were 291 in the same period. The only fatality in the two years occurred earlier this year on Rte. 53.

He said the number of accidents has increased steadily through the years in the village, using as an example, one month total from April, 1967 through April 1971. In April 1967 there were 22 accidents; 1968, 29; April, 1969, 47; April, 1970, 66; and April, 1971, 60.

He said police are trying to find out more about each accident through improved investigation since the formation of the traffic section Feb. 1.

"There is now more complete reporting of accidents and improved follow-up investigation," Rose said.

The traffic section has been allotted two squad units and a three-wheeled motorcycle. The squads are marked with the green safety cross of the National Safety Council, of which the department is a member.

The council assists police departments in providing statistics and information used to reduce accidents.

Rose's job now is to determine where the traffic problems are in the village, and to correct them.

Sometimes the problems can be corrected by improved engineering of an intersection or through education of the public.

As part of the education campaign, he said that when police issue warning tickets to residents for traffic violations, they issue a copy of the Illinois Rules of the Road from the secretary of state's office.

The traffic section also recently completed a bicycle registration and safety campaign in the schools, for which it distributed various safety literature.

'Adult' Books Found In Area Ditches

"Adult" books have been turning up in the streets and ditches of Buffalo Grove and Police Chief Harold Smith believes they are coming from the "adult" book store south of Wheeling.

The chief surmised that the books in question are purchased by husbands on their way home from work, leaved through while driving and tossed in the ditch before pulling into the driveway at home.

"They wouldn't be caught dead by the old lady with those things in the house," Smith said.

He said officers have recovered four "adult" books this week.

Fraud Office Recovers $7,000

Consumers in the area have recovered $7,000 in money and goods during May and June with the aid of the Elk Grove Village Branch of the Illinois Attorney General's Consumer Fraud Division.

Successful settlements ranged from recovery of an automobile that had been wrongfully repossessed to the return of $7 on magazine subscriptions.

The consumer fraud office is operated by an all-volunteer staff on Tuesday from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon in the village hall.

The office has been authorized to conduct informal hearings where both persons involved in a complaint live in the area.

Readers Helping To Save The Center

The Herald's campaign to raise money to save The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center was off to a "good start" this week.

In an effort to save the family service agency, located in Des Plaines, the Herald has launched an appeal to its readers to donate $1 to a special emergency fund. Early response from 92 readers netted $222, including a number of donations in excess of $1.

"We are encouraged by this initial support," said Charles E. Hayes, editor in chief of the Herald, "and additional donations are coming in every day. But we have a long way to go before the center can begin to meet this most severe financial emergency in its history."

"We urge all Herald readers to send in their dollar donations today," said Hayes. "It is a small price to pay in behalf of strengthening and enhancing family life in our communities."

Operated under auspices of The Salvation Army, the center is the only professional family service agency available to residents of Northwest suburbs. Unless the means is found to meet an immediate deficit of $15,000, it will be forced to curtail its service.

A MODEST FEE structure is insufficient to meet operating expenses, and the center must depend upon support from Community Chests, taxing bodies, foundations, and private contributors.

Its current financial emergency grew out of the recent freeze on allocation of all township funds as well as the general state of the national economy.

Initial contributors to the Herald Center Fund include readers from 11 suburbs, all served by the center.

Smiley, Staddler Seen As Choices

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Gerald Smiley and Ted Staddler are my choices to be selected as the new trustees on the Elk Grove Village Board. Darkhorses are Robert Durning and Jack Ehlebracht.

This is not an endorsement, but a hunch on which of the candidates the village board will select following an all-day interview session tomorrow with nine candidates.

Smiley and Staddler have at least one point in their favor. They both sought to be elected in the recent April elections — Smiley to the village and park boards and Staddler to the school Dist. 59 Board. They both lost.

Ehlebracht and Bud Lindahl also were candidates for the village board. They also are candidates again.

For the record: 1,303 residents voted for Lindahl, 1,106 for Smiley, and 845 for Ehlebracht, in the village board election. Smiley also collected 691 votes for the park board and Staddler, 965 votes for the school board.

Other candidates for the village board are John Haar, Michael Tosto, Charles Riley, and Mrs. Eugene Keith.

One more item about the candidates: One of them registered only recently after having living in the village more than a year, apparently failing to vote in all the elections held in the interim.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE joins Schaumburg, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and a number of DuPage County towns in having the distinction of being left off the official Illinois highway map for 1971. Some communities have become so enraged over the fact that they've campaigned not to be left off next year.

Even Gov. Ogilvie's hometown of Northbrook is left off. The reason, according to the state, is that the Chicago area is so congested that some towns and cities had to be omitted.

Never fear — on the other side of the map in a blow up of the Chicago area, Elk Grove Village is there and so is Harper College, though it moved to Palatine a couple of years ago.

The map also notes Elk Grove's population at 16,905 which is ridiculous when one considers that the fall, 1969 census reported 20,000 and the April, 1970 census almost 25,000. Another thing I question about the map. It states that Arlington Heights Road is an "all weather" road. That is debatable.

CONGRATULATIONS TO several police officers for completing 15 or more hours of studies at Harper College. Among them are Sgt. William Kohnke, Lt. Harry Walsh, Detectives Jerry Walsh, Jay Akely, Mel Mack, John Landers, and Patrolman Ken Krzywicki.

Rep. Crane To Discuss Aids To Businessmen

U.S. Rep. Philip Crane will be in Elk Grove Village this morning to discuss government programs to aid businessmen.

Crane will be the speaker at a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. which will conclude a business development conference he is sponsoring. The conference will begin at 9 a.m. at the Holiday Inn in Elk Grove Village.

The Elk Grove Village Association of Industry and Commerce is host for the conference and the chambers of commerce in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling are cosponsors.

Included on the program are representatives from four federal and one state agency which deal with business affairs. More than 100 businessmen are expected to attend.

Crane has served as representative to the 13th Congressional District since December, 1969, following his election to the post vacated by Donald Rumsfeld, now a special assistant to President Nixon. Crane was reelected by a wide margin in last November's election.

Rep. Philip Crane

AFTER NEARLY two hours, rescuers in Arlington Heights freed construction worker Alphonse Neri, 47, who was buried under 16 feet of earth when an excavation pit located across from Corrado's Restaurant, 317 W. Rand Road caved in. Happiest of all to see Neri alive was his friend and co-worker, Thomas Urso, 30, who was also trapped, but rescued an hour earlier. "I was amazed to see him alive. It seemed like we dug forever before we heard him yelling," said Frank DeFrancesco, their boss. (Photo by Jay Needleman)

Air Pocket Saves Life Of Buried Worker

by TOM ROBB

Kept alive only by an underground air pocket, one construction worker was buried under 16 feet of earth and another was trapped following a sewer caisson cave-in yesterday in northern Arlington Heights.

Rescuers worked for nearly two hours to free 47-year-old Alphonse Neri, 4007 S. Artesian, Chicago, who was buried alive when the side walls of a 16-foot hole caved in.

Neri, an employee of Tremar Inc., a local firm, survived the ordeal only by putting his head in the open end of a sewer pipe where enough air was trapped to sustain him.

Another worker, Thomas Urso, 30, of 1505 N. 21st St., Melrose Park, was trapped up to his neck in the landslide for about 30 minutes before fellow construction workers and 11 men from the Arlington Heights Fire Department rescued him, said Frank DeFrancesco, president of Tremar.

Jack Ryan, director of public relations for Northwest Community Hospital said, "both men are doing all right considering the ordeal they've been through." Neri suffered a broken hip and Urso a possible broken arm.

The excavation site is located just south of Rand Road and directly across from Corrado's Restaurant, 310 W. Rand Rd.

"We just got back from lunch and jumped into the hole when it happened," Urso said. "It came so fast we couldn't do anything but stand there."

The men were two of eight workers who were tunneling a sanitary sewer from north of Rand Road to the Greenbrier Apartment complex at Rand and Kennicott.

THE CAVE-IN occurred shortly before 1 p.m. Urso was freed by 1:30 p.m., and firemen and workers lifted Neri from the hole by stretcher basket at 2:20 p.m.

"I heard two guys yell to make a run for it, but it was too late," said Urso, who was buried to the top of his head and regained his breath only after a fellow worker scooped dirt away from Urso's face.

It took at least 20 rescuers close to two hours to free Neri, however, who was at the bottom of the hole when the accident occurred.

"I used the big machine to dig most of the dirt off of him and stopped when I heard him screaming — otherwise the machine would have killed him," said DeFrancesco.

Workers then had to use shovels to get closer to the victim. "The last few inches we had to use our fingers to dig," said Arlington Heights fireman Richard Frost, who like other workmen, was sweating and breathless because of the speed at which he worked.

Fearing further cave-ins and that Neri's air supply was dwindling, state and local police roped off the area to a large crowd of bystanders to aid the rescuers in their work.

"It came in three waves — one slide, another and then another," Urso said. "I saw Al disappear and was sure he was dead. I can't believe it."

Dr. Middleton's Appeal Extended To Mid-July

The deadline for Dr. James Middleton's appeal to retain his license to practice medicine has been extended to mid-July.

The medical examining committee of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education revoked Dr. Middleton's license June 1 after two former women patients said the doctor drugged and sexually assaulted them.

Edward Price, chief attorney for the state agency, said the doctor was found guilty of "engaging in dishonorable and unprofessional conduct of a character likely to deceive, defraud or harm the public."

Price said Dr. Middleton, who is facing criminal charges of deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery, also was found guilty of using "fraud and deceit" to obtain a license in the state.

When the revocation was announced June 1, Price explained that Dr. Middleton could continue his practice while appealing the ruling. Price said the doctor could appeal for a rehearing before the director of the state agency within 20 days.

YESTERDAY, however, Price said the deadline for the appeal would fall in mid-July because the registered letter notifying the doctor of the revocation was not mailed until "today or yesterday."

Price said the doctor actually has 20 days after the letter is mailed to file his appeal.

If the letter was mailed yesterday, the deadline for appeal would be July 14.

If the request for a rehearing is denied, or if it is granted and the appeal denied, the doctor then would have 35 more days in which to request a hearing in the Circuit Court of Cook County.

PRICE said he expected Dr. Middleton to file a petition for rehearing prior to the deadline. "If he doesn't, it's all over — he's finished," he said.

If the first appeal is not filed within the 20 days, Price explained, "He waives his rights to a hearing in the circuit court."

Price said that if and when the doctor's appeals run out, Price would "physically send someone out there to take his license off the wall."

Meanwhile, Dr. Middleton is continuing his practice in offices at 969 Elmhurst Rd., unincorporated Des Plaines. He is scheduled to appear again on the criminal charges July 7, at which time Judge Robert Downing will rule on the doctor's request for a change in judges.

'Closed Door' Plan Replaces 'Lighted School'

by WANDALYN RICE

The "lighted school policy" of two years ago has been replaced by a "closed door policy" in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59.

"Community education was put to bed this week," Leah Cummins, director of public relations for the district, said after the board of education voted to close school buildings for the coming year to all except school-sponsored activities.

The community education program, which began in 1968 with fanfare and a $6,000 grant from the Charles S. Mott Foundation of Flint, Mich. had as its major goal, full use of school buildings for community activities.

Mrs. Cummins served as director of the program, which was kicked off in October 1968, when Elk Grove High School was opened to roller skating under the supervision of the Elk Grove Park District.

In the fall of 1969, Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village became the first, and last, "lighted schoolhouse," open every evening as a community center.

ADULT CLASSES were offered in dancing, crafts, speed reading, local government and other areas. More than 100 participated. The program ended in December, 1969.

In November, 1969, Mrs. Cummins recalled, the district lost a referendum to increase the education and building fund tax rates.

During 1969-70, the district had budgeted $14,000 for the community education program, which received $6,500 in grants. However Mrs. Cummins said all the money was not spent because of the referendum defeat.

"Community education is gone," she said. "I haven't really devoted much time to community ed, since the fall of 1969."

One community education program that continued through this school year was Project 444, a program for 4-year-olds.

More than 500 preschoolers completed the program, which made use of "teacher-moms" this spring. Mrs. Cummins said the program will probably not be possible in any form next year.

In May, when the 4-year-olds "graduated," Mrs. Cummins said, "This program is a beautiful example of the use of community education, which is in large part a tapping of the local resources to provide for a school community need."

THE DISTRICT received no grant this year from the Mott Foundation, Mrs. Cummins said, and she said she has been "putting the brakes on" because of the district's financial problems.

However, she said the heavy use of the school buildings by community groups is partly a result of the community education program. "Some of the things just kept going even though I had my foot on the brake," she said.

The concept of community education and "lighted schools" began in 1939 in Flint, by Charles S. Mott. Schools there have been open to the community ever since.

When community education began in Dist. 59, officials said the program in Flint had resulted in 60 per cent greater use of school buildings with only a 5 per cent increase in operating costs.

This week, Mrs. Cummins said, "We have never had a full-blown community education program in Dist. 59."

5th Hospital Fete To Have German Taste

Brother Ferdinand Leyva, administrator of the Alexian Brothers Medical Center, will serve as chief beer keg tapper at the fifth anniversary celebration of the hospital on Sunday.

The celebration also will feature a German band concert with Li'l Richard, Chicago's Polka General, and a bratwurst dinner from 5 to 7 p.m. on the grounds behind the hospital, 800 Biesterfeld Rd., Elk Grove Village.

The band will provide two hours of German music and polkas. Four costumed members of the center's administrative staff will play balloon men.

Employees, medical staff, Auxiliaries and the community at large may bring their own picnic baskets or buy for a nominal sum a German bratwurst dinner with beer for adults and cola for youngsters.

The dinner will be prepared by members of the medical center staff supervised by Peter Haene, a graduate of the Swiss Hotel School and a native German Swiss.

Tables and chairs will not be provided. Guests are advised to bring a blanket to sit on.

Does Early Bird Catch Snake?

The early bird catches the rattlesnake? Bright and early at 7 o'clock Sunday morning rattlesnake hunters will meet in Wheeling to begin the 16th annual Wheeling Rattlesnake Hunt.

"If we get out early enough we'll catch some," said Arnold Krause, organizer of the annual safari into the wilds of the Des Plaines River banks.

Last year 28 area residents including five women tromped through thick weeds for two and a half hours, but all they found were milk snakes and grass snakes.

However, in other years as many as 14 rattlesnakes, some as large as 32 inches long, have been caught on the hunt.

Krause said he had asked WGN television to send a camera crew along on this year's hunt.

THE SEARCH IS for Massasauga rattlesnakes, a kind of pygmy rattler native to the Des Plaines River and Buffalo Creek area.

Any rattlesnakes caught on the hunt are kept alive and turned over to zoos or to the River Trails Nature Center.

Suburbanites are invited to join the hunters who will meet at 24 S. Milwaukee Ave., south of the corner of Dundee Road and Milwaukee Avenue.

Hunters are urged to wear high boots and gloves.

Poodle Scores Six

A black poodle named Cheri struck it rich early one day this week in Elk Grove Village.

The dog delivered six puppies about 4 a.m. Tuesday, reported its master, Frank Grzesik Jr. 13, of 215 Mulberry Ln.

"Her cryin' woke us up," he said, referring to his five brothers.

"We mated her with the dog across the street," he said, happy over the fact that "that dog never mated over four before."

Male Sterilization: The Answer For Birth Control?

by KURT BAER

Sterilization, even when voluntary, is still an explosive issue for many people. But for those worried about a different kind of explosion, the population explosion, voluntary sterilization is an effective and relatively simple method of birth control, particularly for men.

The Midwest Population Center, 180 E. Ohio St., Chicago, is now in its third month of operating a vasectomy clinic, and the center's executive director, the Rev. Don C. Shaw, was in Arlington Heights Tuesday to talk about the clinic with members of the Northwest Chapter of Zero Population Growth (ZPG).

Vasectomy is a male sterilization operation normally performed under local anesthesia.

"We opened our doors on March 17, and in the first three months we've performed over 800 operations," Shaw told a group of about 30 ZPG members.

"As far as I know, that is the largest number of such operations performed anywhere in the country for that length of time," he said.

But Shaw said the number of applicants for vasectomy operations had fallen off in recent weeks.

"After the initial surge we found that by mid-May we were overstaffed," he said.

Shaw speculated that part of the reason for the decline might be the $150 cost of the surgery. In an effort to overcome this barrier, he said the clinic has just adopted a sliding cost scale based on ability to pay.

"We're prepared to take care of everyone who wants the operation including those who can't afford to pay anything," Shaw said.

Individual fees will be set on the basis of a preliminary interview required of applicants.

Shaw said the clinic is currently receiving between 45 and 55 inquiries per week, about 35 of which actually go through surgery.

After urging northwest chapter members to take a more active role in the development of what he called a "regional consciousness" among various ZPG organizations in the Chicago area, Shaw talked about plans to create an office on Human Sexuality at the population center.

The office would have two main objectives, he said — the examination of sex role stereotypes and the easing of public fear and anxiety over the use of contraceptives.

In addition to the vasectomy clinic, the population center now provides office space for ZPG and the Council on Population and Environment.

Shaw said that too many "wanted children" are the result of a society "programmed for parenthood." A rethinking of traditional sex roles, particularly for women is needed to correct this condition, he said.

He urged that contraceptives be made available to all sexually active people to guard against unwanted pregnancies.

An office on human sexuality would be able to assist in both of these areas, he explained.

Shaw also reiterated ZPG's position that overpopulation is essentially a middle class problem.

Population control "must not be achieved at the expense of the poor," he said.

"We have to dispel the myth that overpopulation is caused by welfare mothers with eight or nine children."

Shaw said that U. S. Census figures indicate poor families are less than one child larger on the average than middle class families.

"ZPG doesn't believe that achieving a stable population will solve all our problems. We'll still have to cope with poverty, health care, pollution and all the other social ills," Shaw said.

"Our position is simply that a growing population can only exacerbate these problems and make solutions that are much more difficult to find."

Trustee Named To Involvement Council

Nanci Vanderweel, an Elk Grove Village trustee, has been named local chairman of Gov. Ogilvie's citizen involvement council.

As chairman she will be responsible for compiling a list of the local non-government and nonprofit organizations for use in a state directory.

The directory will be used to help the state implement its programs with the aid of local residents, Mrs. Vanderweel said.

Representatives of organizations interested in being included in the directory should contact Mrs. Vanderweel at 438-3900.

Attends Fire College

Charles Henrici of the Elk Grove Village Fire Department is attending the 47th annual Illinois Fire College June 10-13 at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign. The college will include the study of industrial fires, arson investigation, and relations with the news media.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

North was too strong to just raise his partner to two hearts. Therefore, he showed his club suit before he went to three hearts. But he had no problem bidding game, but he did have a problem in his play.

The defense started out by taking three diamond tricks. Then East shifted to a spade and South was in with the ace.

A beginner would have had no trouble with the hand. He would draw trumps and go after clubs. They would break 3-3 and the rubber would be over.

South was a more knowledgeable player. He knew that suits tended to break 4-2. Hence, he played a king of clubs, ace of clubs and ruffed a low club. Then he started on trumps. Unfortunately, West had one more trump than dummy and, instead of making 10 tricks, South didn't even make nine and was down two.

South complained that for anyone else the trumps would have broken 3-3 and that his sensible safety play had cost him the rubber.

South's play had cost him the rubber, but it was neither a safety play nor sensible. He should have played two rounds of trumps before touching clubs. Had both opponents followed, he could then have played clubs. When East showed out, South should have kept playing

Reject Viet Pullout Date

by BOB LAHEY

Several moves in both the House and the Senate to set dates for withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam were debated and rejected again last week.

Among those rejected in the Senate were the McGovern-Hatfield Amendment to the Selective Service Act. Proposals in the House to cutoff funds for military activity in Indochina arose during debate of the Military Procurement Authorization Act.

Following is a summary of the voting records and other activities of Illinois' two senators, Republican Charles H. Percy and Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, and Northwest suburban representatives Philip M. Crane, 13th, Harold R. Collier, R-10th, and Robert McClory, R-21st, for the week ended June 18.

MEASURES SPONSORED

McClory (co-sponsored by Collier), a resolution expressing the sense of Congress with respect to withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

Percy, a bill to authorize establishment of standards for existing government advisory committees, provide consumer representation on certain advisory committees and to increase public access to information about their activities.

Percy, a bill to establish a Special Action Office for drug abuse prevention.

MEASURES CO-SPONSORED

Collier, a resolution to authorize the President to proclaim the month of January as National Blood Donor Month.

Percy, a bill to amend the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act to require certain labeling practices to assist consumers in the purchase of packaged perishable goods.

Percy, a resolution to request the President to proclaim the week of Sept. 12-20 as Myasthenia Gravis Week.

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

The new Eisenhower dollar is yet to be released and already some sharp observers have called attention to the designer's initials "FG" appearing on both sides of the coin. While no one questioned Frank Gasperro's right to sign his work, some were interested in the precedent for such a practice.

Receive CPA Degrees

Six area residents were among the successful candidates who passed the uniform CPA examination in Illinois and received CPA certificates at the awards dinner of the Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Candidates to whom certificates were given are: Philip Robert Greenberg, 9048 Emerson; Donald R. Hasselbring, 1625 Howard St.; Jeffrey M. Matten, 9028 Federal Court; Paul T. Saharack, 9562 N. Park Lane; Stuart E. Schwartz, 8970 Parkside; and Ronald S. Sumon, 9124 W. West Oaks.

Resident A Member Of NIU Women's Glee Club

Nancy Lilus of 869 S. 6th, Des Plaines, is a member of the Women's Glee Club of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign which recently performed a "Moms' Day Concert at the Great Hall of Krannert Center for the Performing Arts.

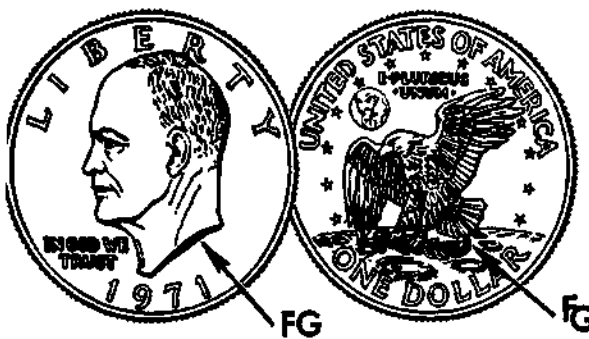

According to the records, it happened only once before in history. George T. Morgan, designer of the 1878 Liberty-head dollar, signed his initial "M" to the obverse and the reverse of the coin. Page 191 of "Cowell's Complete Encyclopedia of U.S. Coins" illustrates and describes Morgan's initial. "It is found at the tip of the hair scroll on the truncation of the neck and again on the reverse inside of the left loop of the bow, horizontal to the design."

AGAIN REFERRING to the encyclopedia, pages 74 and 75 under Coin Components: Among other things, the designer's initials are illustrated and defined as "individual components considered appropriate for their purpose and not necessarily a part of the design. Such symbols (components) are legal, but not required by law."

This particular incident may not be a first for Gasperro but he did enjoy the honor of being the first mint engraver to have his initials appear on the same coin with another engraver. The 1959 Lincoln cent carries Victor D. Brenner's VDB on the cut-off of Mr. Lincoln's coat sleeve, and Gasperro's "FG" may be found to the right of the memorial foundation just below the hedge.

This distinction was repeated with the issuance of the Kennedy half-dollar containing Gilroy Robert's "GR" on obverse and Gasperro's "FG" on reverse.

GASPERRO IS dedicated to doing more than just an acceptable job. He spent many long hours working out the details for the Lincoln and Kennedy designs, but when the Eisenhower dollar presented itself, Frank doubled his efforts to make the best of a historical event.

Following an article in this column on the merits of the Lincoln Memorial reverse, mail poured into Gasperro's office. All he would say was, "The public really does appreciate what we do here."

Taking into consideration the 15 million U.S. coin collectors and their knowledge of designs and engravings, I would say Frank's remark was a gross under-

Named Head Nurse

Mrs. Mildred Zulawski, R.N., has been appointed head nurse of the Three-North medical-surgical unit, Holy Family Hospital.

After being graduated from the Lutheran Deaconess Hospital Nursing School, Mrs. Zulawski did private duty nursing for five years and then became inactive to raise a family of two children.

She returned to Lutheran Deaconess in 1961 for a nursing refresher course and served as surgical-medical staff nurse until the hospital closed in 1968. Mrs. Zulawski joined the Holy Family nursing staff as staff nurse in a medical-surgical unit in 1968.

Except for the partially nude Standing Liberty quarter issued in 1916 and recalled the same year, none of the 116 coin types issued throughout our 178-year history has ever been offensive. And I am certain the rejection of the nude quarter-dollar was due more to the conscience of the Treasury than the public.

The fact of the matter is that more sincerity goes into the design and production of our currency than that of any other country in the world with the exception of Canada. But, according to Gasperro, when the public likes a design especially well, they let you know about it.

Mail should be addressed to Mr. Frank Gasperro, Chief Engraver, U.S. Mint, Philadelphia, Pa.

Medal Series Honors World's Religions

by RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK — The two-Johnny-Benches for a Bob Gibson-and-a-Tom-Seaver school of backyard bartering is about to be joined by something new: the two Martin-Luther-for-a-Buddha-and-a-John Wesley gambit.

The new medium of exchange will be an ecumenical series of bronze, silver and gold filled medals honoring 25 of the world's religions.

Sculptor Ralph Menconi, who created President Richard Nixon's inaugural medal, is designing the religious medals, which will be issued over a two-year span. Each medal will be accompanied by a booklet explaining the religion.

Dr. David Poling — a Presbyterian clergyman former president of the Christian Herald Association and religion editor of Newspaper Enterprise Association — originated the project and will write all the booklets.

HE HAS ORGANIZED an advisory commission that includes Dr. Billy Graham, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, the Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, David Ben-Gurion and U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney (who is the consultant on the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, usually known as the Mormon church).

"The series joins art, education and religion," Poling says. "Too many adults and certainly too many young people are ignorant of their neighbor's faith. This series encourages the investigation and appreciation of other religions."

The first two medals honor the United Methodist Church and the Roman Catholic Church, while others will be issued on most of the other Christian denominations, Judaism, Buddhism, Islam, Confucianism, Shintoism, and almost all the world's other recognized religious groups.

Poling says this unique project comes at a time when people are seeking information on other religions.

"CHURCH ATTENDANCE is lower," he says, "but interest in religion is high and getting higher, in terms of ethics and in terms of such questions as, 'Who's my daughter going to marry?'"

The medals, which are one and three-quarter inches in diameter, will sell for $4.50 apiece in the bronze series, $20 apiece in the silver series and $40 apiece in the gold-filled series.

The bronze series will be unlimited while the silver series will be limited to 5,000 numbered medals and the gold-filled series to 500.

The project serves both the world's religions, which are reaping the spiritual profits, and the Presidential Art Medal Company of Vandalia, Ohio, which is producing the medals, reaping the monetary gains along with Menconi and Poling.

Poling says the project has already yielded one dividend in the cooperation he has received from religious figures all over the world.

"There were three reasons that something like this has never been done before," he says. "It was hard to get anyone to sit down to decide to do it, nobody would have been able to underwrite it and it would have been difficult to overcome rivalries if the project were started by a particular group."

The medals, he contends, "bring alive the symbolism and history of the faith and the series enables, almost forces, the exposure and study of religions other than one's own."

The Lighter Side

Why Not Recall Troublesome Suits?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The menswear branch of the garment industry has fallen upon difficult times, with suit production down about 18 per cent this far this year and many retail stores holding "going out of business" sales.

Trade publications attribute the slump to a combination of factors, including competition from imported clothing and a trend toward more casual dress. But I doubt these are the main causes.

If you trace the trouble back to its true origin, I think you will find that the undoing of the menswear business was the introduction of the Nehru jacket.

Prior to that regrettable development, the relationship between man and tailor had been pure, and good, and beautiful.

A MAN COULD enter a clothing store secure in the knowledge that anything he purchased could be worn with peace of mind until it became frayed or too tight in the waist.

The Nehru jacket, alas, changed all of that. For the first time in the history of habilitation, the garment industry foisted upon man an out-and-out-lemon.

Thus did the relationship between man and tailor fester and corrode, soon taking on the aspects of the relationship between man and car dealer.

Upon entering a clothing store, man now becomes wary and timorous. Shown an item of apparel, perhaps one of the double knit suits being featured this season, he performs the vestral equivalent of kicking the tires, and likely as not sidles out unsold.

What the menswear industry is up against obviously is a crisis of confidence like that which beset the auto industry during the era of the Edsel.

Auto makers, you'll recall, overcame consumer trepidations by offering five-year warranties, and the menswear industry might be well advised to try a similar remedy.

IF, FOR EXAMPLE, a man bought a pair of cuffless trousers and the style changed while the warranty was still in force, the store would recall the pants and cuff them free.

A pegged trouser warranty would protect him against being the only man at the party not wearing bell-bottoms. The narrow lapel warranty would cover a zoot suit comeback. The double knit warranty would apply during a blue serge renaissance. Without it all the work and expense of making your yard habitable is wasted come sundown.

A patio and a well-planned yard ought to include adequate outdoor circuits. This will make them not only usable but safe.

Keep safety in mind when you plan your lighting. Paths, drives and steps should be given priority when planning lights. Steps, obviously take precedence over everything.

Any area near the house that is used frequently should have some light. Moving from the bright indoor lights to the blackness of the outdoors is especially dangerous since it takes time for your eyes to adjust to the change.

Remember that dark paving and grass areas require more light than light-colored concrete areas.

YOUR JOB WILL be easier if you plan it on paper first. Mark off the paths and the areas that get used the most. Check them after dark. Some may not need light since they may benefit from street lights.

Outdoor lighting is best installed close to the ground or well above it. Lights at eye level cause glare that make them almost useless.

Lights above eye level should be 10 to 20 feet off the ground. So that large areas will be lighted, use floodlamps or bulbs in flood reflectors. Use weather-proof sockets and floodlamps with weather-resistant glass. Before making any installation permanent, arrange the lights so that lighted areas overlap.

While you are probably thinking in terms of posts for overhead lights, don't forget they can be mounted on the sides of buildings and in trees.

Low-level lights can be installed by way of fixtures that sit right in the ground but also can be mounted along the low part of a wall or the bottom rail of a fence. Use waterproof fixtures and use reflectors that will avoid glare from above and will focus the light on the ground. Low-level lights should be used along small paths and steps.

If you lack an outdoor outlet, this will have to be remedied first. Best thing to do is have an electrician install a separately fused circuit especially for your outdoor needs.

CABLE IS THEN RUN from this and through the wall in metal conduit to a waterproof splice box. From this more conduit is run for either underground or overhead wiring.

Most local codes permit burial of underground cable. Check with your local building department. The special underground cable should still be enclosed in conduit where it enters and leaves the ground. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like some information on endometriosis. I was told I had it five years ago. Since then, I have had many conflicting reports. One doctor tells me its complications may be fatal or lead to mental illness, if I don't have surgery very soon. Another says it's nothing to worry about as long as I can stand the pain. How can I know what to believe or a way to obtain correct information? I do not want an unnecessary hysterectomy. Is there another treatment?

Dear Reader — First let me explain to you exactly what endometriosis is. The uterus or womb is normally lined with special cells we call the endometrium. These cells undergo changes to prepare for the fertilized ovum to locate and begin the process of pregnancy. If a pregnancy doesn't occur the cells slough off and menstruation occurs. Sometimes these same cells are displaced to other parts of the body, including the ovaries, tubes or even in remote locations.

Just before the ovum begins its journey to the womb with each month's cycle the endometrium in the uterus becomes engorged with blood and increases in size. The displaced cells, wherever they are, do the same thing. If there is a collection of cells in one or both tubes the swelling can cause pressure and severe pain. Pain can also be caused if the endometrial cells are in one or both ovaries.

The ovaries are very sensitive and the swelling causes pressure and pain. Sometimes it is necessary to have an operation to preserve the function of the ovaries or to provide relief from severe pain.

Displaced endometrial tissue can even cause bleeding. This has been offered as an explanation for bleeding from the palms of hands in religious figures said to bleed "in sympathy" for the nails in the hands of Christ.

There probably have been a lot of unnecessary operations to remove the uterus (hysterectomy) for endometriosis. Surgery is indicated in some cases and it may be necessary to remove the ovaries. Others can be treated with hormones and after the menopause the problem disappears.

I don't think you are going to die from it — that would be a most unusual complication and you needn't worry about losing your mind either. This doesn't rule out the possibility that your particular case may need surgery now or at some time later, but certainly not for the reasons you mentioned.

Mobile Office Comes To Consumers

by TOM VON MALDER

There's a strange noise in the furnace and the housewife calls a repairman. He replaces the worn out filter, but then convinces the housewife she is lucky the furnace has not blown up. She contracts for a new furnace.

If this were a con game and the furnace were sound, it would be a case for the State's Attorney's Fraud and Consumer Complaint Office.

Many people would not report such a case though. They would accept the role of victim because of the bother it would take to lodge a complaint and testify at the state's attorney office, 26th Street and California Avenue, Chicago.

For his reason, the state's attorney's office has created a mobile office for the Fraud and Consumer Complaint Division. The new unit, in operation one week, has already appeared at the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect, and next week will again be in the area.

The schedule for the week will be:

—Monday, Arlington Market Shopping Center, Kensington Road and Dryden Avenue, Arlington Heights, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

—Tuesday, Mount Prospect Shopping Plaza, Rand and Central roads, Mount Prospect, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

—Thursday, Paddock Publications, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

ASST. STATE'S ATTY. Michael Simkin, who was at Randhurst Monday and Tuesday, said the main purpose of the mobile unit is to process individual complaints and refer them to another office or some relevant agency.

"Some 40 people stopped in Monday," Simkin said. "Thirty-three were referred to our central office and our two regional offices. Some just came with questions."

He explained the state's attorney's office only have criminal authority in certain areas.

"Our main objective is criminal prosecution. We are not the state collection agency."

The most frequent type cases they handle, he said, are bad checks and stolen credit cards; misapplication of home down payments; and home improvement complaints — as in the example of the unnecessary furnace.

Some of the problems brought to the unit Monday involved escrow money cases, bad checks, deceptive advertising, title problems with car dealerships, and contracts for work which is never performed.

Officials Ask MSD Land For Housing Project

The Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) board of trustees Wednesday found itself facing a suburban request for land on which to construct low-cost housing.

Several residents and public officials of Evanston asked the board for five parcels of MSD land for the construction of 17 units of low cost housing.

The property, near McCormick Boulevard in the North Shore suburb, is currently under consideration as a possible site for work on a proposed deep tunnel project.

Ben Sosewitz, MSD general superintendent, told the group that, at the present time, he could not commit the district on whether the property would be used.

He told the group, however, he would be happy to meet further with them or with the entire Evanston City Council to discuss the matter.

THE EVANSTON representatives explained the city was committed to low-cost housing construction and that the MSD lands had become "crucial." They explained lands owned by the elementary school district had been considered for a possible site.

Sosewitz said the deep tunnel project, to cost between $750 million and 1.25 billion, might require the sites for a tunnel shaft. He said final results of a study should be available by Dec. 24.

He said he might later say "yes" to their request if it would not delay the deep tunnel project or cost the taxpayers money.

Sosewitz further explained MSD, state and county officials are discussing the deep tunnel project, before presenting proposals to the federal government for help in funding.

Danish Gymnasts To Perform At YMCA

For an evening of entertainment, area families should set aside July 6th to see the Naskov Danish National Team perform at the Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Twenty young men and women 9 to 22 years old will demonstrate a variety of gymnastics skills. Nine of these outstanding youngsters are on the National Junior or Senior Boys teams. They are led by Ole Bessedtkson, a top national competitor.

The program begins at 8 p.m. and tickets are on sale at the "Y," 300 E. Northwest Highway, Des Plaines. The "Y" is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily and Saturdays. Tickets are limited and available for $1.50 per adult and 75 cents per student under 16 years of age.

"The mobile unit gives people an opportunity to find out what they can do with their problems," the assistant state's attorney said. "This is the state's attorney's closest contact with the people in a non-prosecuting role."

SIMKIN OUTLINED the procedure used for a fraud complaint case. The person with the complaint must go to the Chicago office or one of the two branch offices and fill out a form listing his name and address and the name of the person and company with whom he has a complaint. The complaint must be against an individual and his address must be given.

This is because a letter is sent asking all parties to attend a hearing. At this hearing, it is decided whether or not a criminal warrant should be issued. Once a warrant is recommended, the case is forwarded to the proper court.

Simkin said this takes from two weeks to a month. "Although many cases turn out just to be misunderstandings," he said.

The two district offices are at 9333 Lincoln St., Skokie, 673-1272; and 7166 N.

Milwaukee Ave., Niles, 647-732. The Chicago's office telephone number is 542-3066.

'Local' Service For Taxpayers

The past year has been one of dramatic change for the governmental mechanism used to generate property taxes in Cook County.

Of the four county agencies involved in the taxing process, the controversial office of County Assessor P. J. Cullerton has been the setting for the most significant revisions. Two other offices — the county clerk and the county treasurer — also have implemented some changes aimed at stepping up efficiency.

In the midst of the changing taxing picture emerges a recurring conception of better service to taxpayers, especially those in suburban areas. The apparent trend is towards making it easier for property owners to fulfill the requirements imposed by local taxing districts. Changes such as Cullerton's Office of Taxpayer Assistance, direct mail tax payments and individual notification of quadrennial property reassessments support the hope that the county is genuinely attempting to rectify a host of long-standing problems.

An in-depth look by the Herald last week into the taxing process uncovered yet another problem area.

While laudible efforts are being made to help residents pay their tax bills, nothing has been done to simplify the means by which a disgruntled homeowner protests his assessment.

Current regulations require the appellant to file in-person a formal protest with the Board of (tax) Appeals during a specified 10-day period each year. After awaiting notification of the time and date of his hearing, the homeowner must return to the board's offices armed with an array of evidence supporting the contention his property is over-assessed.

The procedural difficulties serve to discourage the average homeowner from exercising his right of appeal. Both filing and appearing before the board require lengthy trips to the County Building in Chicago's Loop. While an inconvenience to many suburban residents, the long commutes are virtually an impossibility for the elderly and infirm.

Furthermore, the County Building is somewhat alien to the average suburban resident. The prospect of pleading one's case before a quasi-judicial body is frightening enough without having to be subjected to the ever-present confusion characterizing the seat of Cook County government.

The official recourse for suburban taxpayers unhappy with their property assessments needs to be placed within easier reach. It seems this accessibility could be provided if the Board of Appeals established procedures similar to those of other county bodies. For example, the Zoning Board of Appeals conducts its hearings on a "circuit" of townships in suburban areas.

Similarly, the Circuit Court holds traffic court in suburban communities and has subdivided its jurisdiction among five suburban court districts.

In addition, plans have been under study to decentralize the County Assessor's office in an effort to provide taxpayers with "local" service by setting up suburban offices.

In light of these facts, it appears worthwhile for the county to examine the possibility of decentralizing the appeals procedure. For example, local offices might be set up where homeowners could file their appeals. Or provisions could be made for appealing by mail.

In addition, the board could conduct its hearings on a township-by-township basis, similar to the procedure used by the zoning board.

We recognize implementation of these recommendations is not as easy as it might appear. The appeals board is composed of only two elected members who must hear thousands of cases each year.

And legislative action would be required to provide necessary statutory authority for revising filing and hearing procedures.

Yet, the long road to bringing about these changes would be well worth the effort if it corrected the flaws in the appeals system. And with the current inclination towards better local service through decentralization, it seems appropriate for the county to include the Board of Appeals in its plans.

We Need Your Help!

The Herald today publishes the names of the first "dollar donors" to its emergency fund appeal in behalf of The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center.

The Center is the only full-time professional family service agency available to residents of Northwest suburbs. It now faces a financial crisis so serious that it will be forced to consider eliminating service to this area unless the means is found to meet a $15,000 deficit.

The Center is all our suburbs have to offer troubled families. And we're going to lose it — unless all our communities recognize and respond to this urgent need.

We need your help.

One dollar seems a modest price to place on the value of strengthening and preserving family life in our suburbs. But if enough people support this effort with their dollar donations, the Center can be saved.

Send your dollar today — to the Herald "Center Fund," P. O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

July 4: A Day For Reaffirmation

by DON OAKLEY

It was 185 years ago that liberty was first proclaimed "throughout all the land and unto all the inhabitants thereof."

The proclaiming of a free and independent United States was one thing; the attaining of it was quite another matter.

Less than two months after the signing of the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia, the War of Independence began in earnest.

The largest overseas invasion force Great Britain had ever mounted struck at Washington's army on Long Island in the first large-scale, set-piece confrontation of the war.

That battle and the subsequent British invasion of Manhattan Island were two American disasters. For Washington and his perpetually undermanned, undertrained, under-equipped and underfed army there began five long years of retreat and hit-and-run strategy which ultimately brought victory.

The last set-piece confrontation of the war at Yorktown in October, 1781, was a British disaster. Independence was won.

It was to be another eight years, however, until 1789, before the form of the newly independent United States was established with the adoption of the Constitution and the election of the first president and first Congress. Now at last men could say the Revolution was complete.

But it was just not political independence that had been proclaimed in 1776, it was liberty. Just as independence from Britain was unfinished business on July 4, 1776, this matter of liberty is unfinished business on July 4, 1971.

Life, liberty, the pursuit of happiness — these are heady ideas. Such things are not guaranteed by the winning of a war or the writing of a constitution. They are not realized once and for all time. Each succeeding generation has its own definition of what they mean, and each generation must do its own winning of them anew.

That is why July 4th is so much more than the official birthday of the United States of America. The Declaration of Independence is more than just a national birth certificate. It is a promise the original patriots made to themselves and their posterity.

Don Oakley

That promise comes up for reassessment and renewal today, as it has on every July 4th for the past 194 years, and as it will on every July 4th to come.

Socialism Wrong National Direction For U.S.

A recent Herald article asked for a sense of national direction, and criticized our national leaders for not providing such direction. Though specifics were avoided, I thought I detected a desire for more socialist reforms. May I present the opposite viewpoint:

Norman Thomas (six times Socialist Party candidate for the Presidency of the United States) has stated, "The United States is making greater strides towards socialism under Eisenhower than even under Roosevelt." These strides towards socialism have continued at a even more rapid pace with each new administration since that time. Our nation is now a gigantic bureaucracy, employing over fourteen million people, or about one-fifth of the total employable population of our country. The taxpayer pays for this not only with his income tax payments, but with each purchase he makes. It is the consumer that pays the huge corporation taxes which sometimes amount to over 50 per cent of the corporation's profit.

To add to the mess, our unions are asking for higher wages, and getting them, even though more and more workers are losing their jobs. It should be emphasized that unions do NOT help the economy. They only increase the standards of living of those that belong to that particular union, at the expense of everyone else. In their zeal to raise the wages of just a few, and thus make a good showing, they often eliminate jobs for many, as was the case with the milk drivers who used to deliver to homes. Another example is the radio and television industry which now purchases almost all their component parts from Japan because labor costs are cheaper there. This has eliminated many jobs in the United States.

Contrary to popular belief, American industry is not strong and wealthy. Most companies cannot afford to even design and tool new products, and engineers are walking the streets or doing other menial tasks. Unless something is done in this area, there will be a complete economic collapse, and even our government will not be able to help us.

There was a time when our government could only print paper money that was backed by gold or silver. Now that this is a thing of the past, we can expect to have dollar bills printed as fast as the presses will roll and inflation will continue at a more rapid pace.

Our national direction should be to try to return to the rules of the game as they existed in the so-called horse and buggy days. These rules enabled us to grow very rapidly into the richest nation on earth. With our industrial know-how and modern technology, we can even make greater strides today. All that needs to be done is to put government back into its proper place as the servant of the people and not its master. Also, everyone should have the right to be gainfully employed without any restrictions from government or from unions, regardless of age, race, or sex. Ability should be the only criterion.

Reports Lawn Chemicals 'Hazardous'

On Friday June 18, in your "Garden Talk" advertising section, I was discouraged to note a recommendation of three chlorinated hydrocarbons to be used on the lawn. Chlordane, dieldrin and aldrin are persistent, accumulative and very toxic to a wide range of organisms, including humans. Once they are released into the environment they cannot be confined to a target species.

Last March, William D. Ruckelshaus, E.P.A. administrator, said his agency had issued notices of cancellation for dieldrin and aldrin because of their tendency to build up in the fatty tissue of animals.

Unfortunately your advertisers did not mention the potential hazard to children running barefoot in the lawn or the family pet who suffers silently and dies slowly. It is deplorable that "truth in advertising" cannot be extended to cover insecticides such as these. If pests are present, or humans or pets, chlordane, dieldrin or aldrin when used are harmful to all.

Trail Joy Discovery

We recently visited some relatives in Ardmore, Pa., and had an opportunity to use "bike trails" maintained by a municipal park district. Our entire family enjoyed the outing on the safe, well-maintained trails which were also scenic and carefully laid out.

It was such an enjoyable experience for all of us in the family — adults as well as youngsters — that I was reminded of your articles suggesting similar "bike trails" for our area.

Having just experienced "first-hand" the advantage of such facility, I would encourage the village to establish trails here.

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER
UPI Business Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kevin Batchelor, an industrial engineering major from Narbeth, Pa., had 17 job interviews on the Lafayette College campus this year and sent out 12 resumes.

"I received 29 rejections," said Kevin. "They just don't have a place for us. It's a shame on society, because we're well prepared."

That's the job boat many June graduates are in today.

The College Placement Council at Bethlehem, Pa., reveals that job pickings are slimmer this summer than the 23 per cent decline it had predicted in December. The number of 1971 graduates hired so far is off at least 26 per cent from 1970, a year which had dropped sharply from the 1969 figure when college graduates could pick and choose.

One surprise was the market in federal government jobs. It had been expected to drop sharply. Instead, it declined only 1 per cent.

While not exactly happy about the situation, Elbridge H. Cummings, Lafayette's director of placement, sees some light at the end of the job tunnel. He feels the job crisis could have a beneficial effect.

"Businesses have trimmed the 'fat,' they've built up the efficiency of operations," he said.

Nobody likes a complainer, you say? Wrong.

When you have auto insurance troubles, says one industry group, your insurance company wants you to complain! And to prove it, the association has provided instructions on how to complain, and to whom, in order to get results.

"Complaints can be helpful. They often let us see what went wrong in our training program," explains the president of one company in the American Mutual Insurance Alliance.

Most complaints fall into one of four categories. The current Journal of American Insurance, an AIA publication, takes up the problems one by one.

• Policy not renewed. Start with your local agent. The explanation may be that he has switched to another company or for other reasons is no longer servicing your policy.

Nonrenewal may also be due to a company's decision to withdraw from an area because of high losses or inadequate rates.

Finally, nonrenewal may have been "for cause." This means the insurance company doesn't like you for some reason. In most states an insurer is required to provide an explanation, if the policyholder requests it, in writing.

If you've had too many accidents or been in traffic court too often, there's not much you can do except look around for a more sympathetic company or coverage in a state plan.

Policies sometimes aren't renewed "for cause," because of a policyholder's unsatisfactory credit rating. If you learn that's the reason and think it's unjustified, you have a right to know the name of the credit rating bureau and to look at your file and correct any misinformation in it.

• Cancellation of policy. Most complaints about "cancellation" are actually about nonrenewal. A cancellation, during the term of a policy, is now rare, since most states have noncancellation laws. Generally, you'll be cancelled only for failure to pay your premium or because your license or registration has been revoked or suspended.

• Delays in settlement of claims. A certain amount of delay is unavoidable. Claims have to be investigated thoroughly. You can help speed settlement by providing adjusters with all pertinent details.

• Difficulty in getting insurance. Drivers labeled poor risks can always get coverage in the Automobile Insurance Plan — the "pool" — that all states have.

Honeywell Facility Cited In Factory Magazine

Honeywell's new Arlington Heights facility has been named one of the country's 10 outstanding industrial plants by FACTORY magazine.

The Top Ten awards are featured in the current issue of the magazine.

The selection was made after screening thousands of entries in the magazine's 1971 competition.

In making the award, FACTORY cited the quarter-million-square-foot Honeywell plant "for a variety of excellent features: A modular plant layout, a master plan for future expansion (part of which has already begun), excellent employee facilities and an in-floor conveyor system that interconnects the entire plant. However, the most unusual feature is the electronic communications equipment used. A variety of devices enable plant personnel to monitor and control building services and security with a minimum effort and expense."

The Honeywell plant was the only one in the Chicago area to be honored.

Located at the intersection of highway 53 and Dundee Road, the Honeywell plant manufactures a wide range of building automation and security equipment for the company's Commercial division. Heading up the facility is Robert W. Moe, vice president of operations for the division; facilities manager is Harvey Stein. Moe lives at 3829 Brittany, Northbrook, Stein at 7402 North Kildare, Skokie.

The plant has just completed a 75,000-square-foot addition, and is working on a 2-story engineering and research center slated for completion this November.

Architects for the Honeywell plant were Graham, Anderson, Probst & White of Chicago; contractors were Miller-Davis of Chicago.

Grass, Shrub Sprinkling Caused Water Shortages

A long, hot summer usually means a shortage of water for many towns in the Northwest suburbs.

People are not taking many more baths, flushing their toilets more or drinking great quantities of lemonade.

Nor is construction of new apartment complexes and roads to blame. Grass and shrubs. That's where the water is going. On hot summer days, especially if there is no shade, lawns and shrubs burn up quickly. And to prevent this, most suburban homeowners water them down as heavily as they can, so their lawns stay green instead of brown.

SPRINKLING BANS affected four area towns this week. In Palatine, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights.

Most area towns have restricted sprinkling ordinances in which homeowners can only sprinkle every other day. One method is for even numbered addresses to sprinkle on even numbered days of the month and odd numbered addresses on odd numbered days.

In Palatine a sprinkling ban went into effect last Thursday and remains in effect, despite weekend rains. The ban was imposed because of a shortage of water and declining water pressure, so now residents are not allowed to water their lawns from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. Hopefully, according to Village Manager Bert Braun, the ban is just temporary.

A ban in Mount Prospect, which went into effect last week, was lifted Tuesday, for residents living south of Golf Road. No other part of the village was affected, but Acting Village Mgr. John Zimmerman said lifting the ban may just be temporary.

Zimmerman hinted that a permanent situation may be set up in which residents in this area may water their lawns every other day.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS has already experienced two sprinkling bans this year because people used more water than the village could supply.

L. A. Hanson, village manager, said residents could also expect periodic bans throughout the summer. One ban came in May and another, which went into effect last week, has been lifted.

The solution is a simple one: Expand the village water supply. But to do this, new wells have to be dug. These cost money, and even then there is no guarantee they will not be depleted. Hanson said although bans are blamed on this year's dry spring, residents use up to 12 million gallons a day in a town with only a 7-million-gallon storage capacity.

It is a seasonal problem and water shortages are nonexistent in the winter, when only four million gallons a day serves the domestic, recreational and fire needs of Arlington Heights.

Hanson said even with new wells, it isn't necessarily a permanent solution and that the only guaranteed supply would come from Lake Michigan. But to channel water from the lake to the Northwest suburbs would be costly, he said.

IN HOFFMAN ESTATES Monday an ordinance was passed continuing a ban on water there except for sanitary and drinking purposes.

The only exception will be made for persons who apply for a special permit to sprinkle new lawns and new shrubbery for two hours every day.

Persons requesting a special permit must produce receipts showing proof of money spent for the new plantings. Residents violating the ban are subject to a fine up to $100 for each violation.

Major cause of the problem in Hoffman Estates was a well which was only operating at 40 per cent capacity. And now it has been shut down for repairs, which are expected to take two weeks.

Apartment residents were interested in seeing the ban maintained to prevent a repeat of severe water pressure problems experienced last week.

No water was available at times during that period for even drinking, bathing and toilets, at Moon Lake Village and Hilldale Village apartment complexes.

Lunch-O-Ree Raises $11,000

Over 200 attended a $30-a-plate luncheon Thursday to benefit the Northwest Suburban Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

George K. Myers, regional scout executive, said the first annual Industrial Utility "Lunch-O-Ree" had raised $11,000 to help finance scout activities in the Northwest suburbs.

Mal Bellairs, well-known Chicago area radio personality, emceed the luncheon, which featured a special appearance by academy award winners Joan Fontaine and Ray Milland.

Chicago Bears quarterback Bobby Douglas was also on hand to lend his support to the fund-raising effort.

A Milwaukee businessman, James R. Neidhoefer, chairman of the Scouts' Region Seven, which includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin, was the guest speaker.

HE ALSO TALKED briefly about "Boy Power '76," a scout recruitment drive aimed at involving one-third of the nation's youth in scout programs by 1976.

Neidhoefer said scouting helped young people to "develop the skill and confidence needed to master America's future."

The suburban council has 17,000 member scouts.

A. C. Buehler, chairman of the board of the Victor Comptometer Corp. of Chicago, received a special "Good Scout" award from Harold Byron Smith, Northwest Suburban Chapter President.

The award was accepted by Buehler's son, A. C. Buehler Jr.

After presentation of the special award, Douglas fielded questions from the luncheon audience.

"Is it true the Bear's management is more generous salary-wise than other clubs in the league?" one businessman asked.

"Not to my knowledge," Douglas responded with a grin.

The six-foot-four-inch quarterback from Kansas was forced to sit out the final quarter of last season due to an injury to his left wrist.

Milland and Miss Fontaine are in rehearsal for a new play, "Relatively Speaking," which opens July 1 at the Arlington Park Theatre.

IT'S A NEW DAY, a new kind of scouting when north-west suburban Girl Scouts bring day camp to inner-city children, blocking off streets and carrying on their program right on the concrete. As many as 200 children participate in one day. This is the third summer the "extra mile" caravans have been held. Caravans also go to trailer camps for one-day sessions with the children there.

Girl Scouts, Then And Now

Shedding The Goody-Goody Image

by ELEANOR RIVES
(Last of two parts)

Juliette, Juliette, wherefore art thou? Your flower children, the green-clad Girl Scouts of America, are doing things you never dreamed of.

But what they are doing is the "today" expression of the tenets Juliette Gordon Low believed in, as set down in the Girl Scout laws when she founded the organization in 1912.

In Knoxville, Tenn., Girl Scouts are involved in Awareness House, a youth center for preventing and eliminating drug abuse.

A Girl Scout field supervisor on Chicago's Southwest Side sponsored a drug seminar in her area. Another South Side leader lets her Girl Scouts take lessons in Civil Defense rather than work on nature badges.

GIRLS THROUGHOUT the nation are fighting mad about pollution, about poverty, about prejudice. They are talking about war, population, and sex rather than studying the stars and learning to lay campfires.

Are the girls and adults in the "protected" northwest suburbs unaffected by the new "with-it" look of Girl Scouts? Not on your little gold trefoil, they're not.

Mrs. Robert Paris, executive director of the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County said, "There will be more changes in Girl Scouting in the next few years than there have been in the last 50. The national organization says to leaders, "Go ahead, experiment, try it."

Sue Helderman, public relations director of the council, said, "We must look at each girl as an individual. Her interest becomes primary. What do the kids want? It's their organization and we darn better not forget it!"

THE COUNCIL HAS been sifting standards and policies, giving a new flexibility to the entire structure, loosening specifics for adult leaders. A cardinal rule: Girl Scouting must be girl-planned, not adult-planned.

Mrs. Chester Polad, president of the council, said, "A few years ago we realized we had to listen to our Girl Scouts — not only listen, but hear. We're trying to make the program relevant to the changing times. We changed our by-laws to include two girls on the Board of Directors, and to include girls on the four standing committees. Our workshops and conferences today are designed to help leaders bridge the generation gap."

HOW IS THIS attitude reflected in troop activities?

In Des Plaines, 40 Cadette Girl Scouts (7th, 8th and 9th graders) attended a seminar on drug abuse at Forest Hospital.

In Rolling Meadows, the pollution predicament had its impact on Brownies (second and third graders). Brownie Troop 265 collected and sold scrap glass, bought a crabapple and planted it in the Plum Grove-Countryside playground. "We exchanged pollution for a tree," said one little girl.

Cadette Troop 212 in Mount Prospect has carried its war on pollution a step further. Twice a year they traverse two miles on the 30-mile Illinois Prairie Path along an obsolete railroad track, clearing away such elephantine litter as TVs, bicycles, even 30-gallon hot water tanks. They have put in benches and a weather station, too.

IN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Senior Girl Scouts in a Wing Troop are learning to fly, to teach ground school classes, to judge aerobatic competition. Some of the girls are helping the Experimental Aircraft Association build a plane.

Cadettes in Palatine didn't sit quietly painting pretty pictures; they got out and painted the fire hydrants.

In Hoffman Estates, Girl Scouts assisted the Jaycees in their "Do Something" drive.

In Palatine, two Junior troops (fourth, fifth and sixth graders) are specifically designed to meet the needs of educable mentally handicapped girls.

Twenty northwest suburban troops supplied peanut butter and jelly sandwiches to kids on the "Hunger Hike."

A DAY CAMP session in Busse Woods, directed by Mrs. Warren Reuter of Arlington Heights, has, for the first time, extended a welcome to both mentally handicapped girls and all other girls, whether scouts or not.

And there are opportunities for Girl Scout Seniors (high school age) as never before. Denise Sargol of Palatine is one of six United States scouts going to a work camp in France to help restore a village. Senior Troop 64 of Des Plaines is going to England this summer. Patti Molloy of Mount Prospect will attend "Standing Room Only, '71" — a drama event at York College of Pennsylvania, York, Pa. Older Cadettes and Seniors are preparing now for a geology buff's dream, a 1972 summer sojourn at the new national Girl Scout Center in Ten Sleep, Wyo.

BUT PERHAPS THE project that scouts in the northwest suburbs have found most relevant, are most thrilled and excited about, is the "extra-mile" program, now in its third year. It is a two-fisted, two-faceted project to bring the joys of camping and scouting to underprivileged youth.

In one phase, urban girls from the Cabrini-Green Housing Project are brought out to Northwest Cook's day camps, not as guests but as participants in the summer activities. A "reverse" day camp is planned for this summer, in which 40 northwest suburban scouts will attend the day camp of the urban scouts, held in Valparaiso, Ind.

In the other phase of the "extra-mile" program, Senior Girl Scouts pack up a bus with supplies and take their caravan "day camp" right into the inner city, blocking off streets and entertaining as many as 200 children in a day.

PATTI MOLLOY DESCRIBED last summer's caravan as follows:

"We loaded the truck each day with thermoses, arts and crafts materials, Kool-aid, guitars, cookies and anything else we could think of. We decided in advance what crafts to do — like egg-carton flowers, or berry baskets. The simplest things were gorgeous to those kids. One day we made yarn braids and an adorable skinny little boy took his home. Next day the braids were holding up his pants."

THE GIRLS TAUGHT the children to start each day with their own flag ceremony. Once a week they made ice cream. "They loved it; some of them had never tasted it before," said Patti.

The last day of each two-week session, they had a cookout right on the street with makeshift grills and charcoal. The older boys tended the fire; the older girls did the cooking.

"The other days we passed out government lunches," she explained, then added, "It's funny, but there were always more children around lunch time! One little girl pointed to her peach and asked me what it was."

Patti Molloy is one Girl Scout who couldn't care less about camping. She loves people and drama, in that order, and numbers herself as one of those who hope to change the Girl Scout image.

"WE REALLY NEED this new type scouting," she said. "We should stop picturing Girl Scouts as real goody-goody. They're really the best rounded girls I've ever known."

Barbara Hayes of Mount Prospect has been involved with the "extra-mile" caravans for two summers and found the program tremendously satisfying. "The suburbs are a cloistered world," she said. "Just hearing about life in the inner city is nothing like seeing it. I was inside one of those dreary homes. The children just aren't used to nutritious food. The government lunches we passed out were better food than they had ever had."

She added thoughtfully, "Scouting is changing for the better. We're no longer just 'cookie pushers.' The things we do are relevant to 'now'."

CATHY GREEN of Senior Troop 1, Palatine dropped out of scouting some years ago — "because it was dippy, just campouts and more campouts. It just didn't appeal to me."

But the caravan program brought her back. "I found out that Girl Scouting can be an active thing," she said. "More than just campfires. Girl Scouts are just as concerned about 'today' as any other group, only they're doing something about it. They're taking an active part in brotherhood, black and white."

"Kids today are sick of the old ways. We want no part of the goody-goody image. We want to be involved in life today, not in a bunch of hokey-pokey stuff."

SUBURBAN LIVING

MAKING ROPE BELTS is a new experience for these youngsters and working with inner-city children is a new experience for Senior Scouts. The "extra mile" program explores ways to "uninsulate" the suburban Girl Scout.

Harriet Hall Of Des Plaines

One Step Into Theater

by GENIE CAMPBELL

An Illinois Wesleyan theater major returned to her hometown of Des Plaines after graduation in February and immediately landed a leading theatrical role, brushing shoulders on stage with well known established actors.

This could be an eloquent beginning to a fairy tale success story. Yet promises are difficult to fulfill in theater. No one can guarantee a tomorrow and Harriet Hall knows this most of all.

Not having let herself escape into an actor's dream world, Harriet is in fact humble about her role in "Another Part of the Forest" now finishing its run at the Ivanhoe Theatre in Chicago.

"IT WAS CERTAINLY an incredible break," she smiled, "and I was extremely fortunate. But the theater is all very tentative. You always have to be concerned with what you're going to do next. Because you can only survive as an actor if you work consecutively."

"No producer comes out of the audience and sweeps you off your feet," she laughed. "You slowly gain the respect of people in the business and make contacts."

In the Ivanhoe production, Harriet is Regina, selfish, cunning young woman whose charm is regulated like a faucet turning on only to manipulate her friends and family.

After auditioning for two other roles in the play, Harriet was asked to read Regina's lines.

"I HADN'T BEEN prepared at all," she said in looking back to the day of auditions. I ended up getting my equity card the same day I started rehearsing.

"Regina is an extremely demanding role," continued Harriet. "I don't really like her and on stage I force myself to become that bitch. Physically and mentally it's a strain."

Presently Harriet is auditioning for several future roles.

"You have to condition yourself to not getting a part and consider it good experience if nothing else," said Harriet. "Everyone desperately wants the part. You must go in and just do the best job you can."

PLANS ARE uncertain for Harriet. Perhaps one of the auditions will be the beginning of a new role. Meanwhile like many young actors and actresses trying to get a firm foot in the door of theater, Harriet is supplementing her income with commercial work.

"I don't have the aspiration to be a Broadway or movie star," said Harriet. "I'm primarily concerned with remaining in theatrical situations in which I can develop and learn," she added.

"I don't know what will happen. The first thing, of course, is to keep working if at all possible. If nothing comes up I'm seriously thinking about getting a van and traveling awhile."

In "Another Part of the Forest" Harriet plays opposite such familiar stars as Larry Gates, John McGavin and Nancy Coleman. Friendships have formed.

"At first I was very aware of who they were," she said. "I kept thinking... this is professional theater and I'm here. It was all very exciting."

"BUT NOW I'VE gained more confidence and feel as though we're all on the same level," she said. "You can't do 'Another Part of the Forest' selfishly. You are so dependent on the people working with you. It is really a give and take situation. I am just as concerned about other people's scenes as my own," she said.

"I've never had a long run like she continued, "and it does at times become exhausting. However, it's exciting because there is still always room to grow."

Halfway through the run of "Another Part of the Forest" Harriet decided to change the manner in which she played one scene.

"It's satisfying to know you are still growing and learning new things," she said.

A GRADUATE OF Maine West High School, Miss Hall was mostly a character actress in college.

"I played rough kinds of people," she said, "but in professional theater they cast you the way you look because they can always find the right person to look the part. In college it's different because everyone is the same age." Regina is about the first ingenue role I have played.

"I have tried some comedy and it is extremely invaluable to know you can make somebody laugh. I am glad to have this spectrum in acting. Versatility is very important."

WITH THE CRACK of her quip, Joeh Rivers checks into the Mill Run Theater in Niles Tuesday through Sunday, July 4.

by Mary B. Good

Reports from the community gardening project indicate trouble with the squash bug and striped cucumber beetle. Many of the insects that attack squash are the same pests that zero in on cucumbers, pumpkins, and other cucurbits.

The adult squash bug is a dingy, blackish-brown 5/8 inch long pest, newly hatched it has a red head and legs and green body. It stinks when crushed.

Handpick, when possible. Next time, remember to companion plant with radishes, nasturtiums, or marigolds in the hills.

Sprinkle plants with black pepper to repel squash vine borers. Choosing resistant varieties, such as butternut squash, helps prevent the onslaught.

BACTERIAL WILT is a disease spread by the striped or 12-spotted cucumber beetle. As the beetles feed, their droppings contain the bacillus which falls on the wounds they made in feeding. If you suspect bacterial wilt, cut across a stem and squeeze it to press out some of the plant juices. Touch the juice to your finger and slowly move your finger away. Juice from a healthy plant will not string out. But that from a diseased one will be sticky and stringy. Once a plant has bacterial wilt, there is no cure. The only answer is to control the cucumber beetles. Remove and destroy wilted plants found early in the season.

For bud infestations of the cucumber beetle, mix a handful of wood ashes and a handful of hydrated lime in two gallons of water. Be sure to hit both sides of the leaves.

GARDEN CLUBBER Marilyn Wachsmuth of Arlington Heights reports that the squirt solution of Basic H (a Shalkee soap product) kills black caterpillar — the furliest kind that hatches in tents, on trees, and bushes. These monsters are notorious for gorging on rose leaves. One teaspoon (and only one) dropped on them zap. If birds are inclined to lunch on them — don't worry — it's non-toxic. From Rose Grower Magazine: Use one gallon of water, pour one tablespoon of Basic H into the water. Spray the rose bushes for aphids, red spider and mildew. Use it by adding the Basic H to water, not water to Basic H, or it will foam too much. And don't forget, a corn-cob mulch under the rose bush helps prevent blackspot. This practice controls the splashup of soil-borne organisms which you'll notice always start from the bottom up.

Tree Tanglefoot, available at nurseries and garden centers, looks like brown, sticky petroleum jelly, and is an excellent trap for tree crawling insects. Squeeze out sticky bands of Tree Tanglefoot around affected trees.

IT'S DEVASTATING to plant expensive summer bulbs, nurture them from sprouts up, only to come home and find they've been flower-napped, and probably dying along some curb. Remember to caution your children against swiping other people's flowers without permission. Encourage their curiosity by giving them a piece of the action and a few flats of their own to appreciate.

Corn production is beefed up with black plastic mulch, and bean production is stepped up with aluminum foil mulch.

Ugly, grey lumps on carrots and parsnips, bumpy stems on tomato plants? The minor menace is nematodes. Experiments at the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station have found that interplanting marigolds dramatically reduces the nematode population. Results are more spectacular the year after the marigolds are planted.

OPEN SUNDAY 9 A.M. TO 5 P.M.

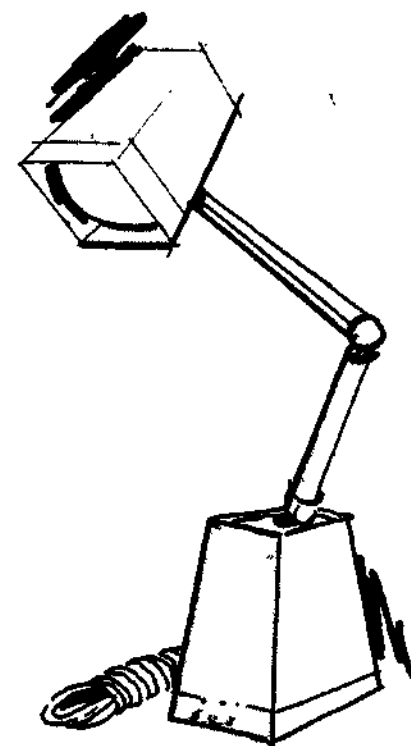

Gay Nineties Fun

The clock will turn back several decades Sunday to revive all the nostalgia of an old fashioned picnic. Sponsoring the "Gay Nineties" picnic is the Countryside Auxiliary of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society.

The picnic, to be held from 4:30 p.m. to midnight, will take place at the Guy Seno home in Barrington with several hundred party-goers.

All proceeds will go to the Society. In other years the Auxiliary's parties have netted up to $6,000. In a separate fund-raiser the group raised $360 for the 1971 Women's Division Sponsor Parent Drive. The Drive is the Society's single largest fund-raising endeavor with all 21 teams throughout the Chicago metropolitan area raising $98,783 for 1971.

Collecting

with Grace Carolyn

Every since Ugg the caveman found that if he fashioned a hollow vessel from the soft clay at the river's edge and left it out in the sun to dry for a few days, it made a hard and serviceable container, utilitarian pottery making has flourished in every part of the world.

Several thousand years later (these things didn't happen quickly) another experimenter (in the Far East, it is thought) found that his bowls became much more waterproof with the addition of a coating of melted sand or lead, and that if he left them in the fire overnight they became almost as hard and dense as stone.

Basically, pottery making has never changed much. In the early days of our own country, the native Indians used the same processes, and pioneering settlers from as early as 1750 added to the meat or store of silver, pewter and brass containers they had brought from the old mate age. In addition, many manufacturers impressed the names or trademarks of their factories on the ware.

GLAZED POTTERY is still being made today, in the east and in the mid-west. It is surprising how many uses may be found for old pickle or lard crocks — for planters, outdoor ash containers, fire wood holders, and in the kitchen (the smaller sizes) for dry food storage. With the renewed interest in wine making at home, the jugs will probably increase in demand. It is still possible to buy a commercially made stenciled jar or crock for just a few dollars, but you will be lucky to find a hand decorated, incised stoneware treasure at a reasonable price.

If you have a question or would like your collection featured, please write Grace Carolyn Doherty, in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006.

SALTGLAZE Stoneware

country with handmade clay pots and crocks.

The first pottery manufactured commercially in America was redware, which was very soft and porous, and the most generally available glazing material was lead. Lead glaze makes a good hard finish, but has the unhappy property of becoming poisonous when certain acidic foods are prepared in it.

EARLY POTTERS discovered vast blue clay beds in New Jersey while searching for a replacement for redware, and found that the blue clay also contained a high percentage of silica. This, when fired, made a very fine, durable stoneware. The addition of common table salt, thrown into the kiln when it had reached its highest temperature, caused a clear glass-like glaze or coating. Stoneware so treated became known as salt-glaze, and the name still applies. It is smooth to the touch, yet pitted like the skin of an orange.

Saltglaze prevented the danger from lead poisoning, and also eliminated the sweating of liquid contents common with earlier, more porous products. The types of clay and firing temperatures caused a color variance from common gray to cream, yellowish and dark brown.

IT WAS NATURAL that man, the artist, would feel the need to decorate the crude utilitarian pottery containers, to make them more beautiful and more saleable. Items of stoneware were often manufactured by "bluebird" or seasonal potters who congregated in centers of production in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, the Bennington, Vermont area, Zanesville and East Liverpool, Ohio.

The very earliest art work was incised or carved into the soft clay, then painted with a dark blue glaze that contained cobalt. Later, mass production led to the faster free hand decoration, and the incising was dropped. Popular motifs were flowers, birds, animals, and often the numeral which designated the size of the container in gallons.

After 1850, most freehand decorating gave way to commercial stenciled designs. These differing techniques make it fairly easy for the student of American stoneware pottery to determine the approxi-

Thank heavens readers have stopped sending samples through the mail of the little black insects which invaded their kitchen cupboards. But letters still come with the same plaint. The weevil is here, and what to do about it? Once the weevil has infested an area, there's only one thing to do. Clean out every box that has had evidence of them. Save nothing, as eggs laid could hatch and the whole procedure would have to be repeated. I went through it as a bride many years ago and it hurt to throw out all the food.

Too many people hold some foods back, hoping they haven't been tainted — and the infestation goes on and on. Anything that has been allowed to stay open is suspect. Therefore, clear the shelves and wash them thoroughly. Then use a household spray over the area. Let dry thoroughly before reusing the shelves. Any kind of grain — flour, rice, split peas, dried beans, and so on, should be put in glass jars or airtight containers the minute they are brought home from the store. As a further preventive, one friend keeps bay leaves under her shelf paper. I tape pieces of bay leaf on the inside cover of flour containers and such. Because of constant vigilance, I've never been bothered since those early days.

Dear Dorothy: My doctor recommended cola drinks that were not artificially sweetened when my baby had diarrhea recently. Would you know the reason behind this? —Geraldine Y.

A simple definition is that the cola drink is a good way to get fluids into the body and the sugar gives energy.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 286, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60005).

Help Offered To Local Club

The Northwest Mental Health Association has agreed to lend its support to the Thursday Nighters Club, according to the association's executive secretary, Lois Radtke.

The Thursday Nighters is the only area group that aids in the social adjustment of former Elgin Hospital patients. The Thursday Nighters was the subject of a short Suburban Living feature recently, in which community backing was sought.

In offering to take the group under the umbrella of the affiliation, Mrs. Radtke said that the Thursday Nighters is "very much a part of our after-therapy."

For starters the Mental Health Association will supply the group with volunteers and transportation. No financial help has yet been asked of the Association, Mrs. Radtke said.

Volunteers who would like to assist the Thursday Nighters through the Mental Health Association may call Mrs. Radtke at 392-1420.

Newly-elected officers of the association are Harry Sirmell, Mount Prospect, president; Mrs. Chester Zars, Palatine, vice president; David Buchholz, Arlington Heights, treasurer; and Bob Reberman, Elk Grove, secretary.

Serving their second terms on three-year directorships are Ted Lubas, Arlington Heights; Bob Tosby, Mount Prospect; and Reberman. New directors serving the same term are Van Wells and John Wightman, both of Arlington Heights; Bill Nelson and Charles Joly, both of Harper College.

A Place To Hang A Basket

HOW MANY TIMES have you longed for a place to use hanging baskets? Well, here's a simple structure on which these may be hung and which also can support a narrow flower box.

FRONT VIEW OF structure is at left, side view at right. Hatched line is ground line. Flower box must have drainage holes bored in bottom. Materials needed, all of redwood, are: A (the uprights) — 3 pieces 4 inch x 4 inch x 8 feet, B (the cross pieces) — 5 pieces 2 inch x 4 inch x 5 feet, C (the flower box sides and bottom) — 3 pieces 1 inch x 8 inch x 6 feet. From these saw 1 foot and use short pieces for ends of box. 18 spikes from 3 to 3 1/2 inches long also will be needed.

Use Care With Your Power Tools

Power has moved outdoors and operated tools are as common in the yard as in the workshop.

Most of them are worth the extra cost in their work-saving qualities. Like any power tool, however, the equipment calls for proper care and maintenance to be useful.

Power mowers, hedge clippers, lawn edgers, sweepers and similar items will continue to perform satisfactorily only if the maintenance instructions provided by the manufacturers are adhered to.

The instructions also will tell you how to start the tool, the best way to use it, when and where to lubricate it and how to adjust it.

CERTAIN procedures are common to all tools if you are to keep them in operating order.

Keep tools clean. This is more of a problem with outdoor tools. The accumulation of clippings and dirt not only makes for less efficient use but for rust. Wipe off cutting edges and coat with a light film of oil. Remove clippings from the underside of the lawn mower housing. Keep belts and chains free of dirt and grass clippings.

Clean off any rust as soon as you notice it.

Metal surfaces should be sanded and painted with rust resistant enamel. Use a coating of oil where the metal cannot be painted.

Lubricate regularly — but don't overdo it. Too much oil will catch dirt and cause a build-up. Follow the instructions that came with the tool to lubricate bearings and moving parts. (Some bearings are self-lubricating and will need no oiling). Moving parts should have a few drops of oil after each use if you lack instructions on this.

USE GRAPHITE or silicon spray, which are non-greasy lubricants, on chains so that dirt will not stick.

Keep cutting edges sharp. A dull blade on a lawn mower chews the grass, causing grass ends to turn brown. Remember, too, that if cutting becomes difficult the motor will have to work harder and could conceivably burn out.

Since vibration results every time you turn on the motor, nuts and bolts may become loose in time. Check frequently and keep them tight.

On electrical tools check cord and plug every time you use the tool. Look for frayed or broken insulation.

Gasoline engines should be kept properly fueled. Fill the tank before putting the mower away since condensation and gum are more likely to form in an empty tank.

A gasoline engine usually has a filter of some sort, usually an oil bath filter. Check this and keep it clean. The filter element should be washed in kerosene and fresh oil added.

Tomatoes Now Styled For Patio Growth

Small-size tomatoes so popular as accompaniments to cocktails can be grown in pots set on your patio or terrace and picked by your guests as they relax.

A number of varieties have been bred especially for use in little space and, so, lend themselves to pot culture. Among these is Pixie, a new hybrid introduced for 1971. This variety grows 14 to 18 inches tall, bears heavy loads of scarlet fruits about 1 1/4 inches in diameter which ripen early. These fruits are said to have more of a 'big tomato' flavor than those of other small fruited varieties.

Patio is the tomato to grow in big pots or tubs. It will shoot up to 24 inches in height and usually needs a concealed stake to support each plant. Fruits are medium size, of good, bright color and very pretty against the dark green, crinkled leaves.

Small Fry, a 1970 award winner in the All-American Selections trials, bears tomatoes only an inch across — and lots of them. Plants of this variety are disease resistant and almost unbelievable when laden with fruit.

The baby of the small-size tomato clan is Tiny Tim — useful for growing in little pots that you can set on a table to view up close. The plants grow only about 15 inches high and are very compact, while the tomatoes are about the size of cherries — a mere 3/4 of an inch in diameter.

Patio takes the longest to produce fruits, only 5 days more than Small Fry, but about 2 weeks longer than Pixie and a full month more than Tiny Tim.

One or more of these little tomatoes, growing sturdily in one or more containers will pep up your patio, intrigue your guests and allow them to savor the flavor of really vine-ripened tomatoes.

Greens To Eat

Look into the newer spinaches if this vegetable is one of your favorites.

Varieties like America hold up well during warm weather which is more than can be said for older varieties, which usually form seeds and become unusable.

Plant Power

Did you ever consider the important part the plants around your home play in providing you with breathable air?

Your trees, your shrubs, your lawn, even each single petunia plant are all engaged in manufacturing food for themselves and oxygen for you.

Mental Pollution

Mental pollution is taking its toll on Americans as rapidly as pollution of water and air. Urban dwellers are constantly pelted with the sounds of jet planes and freeway traffic.

Yet something as simple as a tree offers a solution. Trees, shrubs and grass planted closely together along freeways and busy thoroughfares act as sound barriers against these grating noises, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

A row of trees or shrubs in the back yard of a private home can accomplish a similar feat by protecting the tranquility of the residents from the noise of the street and the neighborhood.

Garden Tips

A pretty and unusual plant for a shady spot is mimulus, more commonly known as monkey flower.

After cleaning redwood furniture, a special sealer should be applied.

If you have only a window box for a garden, let your children sow radish seeds in part of it and learn the joy of producing something from seeds.

Happy Gardening!

Today's "Garden Talk" concludes our weekly spring gardening series which we hope has been helpful in getting your garden off to a healthy and colorful start.

Family Activities Now Center Around Pool

Over 4 million American families have discovered in the last 10 years that a backyard swimming pool provides a beautiful and functional focal point around and in which the families exercise, relax, play and socialize together.

However, many people still have serious misconceptions about the advantages and disadvantages of owning such a pool, says the National Swimming Pool Institute.

NSPI recently provided information concerning the four most common problem areas which prospective pool owners face. These areas are budget, use, value and safety.

First, budget. "A swimming pool is for the very rich and, therefore, not for me."

But pools are available in above-ground models large enough to permit swimming for fun and exercise at prices beginning around $1000.

In-ground pools in the most popular 15 by 30 to 20 by 40 feet size range from around $3000 to $6,000, depending on the type of construction, extra equipment and local construction requirements.

In comparison, extensive vacation trips lasting only several weeks can be equally expensive.

Certainly, a second automobile, which depreciates in value and increases in maintenance and operation costs, provides another good comparison. There are low-priced compacts and big, expensive "super-sedans" in both autos and pools and at prices roughly comparable.

Secondly, use. "A pool can only be used several months a year and, therefore, is not a wise investment."

The fact is that almost half of the pools built in the last three years have water heaters. Virtually all of them have adapters for later attachment of a heater.

Heaters extend the swimming season in two ways: the number of days available from early spring to late autumn and the length of day from early morning to late night.

Low-cost underwatts lights, pool enclosures and patio infra-red heaters can extend the season even longer.

Again, in contrast, the pool is just a "hop, skip and dive" out the backdoor which encourages even greater use. Boats and vacation homes, for example, are usually located some distance away and may be more trouble to get to than they are worth.

Thirdly, value. "A pool doesn't add to — and may even detract from — the resale value of the home."

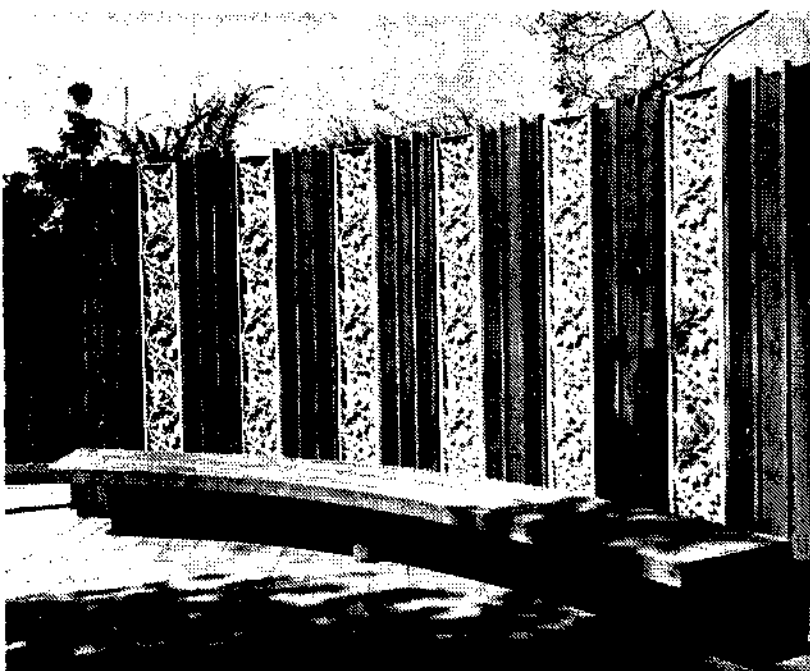

And, finally, safety. "A pool can be a safety hazard for my family and the neighborhood children."

In most cases, claims NSPI, panic, caused by fear of water, leads to drowning. Even non-swimmers who fall into a pool could easily reach the pool wall if they didn't panic in the water.

The pool industry works closely with groups like the American Red Cross and the National Safety Council to eliminate this fear of water by promoting the idea that all Americans should be taught at an early age at least how to float.

Precautions still should be taken, however, NSPI advises. All pools should be enclosed by a fence. To guard the pool when not in use, a pool owner should use both an alarm device which sounds whenever something falls into the pool and a pool cover to prevent anything from falling in.

Complimenting these colors are the flowers of Xeranthemum which are pink, rose, red or purple. Acaecium add two odd colors, chamois and flesh color, as well as white or rose to the winter bouquet. And globe amaranth furnish a different form, rather like clover flowers, in pink, flesh, red and white.

WROUGHT IRON AND redwood are combined to form this unusual curved fence by landscape architect John Staley. The metal effective-cents the popular redwood board and batten design. The bench is also of redwood.

For A Change Try Gaillardias

Gaillardias are known for the profusion of flowers they produce and for the length of time over which they continue to bloom. "All summer long" is not an idle phrase when applied to these plants.

There are both annual and perennial gaillardias, both equally easy to grow from seeds sown where the plants are to bloom.

Gaillardias prefer light, open soil and must have both sunlight and air. With these conditions met, they'll provide you with a constant show of blossoms for cutting or to make your garden gay.

Single-flowered gaillardias have just one row of petals but double ones are rounded heads filled with petals and are generally more popular with gardeners.

While gaillardia flowers normally are 2½ to 3 inches across, those of some tetraploid varieties are 4 inches in diameter.

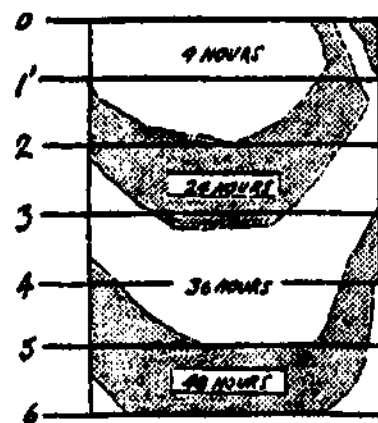

Flower colors are various shades of yellow to orange and a series of off-reds; brick, claret and "smoky." They combine well with most other flower colors — another point in their favor.

An Everlasting Flower

The strawflower is the most popular of the plants called "everlastings" because their flowers can be cut, dried and used during winter as well as during summer, but there are others just as pretty and useful. Statice is easily grown and blooms in such pretty colors — yellow, rose, lavender, blue as well as white.

WATERING TREES & SHRUBS

Clay Loam - Rate of Water Absorption

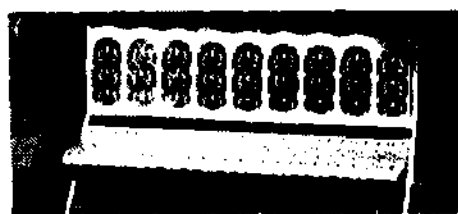

HORTICULTURAL TIP

It pays to water deeply. This means watering trees and shrubs for several hours. In a dry, clay soil an inch of water will penetrate about 5 inches. It will take 2 1/2 inches, or 15 gallons of water to penetrate 12 inches, and 30 gallons to penetrate 24 inches. The best way to deep water large trees and shrubs is with a Ross root-feeder tool. This is a sharp, hollow spike about 30" long. The first and last rule in watering is "be thorough".

NOT THIS TIME. Bill Arkus of Palatine's American Legion baseball team is an easy out at second base on a steal attempt. A strong peg by catcher Tom Hart and tag by shortstop Rob Richter did the job. Pace-Setting Lions Have Chances But Must Settle For 2-2 Deadlock

Kickin' It Around
by BOB FRISK Sports Editor

THIS IS PROBABLY a poor place to be saying this — in a sports column — but I don't know who plays second base for the Milwaukee Brewers.

Or shortstop for San Diego. Or third base for the Kansas City Royals.

Remember when you could name, without hesitation, the starting lineup for the New York Yankees? Try that today.

Quickly, now, name at least five players on the Milwaukee Brewers.

Is a Charles Coody really the Masters golf champion?

This is supposed to be my business — sports — but there are so many teams, so many players . . . so many new cities, stadiums and faces that I just can't keep up with them anymore.

Name the seven teams in the West Division of the National Hockey League. No hesitation, now.

I don't think I'm alone in this dilemma. I sense that there are a lot of people who don't want to let go of the past, either, when the world was a nice, small, comfortable place and there were two teams in Philadelphia and when you made an eastern swing, you made an eastern swing.

You played in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washington and then came home for two weeks.

Now, you really know what's going on? The Cubs fly to San Francisco for two games, then jet back for a game with the White Sox and series in St. Louis.

This sports world gets more confusing every year. Baseball will run six weeks into the college football season this year, seven into the pro football season. Pro football will get even by opening up some of its camps in late June. And next year, who knows, the National Hockey League playoffs may be decided on the Fourth of July.

It's all kind of confusing to someone who rarely ventures out of the suburbs, and maybe this is why I have no desire whatsoever to cover professional sports for any big-city paper.

Our expanding world of sports is becoming filled with Charles Coody's. This doesn't make it bad because this represents progress but, somehow, this world of pro sports today just doesn't appeal to me as a newspaperman, as a sportswriter.

Some people think it's strange that a person could enjoy working for a suburban newspaper, particularly with all the so-called "glamour" assignments on the big-city dailies.

When you're working for a suburban paper, covering basically high school sports, you prepare yourself for the inevitable question.

"Wouldn't you rather work for a big-city paper, covering a pro team or something exciting like that?"

I've heard that so much through the years that I get a little tired of saying, "No, I don't envy anyone on a pro sports beat. I've never had the desire to leave the very refreshing world of high school sports."

There's always been something very special about working with high school people, coaches, athletes, administrators. I'll take these dedicated prep coaches and athletes any day over the Leo Durochers and Alex Johnsons of the pro world.

You look at some of these youngsters today, these teenagers, and you marvel at the job the high school coaches turn in.

They teach your son things you could never hope to do. You know how it is when a boy becomes a teenager. He goes out into his world, he becomes a bigger man — more self-sufficient — and the old communications at home break down a little.

Somebody has to keep teaching him

by Jim Cook

Logan Square and visiting Park Ridge deliberated their Ninth District contest for nine full innings, but failed to deliver a verdict.

The case was suspended by darkness with each team pleading two runs.

Upset-minded Park Ridge (2-3) actually had the unbeaten (5-0) Lions on the rocks a couple of times, but never could make the decision stick. The game will be replayed in its entirety at a later date.

Logan Square was begging for trouble in the early innings when erratic base-running snuffed out two potential rallies. The Lions still managed a 1-0 lead after four innings behind southpaw Ken Martin.

Joe Bombicino's red-hot bat provided the advantage with a booming triple to right-center and a wild relay throw that enabled him to score the first run in the second innings.

Martin and Ridge righthander Gordy Frano locked horns until the visitors took the lead in the fifth. Frano was responsible for the equalizer when he tripled the tying run home and later tallied the go-ahead marker on a sacrifice fly.

The Lions, with their backs against the wall in the final regulation frame, seemed destined to pull the decision out when Frano walked the bases full with nobody out.

Steve Smith crossed with a run that deadlocked the contest, 2-2 and left the bags jammed with still nobody down. Frano, however, regained his composure and picked a runner off third, fanned pinch-hitter Mike Walsh and got Mike Garbus on a pop to right.

Park Ridge threatened in each of the two extra innings by getting the leadoff hitter on base, but Martin came up with an important strikeout in both instances.

Terri Buck: Notre Dame's Latest All-Star Performer

by IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Luxurious Terri Buck may have had more to do with the changing face of education at Notre Dame than anyone since granite Knute Rockne.

When Terri Buck comes a-prancing onto the football field, long hair and short skirt caught in the wind, beating her pompons to the cheer, cheer for old Notre Dame, she would never be mistaken for Terry Hanratty.

And next fall, senior Terri Buck becomes a full-fledged student at the University of Notre Dame, once the bastion and symbol of all that was hairy-chested about American higher education.

For the past three years she has been a student at all-female St. Mary's College in South Bend, the so-called sister school to Notre Dame. Now, St. Mary's is being absorbed by Notre Dame.

Cheerleader Terri Buck may have been directly responsible for this colossal coed reversal. She has the looks of Loren and, as it turns out, the influence of Montessori.

"I guess it was felt that if we can accept a girl on the football field at Notre Dame, then it would be all right to have them in the classroom, too," said Miss Buck at breakfast in a New York restaurant recently.

It wasn't an overnight thing, to be sure. Only for the last two years have Notre Dammers permitted a soprano to cheer on the field. Football, as the world knows, is Notre Dame's most sacred institution. Before this, the Fighting Irish die-hards believed that a woman's place was in the stands, holding the flask.

Miss Buck admits that she is not the sole influence for the educational upheaval at Notre Dame. The times and Father Theodore Hesburgh, the liberal president of Notre Dame, are mainly responsible. Unquestionably, Miss Buck did indeed become an admired figure by a large segment of the Notre Dame student body. But there were still the Neanderthals.

In one game she got struck on the leg by a thrown egg. "Well," she said not taking it personally, "the game was getting a little boring, and some of the boys just got a little rowdy."

She is as philosophical about her role in last week's United States Open, but I appreciated Paul Logan picking him fourth in his predictions column last Thursday.

I'd also like to congratulate him on tabbing Lee Trevino first and Jack Nicklaus second. He must know his professional golfers.

I hope he also predicts the Western Open. However, I would like to see him rank Davey for first. He's due to win one and I hope it's the Western.

Thanks for the compliment, Chuck. However, I must point out that I also blew the rest of my top 10. Besides Hill failing to make the cut, Bill Casper and Tom Weiskopf did too. — Paul Logan

PIRATES, METS ALL THE WAY

Sufficiency in numbers on a pitching staff is the key to any championship team. That's why Pittsburgh and New York will fight it out in the National League East, and the Cubs will have to be resigned to third place. The Cubs have four decent starters but nothing after that either starters or in the bullpen. Don't let this recent surge fool you.

I like Pittsburgh to win everything this year, even the World Series. They have that ideal mixture of youthful speed and veteran strength, and even if their starting pitchers aren't overly impressive, Murtaugh (Danny) has a lot of them.

Harry Demington
Mount Prospect

Before you resign the Cubs to a third-place finish, Harry, you had better check with a Mr. Albert (Red) Schoendienst in care of the St. Louis Cardinals. The Pirates, though, are certainly the team to beat. They're deep at every position and can field a lineup with six .300 hitters at the top and still leave their hottest slugger (Al Oliver) on the bench. To avoid the rush, cash in your Cubs' third place destination tickets for a second-division reservation. — Jim Cook

Whiff Artist

St. Louis Cardinal ace Bob Gibson struck out 200 or more batters in a season in eight of the last nine seasons, and those eight give him a major league record for 200-plus years.

Maine-Northfield Report

Mission and White Construction edged Central-Greenwood Standard 2 to 1 behind the combined pitching of Dave Gillenback and Dave Paolino. In Maine-Northfield Little League's minor division Stuart DeGraff had a double and two singles and scored the winning run.

Another close game saw the Flying Frenchman Restaurant beat the House of Schiller 6 to 5 with Nick Tremont getting the win. Steve Pulis supplied most of the winner's batting power, getting a grand slam home run, a double, and driving in four runs. Greg Hoffmann drove in one run. Brian Meraty singled, hitting stars for the losers were Jeff Ruppert who homered and doubled, Mark Goldie, who homered, Phil Baskin with a triple and Brad Wiltjer with two singles.

For the senior leagues, Semmerling Fence continued to hold down first place Saturday by defeating Martin-Marby Realtors 5 to 0. This was George Kauffmann's day as he gave up only five hits in becoming the winning pitcher, and blasted two home runs, each as lead off man with no one aboard. He was the second and third in the senior league this year and cleared well over 200 feet. Ron Orlovski had a double and those were the only three hits allowed by losing pitcher Robbie Marcus, who also struck out 11 men and singled for the losers. Other singles for the Realtors were delivered by Rick Brownstein, Eddie Radowsky and Danny Kass, who had two.

Some fine defensive play highlighted the meeting with a double play being executed for the Fencers when Larry Deschamps made a fine catch in center and threw to Orlovski at first to double the runner.

Yorktown-Sertoma beat Gas Light Coin Shop 18 to 6 with relief pitcher Larry Bersh getting the win. Catching, Johnny Mendralia made some good defensive plays and also delivered a double and a single. Mike Orlando collected two singles and others went to Steve Stein, Dave Baskin, Bersh, John Volpe, Scott Wiltjer and Howie Weiner. Tom Travis was two for two for Gas Light including a double, and singles were hit by Ron Wodkas, Gary Ruske and Al Marabotti.

In other Saturday action, Golf Mill Bank downed White-Crown Ford 15 to 8. Mike Doezal was the winning pitcher and Bob Freezer was three for five and Harold Mash tripled. For the losers, Billy Harrison and Jeff Amgardt had two singles each.

Earlier in the week on the senior circuit, Semmerling Fence topped Gas Light Coin Shop 9 to 2. Winning pitcher Kauffmann had three hits including a double and drove in three runs. Orlovski doubled and Mike Karlins, Larry Deschamps, Steve Smith, Brad Eisenberg, and Rick Jacobson each singled. For the losers, Tim Glass had two singles and Tom Travis and John Carlson each had one.

Yorktown-Sertoma took Golf Mill Bank 7 to 2 with the win going to Dave Baskin, who also had two doubles. Other doubles were hit by Kenny Plink, John Volpe, and Howard Weiner. Scott Wiltjer knocked out a triple and a single and Steve Stein and John Mendralia each singled. Mendralia stopped a run from scoring with a nice catch at the plate. Other notable defensive plays included a double play that went from Baskin to Mendralia to Stein, and two catches by Mike Marzus. For the losers, Bob Foster had a double and a single. Steve Jacobs had three singles and Rick Pellegri and Kenny Weingarten each singled.

A clutch single by Mitch Glickman in the last half of the last inning gave Martin-Marby Realtors a 4 to 3 win over White-Crown Ford and a win for pitcher Ed Radowsky who struck out eight. The M & B hits were all singles collected by Glickman, who had two, Ricky Brownstein, Mickey McCarty, David MarArthur and Danny Kass, each with one. Runs were driven in by Kass, Glickman and McCarty with two. For White-Crown, Billy Harrison doubled and singled; Jeff Amgardt had two singles and Bill Thompson had one.

VIP Studios had two wins for the week. They took a 13 to 5 victory over Pellegri Signs with Don Fawcett the winning pitcher. Jeff Jacobson smashed a grand slam home run for the VIPs. Paul Bartalotta homered and did some fine fielding. Kerry Field tripled and Randy Funcheller was three for four. Jacobson also made a nice fielding play, going well off the ground to stab a line drive. Sam Halpin had a double and single for Pellegri and Kevin Maly was two for four and Mickey Conner was two for three.

The VIPs' other win was a 15 to 7 victory over Shore American Motors. Danny Pick struck out nine in becoming the winning pitcher. Bartalotta tripled and Field doubled. Wayne Cornacho homered and Steve Goranson tripled and singled for the losers.

NEW YORK UPI — If somebody doesn't do something soon, Pat McKernan is liable to die.

He's wasting away to nothing. Pat McKernan is owner, chairman of the board and president of the Pittsfield Senators in the Eastern League. He's also general manager, business manager and publicity director, and anytime the guy handling the public address is late, McKernan does a little of that, too.

Right now McKernan is in the middle of a hunger strike and ordinarily the general reaction to that would be so what, except for these considerations:

—McKernan ordinarily goes somewhere around 350 pounds on the hoof — "I'm pretty sure that's what I generally weigh but I can't be absolutely positive because the scales don't go that high."

—He has vowed not to eat anything until his home attendance for one night game reaches at least 500 — "that's right. I allow myself one hot dog for every 500 people in my ball park."

—He hasn't even had that lately. The attendance figures for Pittsfield's last three home games have been 352, 297 and 371. You read 'em correctly — 352, 297 and 371.

"I'm wasting away," means the otherwise sensible, 30-year-old McKernan, who began his hunger strike a week ago and is down below 300 pounds now.

"How do you keep going?" I asked him. "How do you stay alive to fill in for that guy on the PA who's late once in awhile?"

"Water," McKernan said. "I keep drinking water."

"That's all?"

"Look, a complete idiot I'm not. I cheat once in awhile."

"Cheat how?"

"Only when the club is on the road," McKernan said. "On a day like that I eat two hamburger patties. Without the roll, though. And only when the club is on the road. Never when we're home."

"But technically that's breaking the hunger strike."

"Sue me," McKernan said.

"I'm not that nuts to keep sitting around and starving myself completely until 500 people showed up at the ball park. If I waited for that, they'd have to bury me."

Pat McKernan is no Johnny-Come-Lately to minor league baseball. He was Pittsfield's general manager five years under Joe Buzza, the former Yankees' third baseman now operating the Pawtucket club, and when the golden opportunity to own the Pittsfield franchise presented itself in the fall of 1969 he didn't want to be shut out.

He bought the club for $1,000. "You might say I was high bidder," McKernan says.

For the record he was also the low bidder. In other words, the only bidder, and when you ask him what it's like owning a minor league ball club he says, "it certainly is interesting."

McKernan knows better than to rely on his club alone for a living. He has a wife and two kids to feed so he also teaches school and has his own radio show.

"How long do you intend staying on your hunger strike?" I asked him.

"Well," McKernan said, thinking it over carefully. "I'd like to keep going until we get a thousand people in the park one night. I could have two hot dogs then." That night Pat McKernan ought to have three.

Sobon Hurls Grove Win

Ron Sobon was at his best Wednesday in pacing Elk Grove to a convincing 12-2 rout of Crown. Sobon fired a nifty five-hitter, walked nobody and fanned a half dozen.

He and his teammates, meanwhile, went on a 10-hit rampage that opened with a bolt of lightning. In a three-run spurge, Tom Dewitt singled before Jeff Stewart drilled a rightfield homer and Steve Scholten kissed one to straight-away left.

The Grenadiers picked up two more in the third and another in the fourth before shelving the triumph in a six-run fifth. Jim Stewart and Dewitt each had two-run singles as nine players paraded to the plate.

Jess Stewart singled home the 12th tally to complete a perfect 3-for-3 evening and propel Elk Grove to its fourth triumph in five Northwest Summer League games.

Falcons Rally For Victory

Forest View pulled off a first Wednesday at Barrington — an errorless game.

Playing their fifth game of the season in the Northwest Summer League, the Falcons came from behind in the fifth inning with two runs to win 2-1. Rich Lizinski and Greg Fink held the clutch bats in the fifth. After Ed Katzman led off with a single, was sacrificed to second by Craig Stiles before Lizinski delivered a run-scoring single. Lizinski moved to second on a sacrifice fly and was singled home by Fink.

Barrington had taken the lead the inning before on a single, fielder's choice and another single.

Bob Sobieski went the distance for Forest View with three strikeouts, five walks and a four-hitter.

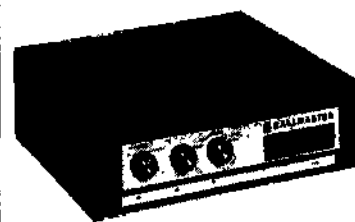

Katzman was the leading Falcon hitter with a 2-for-2 night.

If you want to save some money, come in and buy a Volvo 142.

The 142 is a Volvo with two doors. Because of this, we can sell you one for $100 less than a Volvo four-door.

But this is peanuts compared to what the 142 can save you just because it's a Volvo.

Volvos are built so well they last an average of eleven years in Sweden.

Of course, we don't guarantee exactly how long any given Volvo will last. But if you buy one from us, you should be able to keep it long enough to stop making car payments, start making payments to yourself, and save enough money to indulge any need you have for a Volvo with additional doors.

Hersey Collects Nine Hits In Victory

A nine-hit attack by Hersey and a brilliant three-hitter by John Kanellis spelled Conant's downfall Wednesday at the Huskie diamond.

Kanellis struck out nine and walked only two while scattering three singles over the seven-inning contest in the Northwest Summer League.

A double by Dave Zare in the first inning knocked in the only run Kanellis needed the rest of the way. But the Husies widened the margin with three and six-run innings.

After three straight walks in the third, Steve Kuebler singled in two and a wild pitch brought in another. This outburst knocked starter and loser Ken Hubbard from the mound.

A half a dozen more came home in the sixth. Following three straight singles to load the bases, Brad Smith delivered a fly that was dropped which scored one.

Then Tom Good doubled home three more and went to third on an error. Ron Vercruysee knocked him in with a sacrifice fly and an error brought in another.

Hersey was led at the plate by nine different players who produced one hit each.

Instead of a second car, get a second house.

It's not as expensive as it sounds. There's no land to buy. No land taxes to pay. Yet you can own a hunting lodge in the mountains. Or a cottage at the beach. And you won't need a car to get there.

All you need is a Volkswagen Campmobile. Which, as houses go, is rather unusual, it goes.

But most people buy the Campmobile for what it comes with: A kitchen. Including sink, icebox and water pump. A dining table. Bedroom enough for two adults and two kids. Closets. Screens. Curtains. (And an optional pop-up top and tent.)

You can even run this second house a lot cheaper than you can run a lot of second cars. It gets about 23 miles to the gallon. Takes only 5 pints of oil. And its engine is air-cooled, so it never needs antifreeze.

So instead of getting a second car, maybe you should get a second house. And get the car that comes with it. Free.

Perry Leads Qualifiers In Jaycee Golf Tourney

Jack Perry, a 15-year-old Itasca resident, fired a two-over par 74 to lead the four qualifiers in the local Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament at the Buffalo Grove Golf Club.

Perry, who plays for Lake Park High in Roselle, was one over par on both the front and back nine with a 37-37-74. He posted one birdie and 14 pars over the 18-hole layout.

Coming in with a close second place was Buffalo Grove's 16-year-old Chris Krolak. Chris shot a three-over par 75 and is an avid golfer for Wheeling.

Tying for third place with 76's were Bob Winter last year's tourney winner 16 from Buffalo Grove and 17-year-old Dean Taggart of Arlington Heights. The tie resulted in a sudden death playoff eventually won by Taggart.

Both Winter and Taggart played in the Arlington Heights Jaycee Junior Tourney and will participate in the state meet at Wheeling's Chevy Chase July 19-21.

Qualifying for entry in the state tourney and representing the Buffalo Grove Jaycees will be Perry and Krolak in addition to V. Incinelli and Ray Peterson. Incinelli, 16, played for St. Viator during the school year and came up with a 78, while Peterson, 16, posted an 80 and plays for Hersey.

Lois

Incinelli also won the longest drive contest by hitting the ball 265 yards while the closest to the pin contest was garnered by Phil Hausman, 17, from Mount Prospect.

This marked the third year that Buffalo Grove has hosted the Jaycees event which resulted in a field of 62 golfers, the largest yet.

Also a first was the two lady participants Lois Hall and Denise Doveala. In the girls' tourney, Lois edged Denise by two strokes by carding a 106. Both girls will represent the Buffalo Grove Jaycees in the State Tournament at Chevy Chase.

Griffith Sharp In Wildcat Win

Mark Griffith, whose last two outings could have been rated "shaky" at best, put everything together Wednesday as Wheeling blanked Dundee, 3-0.

Griffith went all the way, walking one and fanning five, while slamming the door on the hosts. He limited Dundee to just five hits as the Wildcats upped their Northwest Summer League record to 4-1. Wheeling bolted to a 2-0 advantage in the first inning as Jim Kass walked and Dan Tonnacour blasted a booming triple. Dave Giles followed with a sinking liner to center which popped out of the fielder's glove for another run.

Ordinance 71-51

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING SPEED LIMITS ON CERTAIN STREETS IN THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

(Village Clerk, 2115 S. Arlington Heights Road)

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees have considered such surveys and studies and have determined that the public interest requires that speed be limited on certain streets as hereinafter set forth;

WHEREAS, it is the desire of the President and Board of Trustees to limit the speed of traffic on said streets as hereinafter set forth;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS:

SECTION ONE: That a maximum speed limit of twenty-five (25) miles per hour is hereby established upon the following described streets within the corporate limits of the Village of Arlington Heights, to wit: Kennedy Avenue, Thomas Street, Northwest Highway.

SECTION TWO: It shall be unlawful for any person to drive any vehicle upon such streets at a speed which is greater than twenty-five (25) miles per hour. The fact that the speed of the vehicle does not exceed the applicable maximum speed limit does not excuse the driver from the duty of exercising due care when approaching and crossing an intersection when approaching and crossing a hill crest when traveling upon a curve or when a hazard exists with respect to pedestrians or other traffic and by reason of weather or highway conditions, and speed shall be determined as may be necessary to avoid colliding with any person or vehicle on or entering the street in compliance with legal requirements and the duty of all persons to use due care.

SECTION THREE: The Village Manager is hereby directed to post appropriate signs upon the designated streets for the purpose of notifying drivers of all vehicles of the applicable maximum speed limit.

SECTION FOUR: Any person found in violation of the provisions of this ordinance shall be fined not more than Five Hundred Dollars ($500) for each such offense.

SECTION FIVE: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval, publication and the posting of said streets in the manner provided by law.

When it comes to saving money, more of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Take stock in America. Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Disease Can Be Cured

To fear cancer is one thing; to do something about it is another.

And thousands of dedicated research scientists and physicians are doing something about it. Today it can be said truthfully that cancer can be cured — not in every case, but in many.

The scientists and doctors want YOUR help. They can do much more when cancer is discovered at an early state — and you can help them do that.

To find out more about it, read this comprehensive discussion:

Q—What is cancer?

A—Cancer is a disease in which there is uncontrolled growth of abnormal cells. Because of the "wild" way in which cancer cells grow, they deprive normal cells of nourishment. If they are not checked, they destroy the tissue of vital organs, and thus cause death.

Q—What causes cancer?

A—This is still one of the unanswered questions of medical science. If a single, conclusive cause of cancer could be identified, both prevention and cure would be closer to reality than they are now.

One theory, currently under investigation by research scientists, suggests that cancer is caused by viruses. Some forms of cancer — in animals — have been shown to be of viral origin, but this has not been demonstrated in man. Although the underlying cause is not yet known, a number of environmental factors have been implicated, including cigaret smoking, over-exposure to sunlight, excess exposure to radiation, and exposure to certain industrial chemicals such as dyes, tars and petroleum products.

Q—How widespread is cancer?

A—The American Cancer Society estimates that one person in every four will have cancer during his lifetime. It is expected that 600,000 new cases will be diagnosed in this country in 1971; and that there will be 315,000 deaths. Although medical science has made great strides in improving the treatment of certain specific forms of cancer, it has not yet made significant headway in combatting it on an over-all basis.

Q—What is the difference between a malignant tumor and a benign one?

A—The most important difference is that the benign growth does not spread beyond its original site. A malignant tumor, on the other hand, may involve nearby tissue. Or it may spread through the body when individual cells become detached and are carried elsewhere through the bloodstream or the lymphatic system. This spreading process is called metastasis.

Q—Can cancer be prevented?

A—To a limited extent — and the known preventive measures are well worth taking. Among them: refrain from smoking cigarets, and use all possible safeguards in industrial situations in which contact with carcinogenic (cancer-causing) substances is unavoidable. Another measure is the surgical removal of so-called "pre-cancerous" lesions, such as polyps in the colon or certain types of moles on the skin.

While in many instances it may not be possible to prevent cancer, it is possible to detect it early enough to increase greatly the chances of cure. Perhaps the most successful demonstration of this is the early detection of cancer of the cervix, before the uterus itself has been invaded. This is accomplished through the "Pap" test which doctors now advise as a regular measure for all adult women.

Q—Is cancer ever really cured?

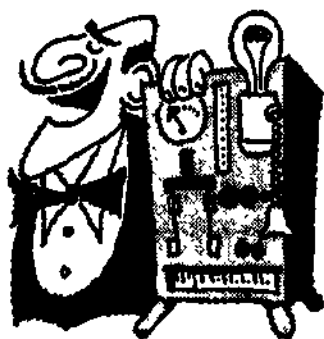

A—Yes, indeed it is. Current statistics indicate the cure rate is one out of three. Cancer at some sites has a very high cure rate; for example some skin cancers are almost 100 per cent curable. Doctors are conservative about using the word "cure," since some cancers which seem to be under control do flare up again. Arbitrarily, cure rates are usually based on "five year survival without clinical evidence of disease." Most physicians recommend lifetime follow-up for cured cancer patients.

Q—How can a person tell if he has cancer?

A—Only the physician can make the diagnosis, but the individual can observe changes in himself which indicate he should consult a doctor. The classic early-warning signals are: unusual bleeding or discharge, a lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere, a sore that does not heal, change in bowel or bladder habits, hoarseness or cough, indigestion or difficulty in swallowing, change in a wart or mole.

Q—Do all cancers give early warning?

A—Unfortunately no. Some are "silent" until they are far advanced. Others, though detected early, may not yield to treatment. However, it is estimated that early detection and prompt treatment of all cancers could raise the cure rate from one out of three to one out of two.

Q—How is the disease diagnosed?

A—By removing some of the suspected tissue and examining it under the microscope — a process called biopsy. The physician may also examine tumors deep within the body by using special instruments and may order X-ray films of the suspect areas.

Q—Can anyone but a doctor provide effective treatment for cancer?

A—No, positively not. But many people who are not doctors, and who are not qualified to diagnosis or treat any disease, let alone cancer, do set themselves up as cancer practitioners. Quackery is deplorable in any case — but particularly so in cancer, where it prospers on the fears and despairs of the patients.

Occasionally a quack may have had some medical training, but for most, the primary qualifications are ignorance and greed. They offer treatments — all totally unreliable — including salves, ointments, self-prepared medications, inhalants, special diets (grapes, liver, red cabbage, etc.) and electronic gadgets. Quite apart from the fact that these treatments do absolutely no good, and are often outrageously expensive, they pose a real threat to the patient. The time he spends with the quack is precious time lost; by the time he finally sees a reputable practitioner, the disease may be so far advanced that he has no hope. There is no magic cure for cancer. If one is offered, it is clearly the mark of a quack. No reliable physician will make rash promises.

Accurate information — to help protect you from quackery — is available from county medical societies, the American Cancer Society, or local health departments.

Q—Can cancer be treated by surgery?

A—This is the treatment most frequently used, for many cancers, sometimes in combination with radiation therapy and/or drugs. The aim is to remove the malignant growth, as well as surrounding tissue into which it may have spread. Sometimes the surgeon will also remove lymph nodes near the tumor, so that cancerous cells which may have spread to the nodes will not be carried through the lymphatic system to other parts of the body.

Q—Is radiation therapy effective?

A—Yes, in many types of cancer. Improvements in techniques, and the development of more sophisticated equipment, are making it possible to deliver radiation in high enough dosage to destroy cancer cells while doing a minimum of damage to normal cells. Radiation following surgery often reduces the risk of metastasis. Radiation is the preferred treatment in certain malignancies, such as Hodgkin's disease, lymphosarcoma, and some forms of leukemia. Radioactive materials are sometimes placed in direct contact with certain tumors.

Q—What is a "cobalt bomb"?

A—A device containing a radioactive material, cobalt-60, which can be rotated around the patient so that the malignant tissue receives a maximum dose of radiation, and normal tissue receives a minimum. It is particularly effective in treating deep-seated cancer, which it can reach with enough radiation to be effective.

Q—Are any medicines helpful?

A—Yes. Treatment with medication is called chemotherapy; it does help, though its uses are still limited. There is evidence that a few relatively rare forms of cancer can indeed be cured by chemotherapy. Research scientists are hopeful that chemotherapy will ultimately prove to be an effective way to conquer the disease. It is limited at present because most drugs which effectively eradicate cancer are too powerful to be used with safety.

However, a number of drugs are available and can be used, with safety, to inhibit the growth of an existing tumor, to alleviate pain and to prolong life, for example in leukemia, and cancer of the breast, prostate or uterus.

Q—Is cancer contagious?

A—No.

Q—Is it hereditary?

A—Not so far as is known, although there may be an inherited susceptibility to certain types of cancer. Accordingly, persons with cancer in their family histories should be particularly careful to have regular physical examinations, and should see the doctor at once if they detect any of the early-warning signals.

Questions & Answers For Family Health

As a Public Service, The Herald offers its readers these answers to many common questions people have about health and medicine. All material has been approved by The Illinois Medical Association and The California Medical Association.

Doctors Want Your Help

Q—Are all breast lumps malignant?

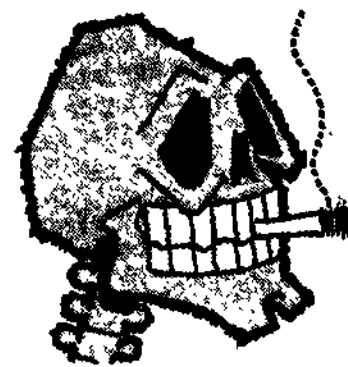

A—Fortunately, most of them are not. However, all breast lumps should be called to the attention of a doctor at once. If he has any doubt at all about it, he will order a biopsy. A new form of examination by X-ray — called mammography — is being developed, and offers promise for the detection of breast tumors even before they can be felt. In breast cancer, early detection greatly increases the chance of lasting cure.

Q—Does injury cause cancer?

A—An isolated injury to soft tissue, such as the breast, does not cause cancer. On the other hand, repeated irritation, such as the damage done by jagged teeth to the tissue of the mouth, might lead to cancer.

Q—Is it true that cigaret smoking causes lung cancer?

A—The American Cancer Society, which undertakes as one of its functions the interpretation of cancer to the public, answers this with a very firm YES. Most physicians and public health authorities agree. Statistics show that cancer of the lung in men has increased about 37 per cent since 1936, concurrently with a sharp increase in cigaret smoking.

It is true, of course, that many smokers do not develop lung cancer, and the disease occasionally shows up in a person who has never smoked. But the weight of medical opinion supports the argument that cigaret smoking and lung cancer have a direct cause-and-effect relationship.

The cure rate in lung cancer is about 1 in 20.

Q—Can you reduce the risk by smoking filtertip cigarets?

A—This has not been proven.

Q—Can one smoke any cigarets with safety?

A—Anyone who smokes more than five cigarets a day seems to be inviting health problems. The more cigarets, the greater the risk.

IMPORTANT: If you have further questions, consult your own physician.

How does the old saying go...“You can’t please all of the people all of the time?”

Our TV TIME readers have certainly proved that adage correct again, as final tabulations are being made on your thoughts and ideas forwarded to our Reader Poll. As you read this, the final (untouched) touches are being made, and we’ll release your collective findings beginning next week.

This week, I thought it would be worthy and very interesting to pick out a few of the many responses we’ve had to each of the 16 questions, to give you some kind of idea how your cohorts in the tube-watching business have answered the poll.

These few responses today are picked at random, and do not necessarily indicate a trend in overall response to one or all of the questions. So, if you’ll please permit some of the “experts to speak,” we’ll be on with it...

1. “My favorite Chicago TV station is: Channel 7. In my opinion, this station is really one of the best. It has not only well done programs, but also a great newscast!” (Name withheld, St. Charles, Ill.)

2. “My favorite Chicago radio station is: WCFL. The news isn’t as boring as WLS. I don’t listen to any others.” (Jean Mastny, Berwyn, Ill.)

3. “My favorite Chicago sportscaster is: A combination. I think Lou Boudreau and Vince Lloyd do a great job with Cubs and are great as a duo. Lou adds a good commentary because he has played.” (Diann Sterrick, Elgin, Ill.)

4. “My favorite Chicago Newscaster is: Floyd Kalber. I like his appearance, his manner of reporting and his little story at the end of each broadcast.” (M.K.C., Joliet, Ill.)

5. “The thing I like least about Chicago television is: the consistent interruption of programming with local editorials.” (Robert Giery, Palatine, Ill.)

6. “The thing I like most about Chicago television is: variety.” (Mrs. Lorraine Petyko, New Lenox, Ill.)

7. “My favorite Chicago radio disc jockey is: Roy Leonard. He shows great courtesy in cutting someone short when they are getting out of hand or dull. Wally Phillips and Howard Miller could learn a lot from him.” (Mrs. Leroy Hudson, Des Plaines, Ill.)

8. “The Chicago television station that does the best job on news is: Channel 7. Flynn, Daly, Frink and Coleman make a very good team.” (Mary Charrette, Lockport, Ill.)

9. May that typesetter rest in peace!! (some readers didn’t get this question).

10. “Here is the best way Chicago radio and TV could be improved: Drop the overflow of reruns, and create new ones. Eliminate the annoying local hard-sell commercials, and develop better ones such as the local gas company commercials.” (Kathleen Turner, Joliet, Ill.)

11. “My favorite Chicago TV program is: underground news.” (Jim DeLude, Elk Grove Village, Ill.)

12. “I think the educational channel (Channel 11) in Chicago is: too narrow in scope.” (Name withheld, Downers Grove, Ill.)

13. “My favorite talk show host in Chicago is: Well, it was Paul Benzequin and now is Howard Miller and Merv Griffin.” (Doug Young, Woodridge, Ill.)

14. “My opinion of Bozo’s Circus is: Yuk!” (George Leipold, Buffalo Grove, Ill.)

15. “What changes would you like to see (if any) in the way movies are shown on Chicago television? Since Chicago, on a practical level, really can’t compete with national TV in getting recently released movies, local stations should concentrate on getting more oldies and classics. More Bogie and less Elliott Gould.” (Marge Ferroli, Chicago, Ill.)

16. “Any other general commentary or opinion about Chicago radio or TV: Why don’t they try reviving some of the old radio stories when the children are home to listen to after school? And, why hasn’t Channel 9 put the reruns of Mickey Mouse on again?” (Mrs. Charlene Blaszcak, Clarendon Hills, Ill.)

* * *

So, there are just a few of the many responses our reader poll has gathered. You may agree with some of them...or disagree quite a bit. But that’s the way these people feel about the local Chicago radio and television schedule.

I’ll be back in front of the set this week trying to see if some of these opinions hold water!

DAVID HARTMAN, star of “The Doctors” segment of “The Bold Ones” on the NBC television network, takes time out from his busy work schedule to pose for his many fans in TV land.

Please tell me where I can write to singer Jerry Reed who has most recently appeared on the Glen Campbell and Val Doonican shows. His recordings include "Amos Moses" and "When You're Hot, You're Hot."

ANSWER:

Write to Reed in care of THE GLEN CAMPBELL GOODTIME HOUR, CBS, 6121 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90028.

Reed, incidentally, like Campbell, has moved from a one-time studio musician to one of the biggest names in country music. He has been termed by many to be the best guitar player in the business, and has performed several times with all-time guitar great Chet Atkins.

* * *

I'd like to know why THE BRADY BUNCH, NANNY AND THE PROFESSOR, THE PARTRIDGE FAMILY, THAT GIRL, THE ODD COUPLE and LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE are all reruns now.

ANSWER:

Those aren't all the shows that are in reruns. All of the series, with the exception of summer programs, are repeats and have been for some time now.

* * *

I saw the Bobby Sherman special and I would like to know if he will ever be on HERE COME THE BRIDES again. Will you please give me his address so I can write to him? I'm one of his fans.

ANSWER:

HERE COME THE BRIDES is gone for good, but don't despair. Sherman will be starring in GETTING TOGETHER, a comedy series premiering this fall on ABC.

You can write to him in care of ABC, Television Center, Los Angeles, California 90028.

* * *

I'm a great fan of Dean Martin and I'd sure enjoy a picture of him. Could you please tell me where to write?

ANSWER:

Try writing Martin at NBC, 300 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, California 90028.

* * *

Could you please tell me where to write to Johnny Carson, and would you tell me how his ratings are?

ANSWER:

Write to Carson in care of NBC, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

Carson's ratings are well above those of his two competitors, Dick Cavett and Merv Griffin. He will probably have a job on THE TONIGHT SHOW for as long as he wants.

* * *

I'd like to know if DAN AUGUST will be on next season, also what you think of the show. Also, where can I get a picture of Bela Lugosi?

ANSWER:

DAN AUGUST will not be back next season. Personally, I felt it was a good adventure series, with plenty of action that made it a cut above the average.

I have been watching the ROLLER GAME OF THE WEEK on Channel 32 every Sunday evening. Could you please tell me if all that fighting is for real or do they just perform as such? My Dad says it's all put on, but I say no.

ANSWER:

The roller skating contests are billed as "exhibitions," not actual sporting events. As such, you can bet that much of the rough stuff is designed to entertain the audience. However, we've been told that tempers do flare and some of the fights are for real.

* * *

Would you please tell me if Elvis Presley is related to David Cassidy?

ANSWER:

The two are not related at all.

* * *

My question is, why doesn't Yul Brynner make movies any more and how old is he? I would also like to know if any of the older Clint Eastwood movies will ever be on TV.

ANSWER:

Brynner, 50, still makes an occasional movie, although he could be considered in a state of semi-retirement. His last television appearance was on the Tony Awards show where he recreated a portion of his award-winning performance on

Broadway in "The King and I."

If, by the old Clint Eastwood movies, you mean the so-called "spaghetti westerns" such as "A Fistful of Dollars" and "For a Few Dollars More," I doubt you will see them on television in the foreseeable future. If they do appear, they will probably be almost unrecognizable, with the more violent scenes cut out.

* * *

Would you please tell me how old Robert Young is?

ANSWER:

The veteran actor and star of MARCUS WELBY, M.D., is 64.

* * *

I would like to know what ever happened to the show WILD, WILD WEST and if it will ever return to TV. I think the show was great.

ANSWER:

WILD, WILD WEST suffered the fate of most television series—it was cancelled. It may keep reappearing in reruns, but never again in first run.

The star of the program, Robert Conrad, can be seen in a new series, THE D.A., which will begin in September on NBC, to be seen on Friday nights.

This diver is examining a submerged stalactite at least 12,000 years old, one of the geological treasures uncovered on the ABC News special, "Secrets of the Sunken Caves," Wednesday, June 30 7:30-8:30 p.m., an episode in the award-winning series, "The Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau."

Magic number—Dom DeLuise does a skit as a magician, adding to the comedy on "The Des O'Connor Show" Wednesday, June 30, on the NBC Television Network in color, 8-9 p.m.

Citizens Group Views Plans For Creek Preserve

The Cook County Forest Preserve District, largest landholder within the Poplar Creek Watershed, reported to a citizens study group formed by the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago that completion of the new 4,000-acre Poplar Creek Preserve in Hoffman Estates hinges on availability of funds. At a meeting Wednesday in Hoffman Estates, Richard Buck, representing the forest preserve, showed a master plan for the preserve and two others now being developed, the Salt Creek Preserve and the Paul Douglas Preserve in Hoffman Estates and Palatine Township.

Mrs. Virginia Hayter, chairman of the group and a Hoffman Estates trustee, asked how residents can help.

Buck said formation of the study committee is the first step. The group will be asked to determine how the flow and drainage within the watershed will affect Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Barrington Hills, South Barrington and Streamwood.

THE MSD IS FUNDING a $1.5 million complete metropolitan area study of which Poplar Creek is a part, and the Soil Conservation Service is conducting the primary work.

The Forest Preserve District's plans for development of the Poplar Creek preserve show a water sports recreation area using extensive lagoon systems that thread through the creek along the present flow line of the creek.

A small portion of the preserve at Bode Road and Bartlett Road at Streamwood's borders has a parking area and two deep fishing lakes now in use. A small nature area at the north end of the preserve is also available to study groups but the rest of the preserve is open farm land waiting for development.

"When will it be completed?" asked

Mrs. Hayter. Buck pointed out that the preserve was only a "split in the bucket" compared to the Cook County's more than 62,000 acres of acquisitions and although the forest preserve would like to see it completed in six months, realistically a work time table must be described as "forever."

THOSE AT THE SESSION, Roy Carlson of the MSD, Howard Rahlfs, Hanover Township supervisor; Mrs. Jane Murphy representing the Schaumburg Clean Environment Committee, and Jim Spore, city planner for Elgin and a Streamwood resident, pledged to enlist residents' and officials' help.

Buck's suggestion that residents write Arthur Janura, superintendent of the Cook County Forest Preserve District, urging him to ask for an increased tax levy received lukewarm support from Mrs. Hayter.

"Why not try to get a bigger bite of the county's share?" suggested Mrs. Hayter. Buck added that area groups can help the forest preserve prepare the land for the actual reforestation and dredging and excavation. Recently a boy Scout troop removed miles of barbed wire fence from old farm borders and the district has just let contracts for the removal of remnants of old foundations.

Going to the state legislature for funding is also possibly hinted Buck. He told those present the preserve will be developed eventually. The 1,800 acre Douglas Preserve is in the study stage also but an 18-hole golf course at Roselle and Central Road should be completed in three years. A 220-acre lake at Algonquin Road and other pond areas should solve some of the flooding there now and might take care of Hoffman Estates toll-road flooding.

CARLSON URGED the group to continue its efforts, especially by working with village officials to ensure they do not relax their flood ordinances when new developments come to the area.

He praised the preserves cooperation with MSD to keep the flood plains near watercourses free from building development. Although recreation seemed to be the main discussion of the study group, flood control is an important part of the study, he reminded them.

Streamwood has provided for three retention ponds on Park District property and the MSD will fund building of the ponds. Hanover Park is working with an independent engineer to solve their flooding and Elgin is concerned because it lies downstream of the shed.

Elgin will host the September session of the study group in the civic center. As the group disbanded for a summer recess, Mrs. Hayter urged its members to recruit help for Development, Research Ecology and Recreation committees. She may be contacted by anyone interested in serving.

She reminded residents that the money and expertise are being provided by the area residents interest and cooperative efforts to make the Poplar Creek study what it is.

AFTER AN exciting year in New Zealand, Laurie Smith has returned home for the summer. Her trip was sponsored by Schaumburg Rotary Club.

Benefit Dance Set For Henning Fund

Newspapers don't use names of teens involved in reported cases of skulduggery and in this instance although the teens' acts are motivated by compassion and love they too will remain unnamed. The youth said that their names are an unimportant part of the story but asked the newspapers help to talk about Saturday's planned benefit dance in memory of a fellow teen who drowned June 10. Over a hundred teens from the tri-village area of Streamwood, Hanover Park and Bartlett, are planning a noon to midnight dance in the Streamwood Dolphin Pool Fun Center parking lot on Park Boulevard. All funds collected from the $1.50 admission will benefit the family of drowning victim Steve Henning of Hanover Park.

Year Of Adventure Ends For Foreign Exchange Students

by NANCY COWGER

A year of adventure has just ended for a Hoffman Estates girl and a teenaged boy who attended school in Hoffman Estates for a year.

The 17-year-olds both are completing a year as foreign exchange students under the auspices of the Schaumburg Rotary Club. The girl, Laurie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Smith of 189 Illinois Blvd., lived and attended a convent school in New Zealand. The boy, Shozo Shimokawa, lived in Roselle with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Schaible, and attended James B. Conant High School.

Shozo's home town, Samohi Machi Gun Aomori, has about 200,000 residents. It is not far from Tokyo, where Shozo plans to attend college after he completes high school a year from now. His own brother and sister are both married, and his father is owner of a clothing department store.

Life in America did not hold drastic surprises for Shozo, although it was different in many ways from his native culture. Shozo had studied English four years in school, and spoke it well when he arrived here last Aug. 10. He did, however, find hearing and understanding English a slight problem. Americans speak faster than his teacher did, he said.

SCHOOLS OPERATE according to different timetables in Japan, said Shozo. At home he attends school April through March, with a brief vacation in summer, winter and spring. The pupils study more subjects each day, with fine arts joining academics as daily lessons, and he spends the entire day in one classroom, rather than moving around the building for each subject.

The attitude toward Japanese young people also is different, said Shozo. "I think in Japan they take a little bit more care about us." American teens are allowed to date at an earlier age than are Japanese young people. Shozo said this may be related to the fact teens in his homeland are not allowed to drive cars until they are 18, and curfews are more stringently enforced by parents.

While life in Japan's cities is modern and similar to that of the United States, Japan's rural residents often "live like they did 100 or 200 years ago," said Shozo. Even in the cities, most families eat their meals while seated on floor cushions, according to tradition, although Shozo's family sits at a table.

SINCE SHOZO CAME here, he said, many people have asked him questions about his home, but they have always "been very kind for me." Some have asked him for lessons in chopstick use, but mostly, said Shozo, they did not catch on very well.

Shozo now is touring the U.S. with all other Rotary students visiting here. He will leave for home July 20.

Laurie's travels brought her more of the unexpected than did Shozo's. She had visited the library to study New Zealand

Expert Claims Watering Grass Is Ridiculous

What happens to lawns, shrubs, evergreens and trees when rainfall is sparse and there is an extended ban on sprinkling?

Not a great deal, according to a representative of Siems Nursery, Roselle.

"Grass will grow dormant and turn brown but can very well come back with the first good rainfall," the nursery employee told The Herald this week.

Actually, many horticulturists feel that the ordinary homeowner gardener waters for more than necessary.

"A majority drown their grass and shrubs in order to achieve what they consider lush green growth but, essentially, it is ridiculous to even bother water grass," she commented.

The rule indicated that "brand new things need a certain amount of water" and one good thorough soaking per week is adequate for sod.

LAWN WATERING must be carried out over a period of several hours in order to encourage deep rooting most authorities believe since light quick sprinkling produces a shallow root system.

How about special care when you can't water such as the people in Hoffman Estates?

"Leave things alone," is the answer. No great fussing, picking or grass mowing is necessary.

"I really sincerely think that people should get down on their knees and pray for rain rather than spending a lot of time stewing about the yard or garden," she said.

In the area of recreation during the water shortage, shower regulations have been slightly relaxed at the Hoffman Estates Park District Lions Pool "although if anyone is observed entering the pool that looks like a shower would be required you better believe he takes one" an employee said.

Reportedly park officials feel that despite the critical water condition, it is wiser to keep the community pool open in order to provide safe and cool recreation.

A park official was unable this week to estimate the number of gallons of water used in that pool but said that some precautions are being taken curing the shortage with a definite eye, however, to health and sanitation regulations.

Women's Golf Registration Ends Monday

Cut-off time for registering for women's golf instruction, offered as part of Schaumburg Park District's summer registration program, is noon Monday according to Jeff Fox, superintendent of recreation.

Beginning Monday, classes will meet once each week at 4 p.m. during the seven week summer program, at Robert Frost Junior High School on Wise Road.

The cost is $15. Students are asked to bring their own golf clubs, but the park district will supply golf balls.

Fox stressed this is a new program and was not finalized in time for listing in the recreational program brochure mailed to all residents of the park district a few weeks ago.

For additional information contact Fox at 894-3258 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

Close Study Of Law Gives Firms A Tap-On Fee Break

Careful interpretation of a village ordinance this week brought relief from exorbitant tap-on fees that could have been charged to 200 stores planning to locate in Woodfield Mall.

Philip Ross, representing Taubman Co., agent for the businesses in question, appeared at Tuesday night's village board meeting in Schaumburg to seek clarification of the ordinance covering tap-on fees as required for overhead sprinkling systems.

It was the decision of the village board that the four major tenants coming into the giant center (Sears-Roebuck and Co., Marshall Field and Co., J. C. Penney's and the mall stores under the jurisdiction of the Taubman firm) share tap-on fees.

Technically, Schaumburg's ordinance could require each individual business to pay a tap-on fee, however, Mayor Robert O. Atcher stressed that the ordinance encourages sprinkler installations and spells out only a ten per cent tap-on fee in these cases.

He explained that water mains which loop the shopping center were put in by the Taubman firm and taps made at their own cost in four locations in the areas in which their tenant businesses will be located.

The total tap-on cost for Taubman will be $7,000 which will cover four actual taps, ten inches each, at an individual cost of $1,750 each.

TAP-ON FEES are traditionally used for extension of services in Schaumburg, the mayor indicated.

In other business, it was revealed that Woodfield Mall stores will be equipped with a surveillance system plus an overall warning system.

Ross asked for permission to install a three foot antenna on top of the Woodfield Mall water tower.

His request was granted contingent on installation of the antenna that will not hamper maintenance of the water tower.

In line with suggestions offered by Trustee Jack Larsen, Ross will investigate Federal Aviation Association approval to light the top of the antenna.

The purchase of a sewer cleaner from Flexible Pipe Division of Rockall Mfg. Co. was approved.

This firm was low bidder with a cost of $22,165 compared with $23,365 suggested by Bruce Municipal, another supplier.

Authorization to purchase three walkie-talkie type radios at a cost not to exceed $1,350 was also authorized.

Boys' Baseball Leagues To Hold All-Star Games

All-star games of the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association (HEAA) will be played Sunday at Blackhawk School beginning at 1 p.m. The school is at Illinois Boulevard and Schaumburg Road in Hoffman Estates.

The minor league's American Division team (south of Higgins Road) will be managed by Sam Goranson of the Braves. He will be assisted by Chick Brutto of the Brewers.

Frank Vlasaty of the Angels will coach the National Division team and will be assisted by Bob Gallas of the Tigers.

The minor league all star line up includes National League members Mike Flahive, Kevin Hubbard, Bob Groble, Fernando Carballa, John Martinez, Mark Penrice, Larry Mead and Billy McBain. Other National League all stars are George Hockendary, Jay Langland, Larry Georgan, Tony Iannotti, Chris Moon, Rich Conrad and Don Calabrese.

On the American League line up will be Scott Danner, Scott Goranson, Brian McNally, Bob Parks, Rony DiJohn, Jim Patino, Casey Moore, Mark Hahnke, Stuart Ironside, and Steve Michlos.

Scott Bailey, Al Beamish and Steve Bergant will also play on the American League team.

Major league managers will be Nevin Riley for the National League Division and Dennis Curtin and John Rech for the American League Division.

Mental Health Board OKs Two New Members

Two new members of the Schaumburg Township Mental Health Board were appointed by Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, and the town board of auditors Wednesday night.

The appointments of Mrs. Carol Johnson and Mrs. Lorna Miller, both of the village of Schaumburg, bring membership on the board to four. Originally a seven-member arm of the town board, the health group was depleted by resignations of five members early this spring after dissensions on leadership developed.

The two members of the original board who will continue to serve when it is reactivated in September are James Guthrie of Schaumburg, and Mrs. Connie Schoeld of Hoffman Estates. The board was deactivated April 28 when the auditors officially accepted resignations from Robert Rew, Dr. Bernard Powell, Wally Roginski, Mrs. Beverly Templeton and Mrs. Lois Mailgren.

While the group is inactive, auditors Pete Wing and John Jensen are representing Schaumburg at a four-township mental health association, through which the local group had been working. They are expected to continue overseeing activities of the local board when it returns to active status.

The mental health board still has three openings, and Laubenstein said he expects to fill them before September.

Appoint Regan Representative In Health Study

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates Plan Commission chairman, was appointed this week to represent the village on a joint community study of health care needs with Schaumburg and other nearby towns.

It was one of several committee assignments made this week by Mayor Frederick Downey. Alternate committee member to the health care study committee will be Michael Redmond, a hospital administrator who is also on the village's plan commission.

Four village board committees will retain current chairmen for the coming year. Trustee William Cowin will chair the finance committee with Trustees Virginia Hayter and Bruce Lind serving as members.

Mrs. Hayter will chair the public works committee with Trustees Diane Jensen, Dyrlle Rathman and Cowin sitting as members.

The judiciary committee will be chaired by Trustee Edward Hennessy with Lind serving as a member. Confirmation is expected soon of Fred Waterbury and Fred Zaremka, community residents, as two other judiciary committee members.

Lind will continue to chair the municipal committee, watching over the planning and construction of the village's new police and municipal building. Rathman and Mrs. Jensen will serve under Lind.

Miss Sheehy Initiated

Kathleen Sheehy of 181 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates was initiated into Chi Omega at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb. Chi Omega is a national honorary for freshmen women.

Legalities Block Larson's Hiring

Trustee Edward Hennessy confirmed this week that he intended to have Dan Larson become village manager in Hoffman Estates, but was blocked by a legal technicality.

Larson is the former administrative assistant who, on June 14, resigned to become village manager in Buffalo Grove. Hennessy was expected to initiate action to make Larson Hoffman Estates' Village Manager on June 7, but the motion never came.

"It is true that I intended to make such a motion at that meeting and I believe such a motion would have carried a majority vote," Hennessy said, in a prepared statement this week.

"A review of the ordinance regarding the village manager indicated the president and board voting jointly could appoint a village manager," he added. "I felt any member of the board could make such a motion and it would be acted on as any other motion with the president exercising his prerogative to vote yes or no."

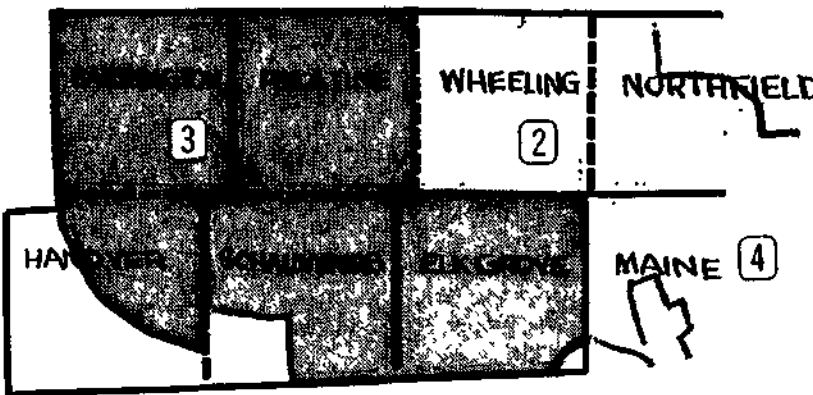

Hennessy and village officials later received word that only Downey could make the appointment. Because of the village attorney's opinion, Hennessy's motion was never made.

"While I still feel the appointment of Larson was justified, I could not in all honesty make the motion in the face of this legal opinion and possible future legal difficulties the village might encounter should such a motion have passed," said Hennessy.

"All other action contemplated to overcome this legal block were subsequently negated by Mr. Larson's resignation," he added.

Downey is known to have opposed having Larson become village manager, a recognized reason for Larson's resignation. Trustees in Hoffman Estates expressed "regrets" and "disgust" at losing Larson's services. Village Treas. Elmer Redker was appointed this week, with board concurrence, to serve as interim administrative assistant until a full-time village manager can be found.

Republican redistricting proposal

Committeemen Oppose Area Legislative Remap

by STEVE NOVICK

A division of Schaumburg and Hanover townships into two state legislative districts is opposed by local committeemen.

In Schaumburg Township John Morrissey, Democratic Committeeman, and Donald Totten, Republican Committeeman, both said the division will only provide confusion.

Attempts to reach Hanover Township committeemen yesterday were unsuccessful.

Under one-man-one-vote provisions in the law, redistricting is required before the 1972 general election. Republican party chiefs have proposed a map putting three quarters of Schaumburg Township and half of Hanover Township in the 3rd Representative District.

THE REMAINING PORTIONS of the two townships would be connected to the 36th Representative District in DuPage County (see map).

"I think it's really going to be bad if they split up the township," Totten said yesterday. "Some townships could end up in three different districts."

Keeping the township together could be more important than the one-man-one-vote idea, especially because of the constant population changes, he added.

"Most people don't know what district they live in now. To split up the township will only make for more confusion," said Totten.

Morrissey concurred, saying, "I'd like to see the whole township kept in one piece. It would make things more comfortable from a political point. I don't think it's a healthy thing."

THE REPUBLICAN'S MAP, unlikely to be adopted, excluded Wheeling Township from the existing 3rd District. It would also eliminate Representatives Eugene Chapman and Gene Schlickman as representatives from Schaumburg and Hanover townships.

Only Sen. John Graham (R-Barrington) and Rep. David Regner (R-Mt. Prospect) would remain as incumbents for coming elections.

Totten fears redistricting could leave the 3rd District with only one incumbent once finalized.

Morrissey said he doesn't see where the number of incumbents should make a difference.

Totten and others predicted the map proposed by Republicans will never become official. Democrats are expected to propose a map of their own in the immediate future.

The real redistricting will probably be done by a special commission, Totten added. The legislature has one week to approve a redistricting plan before the commission takes over the task.

Teens Slate Benefit Dance

the dance the benefit fund involved so many young people from the area they would be impossible to name.

"That's how we want it, said a spokesman of the group: We are not important; it's Steve's memory that is and we want his family to know we cared."

Mrs. Nanci Henning of 1717 Redwood St. Steve's mother, said since the drowning accident her sons' friends have shown her their concern and visit her often. Funeral expenses were paid with money collected, and earned by his fellow classmates at Tefft Junior High School. Mrs. Henning said a group came to her and asking her to close her eyes and dumped over $1,700 dollars in her lap "to help out." She learned later the teens had worked at whatever odd jobs they could find and dug into their own pockets "to help a friend."

The Streamwood Youth Club planned to give a $100 contribution and decided to sponsor the dance instead. At least four bands will play with the "Rain" scheduled from noon to 3 p.m. and the "Marks of Excellence" from 9 p.m. to midnight.

A second benefit is in the planning stages for later this summer, possibly to be held in Elgin.

So far the teens with the help of the Rev. Donald Koepke, their Teen Club advisor have done it alone.

But, to make Saturday's dance a success they need help, from adults who are willing to act as chaperones.

ANY ADULT interested in meeting some of the teens we've talked about, free admission and a ringside seat to the all-night performance is asked to call Rev. Koepke at 837-5208 and offer help for a two-hour chaperoning stint.

there, Laurie disliked tea and coffee, but she found they are an essential part of the New Zealanders' life. "They don't just sit around and talk. They always have to have tea and coffee and little cakes," she said.

Family life is closer in New Zealand, and "more homey," she said, although she did not stay with one family for her entire visit. It was split between two families, each of them with other children.

New Zealand mothers do not often work, said Laurie, but instead spend their time gardening, cooking, canning, baking and making preserves. Many times Laurie picked much of her dinner from the family garden.

While the students at the convent school Laurie attended were not allowed to wear make-up, and had to keep their hair in pigtails and ponytails, Laurie, said they seemed more mature than American teenagers.

THEIR MATURITY showed in their consideration for other persons ahead of themselves, she said.

In some areas, New Zealand is less mechanized than the U.S., and homes do not have indoor plumbing, said Laurie. But neither does New Zealand have slums, she points out. The people have a very stereotyped view of Americans, and think all U.S. teens are rich, with extravagant clothes, cars and wealthy parents, said Laurie. Many were surprised to find this is not true.

New Zealanders, who also are fighting in the Vietnam War, seem to blame their involvement on the U.S., said Laurie. While their newspapers say little about New Zealand participation in the war, they are full of stories about American fighting. While Laurie was there, she saw a student demonstration demanding President Nixon get New Zealand out of Vietnam. But more important to the New Zealanders is America's treatment of its native Indians, since they also have Indian rebels among their Maori tribe.

While Laurie misses the friends she made in New Zealand, she is glad to be home, where all business does not close at 5 p.m. weekdays and stay closed Saturdays and Sunday, and where life is less governed by formality.

Board Votes To Keep Engineers Cool

Both of Schaumburg's village engineers will keep their cool over the next few months due to action taken by the village board this week.

At the recommendation of Mayor Robert O. Atcher, the decision to air condition the automobile being used by Joe Zgonina was made.

The mayor explained that he had attended a meeting with Zgonina in Chicago last week and was basing his recommendation on experience in the automobile.

"In his capacity as a village engineer, he is responsible for attending some of these meetings and I'm sure does not want to arrive in wrinkled clothing on a hot day," Atcher said.

In somewhat related action, the board approved purchase of an air conditioner for Hugh Cahill, another village engineer, at a cost not to exceed $220.

TRUSTEES ALSO accepted the low bid of $585, furnished by Dependable Decorating, for complete exterior painting of the Springsguth Road fire station.

Another bid, totalling $750, was also submitted for the project by E. M. Mueller & Co.

Reporting in the area of village finance, Trustee Gordon E. Mullins said that a new computer program was initiated last week.

With the computer operating, several machines used for addressing are no longer necessary and should be offered for sale Mullins suggested.

He said that original cost of the equipment was about $6,000 and estimated that they could be sold for between $2-3,000.

Trustees agreed unanimously to advertise the equipment for sale.

According to Trustee Jack Larsen, the Clean Environment Committee will meet Tuesday, July 6 at 8 p.m. at the Great Hall.

Larsen said that the group intends to pursue its study of phosphates but reported that the waterways cleanup scheduled for several weekends in June was postponed to next fall.

Mayor Atcher explained that he plans to meet with persons involved in a company which collects newspapers in the greater Chicago area which arose as a suggestion from the first "Coffee with the Council" several weeks ago.

HE SPECULATED THAT perhaps one of the community organizations might want to undertake such an arrangement as a possible fund raising project.

Larsen said that glass manufacturers also intend to pick up a program of inquiring about a similar idea with community groups.

Board members also approved an ordinance rezoning a 20-acre area owned by Levitt & Sons from Planned Unit Development (PUD) B-2 zoning to B-2 general retail and business district.

The property is located one-half mile east of Barrington Road in a multi-family area being developed by Levitt & Sons and will eventually be a shopping center.

This week, Atcher also announced that the village's cultural commission, of which several prominent Chicagoans are also members, will hold a meeting Thursday, July 1 at 8 p.m. at the Great Hall conference room.

The mayor reported more dialogue with representatives of Harding Museum and said that the possibility of hiring a consultant to assist in making certain decisions and determinations regarding the museum has been suggested.

Air Pocket Saves Life Of Buried Worker

by TOM ROBB

Kept alive only by an underground air pocket, one construction worker was buried under 18 feet of earth and another was trapped following a sewer caisson cave-in yesterday in northern Arlington Heights.

Rescuers worked for nearly two hours to free 47-year-old Alphonse Neri, 4007 S. Artesian, Chicago, who was buried alive when the side walls of a 16-foot hole caved in.

Neri, an employee of Tremar Inc., a local firm, survived the ordeal only by putting his head in the open end of a sewer pipe where enough air was trapped to sustain him.

Another worker, Thomas Urso, 30, of 1505 N. 21st St., Melrose Park, was trapped up to his neck in the landslide for about 30 minutes before fellow construction workers and 11 men from the Arlington Heights Fire Department rescued him, said Frank DeFrancesco, president of Tremar.

Jack Ryan, director of public relations for Northwest Community Hospital said, "both men are doing all right considering the ordeal they've been through." Neri suffered a broken hip and Urso a possible broken arm.

The excavation site is located just south of Rand Road and directly across from Corrado's Restaurant, 310 W. Rand Rd.

"We just got back from lunch and jumped into the hole when it happened," Urso said. "It came so fast we couldn't do anything but stand there."

The men were two of eight workers who were tunneling a sanitary sewer from north of Rand Road to the Greenbrier Apartment complex at Rand and Kennicott.

THE CAVE-IN occurred shortly before 1 p.m. Urso was freed by 1:30 p.m., and firemen and workers lifted Neri from the hole by stretcher basket at 2:20 p.m.

"I heard two guys yell to make a run for it, but it was too late," said Urso, who was buried to the top of his head and regained his breath only after a fellow worker scooped dirt away from Urso's face.

It took at least 20 rescuers close to two hours to free Neri, however, who was at the bottom of the hole when the accident occurred.

"I used the big machine to dig most of the dirt off of him and stopped when I heard him screaming — otherwise the machine would have killed him," said DeFrancesco.

Workers then had to use shovels to get closer to the victim. "The last few inches we had to use our fingers to dig," said

Arlington Heights fireman Richard Frost, who like other workmen, was sweating and breathless because of the speed at which he worked.

Fearing further cave-ins and that Neri's air supply was dwindling, state and local police roped off the area to a large crowd of bystanders to aid the rescuers in their work.

"It came in three waves — one slide, another and then another," Urso said. "I saw Al disappear and was sure he was dead. I can't believe it."

Neri and Urso have worked as a team in excavation pits for several years. Both veteran laborers, "we've been through this before, but this is as close a call as you'll get," he added.

5th Hospital Fete To Have German Taste

Brother Ferdinand Leyva, administrator of the Alexian Brothers Medical Center, will serve as chief beer keg tapper at the fifth anniversary celebration of the hospital on Sunday.

The celebration also will feature a German band concert with Lil' Richard, Chicago's Polka General, and a bratwurst dinner from 5 to 7 p.m. on the grounds behind the hospital, 800 Blesterfield Rd., Elk Grove Village.

The band will provide two hours of German music and polkas. Four costumed members of the center's administrative staff will play balloon men.

Employees, medical staff, Auxiliaries and the community at large may bring their own picnic baskets or buy for a nominal sum a German bratwurst dinner with beer for adults and cola for youngsters.

The dinner will be prepared by members of the medical center staff supervised by Peter Haene, a graduate of the Swiss Hotel School and a native German Swiss.

Tables and chairs will not be provided. Guests are advised to bring a blanket to sit on.

Concert Promoter Has Applied For Business License

The prospects for a summer of rock concerts at Wheeling High School looked bright yesterday morning after concert promoter Dex Card applied for a Wheeling business license.

Wheeling Trustee Roger Stricker said yesterday the license will be granted to Card for the additional concerts.

Stricker estimated the license, good for three months, will cost $50.

Village officials had threatened to cancel the remaining concerts planned by Card unless he applied for a business license by the end of the week, card applied late Wednesday.

Two concerts in the weekly series have already been held.

Stricker explained yesterday the village felt it was only fair to require a license for the concerts since other civic organizations have to buy licenses for their activities.

STRICKER CITED the drum and bugle corps competition July 3 and the historical society Brat and Beer Fest Aug. 1 as examples of amusements which will need licenses.

Stricker said he would be very pleased with the rock concerts if the rest of the shows are as well managed as the first two.

He said concert supervision this week had improved since the first concert. He also commented favorably on increased lighting and the presence of Wheeling firemen at the second show.

Stricker said he was not critical of Card for holding out on the business license because "He's like any other businessman, he won't do it unless you require him to."

Stricker has asked for an ordinance to provide more detailed control of amusements in the village. He said the ordinance will be directed not only at the rock concerts but also at other amusements in the village.

He said similar ordinances have been proposed from time to time at the board level, but have never been enacted.

HE POINTED OUT ordinances similar to the one he proposed are used in Elmhurst to control Card's rock concerts and in Arlington Heights to provide police protection at Arlington Park Race Track.

Stricker said he wanted the ordinance because he was concerned Wheeling Policemen would not have pension rights if injured while working for private shows.

A portion of the profits from the concert series go to the Wheeling Instrument League to finance activities for the Wheeling High School Band.

Alberta Klocke, projects chairman for the instrumental league commented that the concerts have caused no problems as far as the league is concerned.

The rock concerts are the first time the league has sponsored this type of fund raising project, she said.

"This community lacks something for the kids to do. There's not a thing for them. This keeps them off the street. The concerts are beneficial to us and to the kids," Mrs. Klocke said.

Mrs. Klocke said she didn't know yet how the funds raised at the concerts will be used.

She said a decision on what band activities the funds will be allocated to will be made with band director Irwin Brick.

"I'd like to see them go back to Virginia Beach and win the big one," she admitted.

HELP Unit Elects New Officers

New officers were elected Wednesday at a meeting of HELP, Inc., an organization seeking to curb drug abuse in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove-Prospect Heights area.

The new president of the group is Donald L. Kearns of Buffalo Grove. Kearns replaces Richard Stanowski of Wheeling as president of the organization.

The new vice president of HELP is Freddie Mitchell, counselor at Wheeling High School. Elected secretary-treasurer of the organization was Ruth Wieder of Wheeling.

HELP members also discussed plans for establishing a hotline in the community and the proposed youth services program for troubled youth.

KEARNS TOLD the small gathering at the meeting that it is important for HELP to take a "good, positive approach" in combating youth problems, particularly drug abuse, in the community.

He said that establishing a hotline where troubled persons could call for aid and the youth services program that would provide a variety of services to the community are two examples of the positive approach HELP should take.

Representatives of HELP, the Wheeling Youth Commission and the now-defunct TORCH Mental Health Clinic have worked to revise the youth services proposal program for presentation before the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC). The groups hope to receive an ILEC grant to begin the program.

A HELP sub-committee is also working this summer on plans to establish a hotline in the community by the fall.

Kearns said that the drug survey recently completed by Dist. 214 demonstrated that drug abuse is a problem in the area.

"The community made no expression of concern," surprise or alarm. The tendency was to ignore it (the survey). Perhaps this is because they feel helpless to do anything," Kearns said.

Kearns added that schools cannot take on the whole task of combating drug abuse, but that community support is necessary for any successful drug abuse program.

HELP members also voted Wednesday to donate $100 to the hotline sub-committee.

THE WALLS OF Wheeling's oldest building came tumbling down this week as the final chapter in a fight between the village and the late Arthur Fass-

bender Sr. The 127 year old building had been a thorn in the side of the Wheeling Village Board since Dundee Road was widened in 1968. An agreement shortly before Fassbender's recent death was finalized recently between the village board and Fassbender's son.

Oldest Building Being Torn Down

Wreckers began tearing down the 127-year-old Fassbender building, bringing to an end three years of controversy over the building, the oldest in Wheeling.

As demolition progressed, a Circuit Court judge dismissed a demolition suit the Village of Wheeling had filed against the building at Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer said that the village asked Wednesday that the suit be dismissed because the owner of the building had begun demolition. Hamer said the building was about three-fourths demolished then.

Hamer explained that the suit was dismissed "without prejudice," which he explained means it could be reinstated within 30 days if the building is not completely demolished as promised.

The village's suit, which had sought a court order that the building be demolished for safety and health reasons, was being heard by Judge Nathan Cohen in the Chancery Division of Cook County Circuit Court.

The dismissal of the suit brings to an end a three-year controversy between village officials and the late Arthur Fassbender Sr. over the fate of the building.

FASSBENDER, WHO died March 25, had maintained that the building had historic value and should be preserved.

It was Fassbender's birthplace, the site of his hardware store, and for many years served as a post office, bank, and restaurant.

He had sought village board permission to remodel the building as an office building. A portion of the building was destroyed with the widening of Dundee Road in 1968.

Village officials had staunchly refused to allow remodeling of the building however. They saw it as an eyesore on the main corner in the village and also were concerned about the health and safety standards in the old structure.

In the three years the building was the subject of several court suits, including one in 1969 that led to Fassbender being fined $100 for remodeling the building without a permit.

SHORTLY BEFORE his death Fassbender told village zoning board of appeals he would demolish the building if the village would grant him a variation to allow a new building to be built seven feet back from the sidewalk.

Fassbender said then that he needed the variation to have room for three offices in the building.

Since Fassbender's death the village completed hearings on the request, and the village board voted to grant the variation if the building were torn down.

A. S. Krisor, Fassbender's attorney, testified at a recent hearing that a new office building would be constructed on the lot, probably beginning next year.

Board To Review Budget Tonight

A preliminary review of the Wheeling village budget with an emphasis on village employe salaries is set for 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Wheeling Municipal Building.

Wheeling Trustee Michael Valenza, who heads the village board finance committee, called the meeting which he said would be open to the public.

Valenza explained that board members do not yet have the preliminary budget proposal from Acting Village Mgr. George Passolt so that Friday's meeting would not be a regular budget hearing.

Valenza said he hoped to begin scheduling village budget hearings soon.

State law requires the village to pass an appropriation ordinance by July 31.

AFTER NEARLY two hours, rescuers in Arlington Heights freed construction worker Alphonse Neri, 47, who was buried under 16 feet of earth when an excavation pit located across from Corrado's Restaurant, 317 W. Rand Road caved in. Happiest of all to see Neri alive was his friend and co-worker, Thomas Urso, 30, who was also trapped, but rescued an hour earlier. "I was amazed to see him alive. It seemed like we dug forever before we heard him yelling," said Frank DeFrancesco, their boss. (Photo by Jay Needleman)

Air Pocket Saves Buried Worker

by TOM ROBB

Kept alive only by an underground air pocket, one construction worker was buried under 16 feet of earth and another was trapped following a sewer caisson cave-in yesterday in northern Arlington Heights.

Rescuers worked for nearly two hours to free 47-year-old Alphonse Neri, 4007 S. Artesian, Chicago, who was buried alive when the side walls of a 16-foot hole caved in.

Neri, an employee of Tremar Inc., a local firm, survived the ordeal only by putting his head in the open end of a sewer pipe where enough air was trapped to sustain him.

Another worker, Thomas Urso, 30, of 1505 N. 21st St., Melrose Park, was trapped up to his neck in the landslide for about 30 minutes before fellow construction workers and 11 men from the Arlington Heights Fire Department rescued him, said Frank DeFrancesco, president of Tremar.

Jack Ryan, director of public relations for Northwest Community Hospital said, "both men are doing all right considering the ordeal they've been through." Neri suffered a broken hip and Urso a possible broken arm.

The excavation site is located just south of Rand Road and directly across from Corrado's Restaurant, 310 W. Rand Rd.

"We just got back from lunch and jumped into the hole when it happened," Urso said. "It came so fast we couldn't do anything but stand there."

The men were two of eight workers who were tunneling a sanitary sewer from north of Rand Road to the Greenbrier Apartment complex at Rand and Kennicott.

THE CAVE-IN occurred shortly before 1 p.m. Urso was freed by 1:30 p.m., and firemen and workers lifted Neri from the hole by stretcher basket at 2:20 p.m.

"I heard two guys yell to make a run for it, but it was too late," said Urso, who was buried to the top of his head and regained his breath only after a fellow worker scooped dirt away from Urso's face.

It took at least 20 rescuers close to two hours to free Neri, however, who was at the bottom of the hole when the accident occurred.

"I used the big machine to dig most of the dirt off of him and stopped when I heard him screaming — otherwise the machine would have killed him," said DeFrancesco.

Workers then had to use shovels to get closer to the victim. "The last few inches we had to use our fingers to dig," said Arlington Heights fireman Richard Frost, who like other workmen, was sweating and breathless because of the speed at which he worked.

Fearing further cave-ins and that Neri's air supply was dwindling, state and local police roped off the area to a large crowd of bystanders to aid the rescuers in their work.

"It came in three waves — one slide, another and then another," Urso said. "I saw Al disappear and was sure he was dead. I can't believe it."

Neri and Urso have worked as a team in excavation pits for several years. Both veteran laborers, "we've been through this before, but this is as close a call as you'll get," he added.

PRICE said he expected Dr. Middleton to file a petition for rehearing prior to the deadline. "If he doesn't, it's all over — he's finished," he said.

If the first appeal is not filed within the 20 days, Price explained, "He waives his rights to a hearing in the circuit court."

Meanwhile, Dr. Middleton is continuing his practice in offices at 968 Elmhurst Rd., unincorporated Des Plaines. He is scheduled to appear again on the criminal charges July 7, at which time Judge Robert Downing will rule on the doctor's request for a change in judges.

YESTERDAY, however, Price said the deadline for the appeal would fall in mid-July because the registered letter notifying the doctor of the revocation was not mailed until "today or yesterday."

Price said the doctor actually has 20 days after the letter is mailed to file his appeal.

School Board May Buy Classroom TV

The Dist. 125 school board is considering purchasing classroom television equipment for use at Adlai Stevenson High School.

AT MONDAY night's school board meeting, the board heard a presentation by the Stevenson audio visual director, a social studies instructor, and an English instructor at the high school, on how the equipment could be used.

Oppose Effluent Drainage Plan

A resolution opposing the North Shore Sanitary District plans to drain sanitary sewage effluent into the Des Plaines River is being prepared by the Wheeling Village attorney.

The resolution, which points out there is not sufficient velocity in the river to handle the effluent, will be voted on by the Wheeling village board Monday.

Board members last week quipped about the sewage after trustee Albert Lang noted it would be dumped into the river at the Lake Cook county line.

"We get the first shot at it," Lang said.

"At least it's fresh," Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon commented.

The Illinois Pollution control board also recently criticized the proposal for sewage dumping into the river.

Concert Promoter Has Applied For Business License

The prospects for a summer of rock concerts at Wheeling High School looked bright yesterday morning after concert promoter Dex Card applied for a Wheeling business license.

Wheeling Trustee Roger Stricker said yesterday the license will be granted to Card for the additional concerts.

Stricker estimated the license, good for three months, will cost $50.

Village officials had threatened to cancel the remaining concerts planned by Card unless he applied for a business license by the end of the week, card applied late Wednesday.

Two concerts in the weekly series have already been held.

Stricker explained yesterday the village felt it was only fair to require a license for the concerts since other civic organizations have to buy licenses for their activities.

STRICKER CITED the drum and bugle corps competition July 3 and the historical society Brat and Beer Fest Aug. 1 as examples of amusements which will need licenses.

Stricker said he would be very pleased with the rock concerts if the rest of the shows are as well managed as the first two.

He said concert supervision this week had improved since the first concert. He also commented favorably on increased lighting and the presence of Wheeling firemen at the second show.

Stricker said he was not critical of Card for holding out on the business license because "He's like any other businessman, he won't do it unless you require him to."

Stricker has asked for an ordinance to provide more detailed control of amusements in the village. He said the ordinance will be directed not only at the rock concerts but also at other amusements in the village.

He said similar ordinances have been proposed from time to time at the board level, but have never been enacted.

HE POINTED OUT ordinances similar to the one he proposed are used in Elmhurst to control Card's rock concerts and in Arlington Heights to provide police protection at Arlington Park Race Track.

Stricker said he wanted the ordinance because he was concerned Wheeling Police would not have pension rights if injured while working for private shows.

A portion of the profits from the concert series go to the Wheeling Instrument League to finance activities for the Wheeling High School Band.

Alberta Klocke, projects chairman for the instrumental league commented that the concerts have caused no problems as far as the league is concerned.

The rock concerts are the first time the league has sponsored this type of fund raising project, she said.

"This community lacks something for the kids to do. There's not a thing for them. This keeps them off the street. The concerts are beneficial to us and to the kids," Mrs. Klocke said.

Mrs. Klocke said she didn't know yet how the funds raised at the concerts will be used.

She said a decision on what band activities the funds will be allocated to will be made with band director Irwin Brick.

"I'd like to see them go back to Virginia Beach and win the big one," she admitted.

HELP Unit Elects New Officers

New officers were elected Wednesday at a meeting of HELP, Inc., an organization seeking to curb drug abuse in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove-Prospect Heights area.

The new president of the group is Donald L. Kearns of Buffalo Grove. Kearns replaces Richard Stanowski of Wheeling as president of the organization.

The new vice president of HELP is Freddie Mitchell, counselor at Wheeling High School. Elected secretary-treasurer of the organization was Ruth Wieder of Wheeling.

HELP members also discussed plans for establishing a hotline in the community and the proposed youth services program for troubled youth.

KEARNS TOLD the small gathering at the meeting that it is important for HELP to take a "good, positive approach" in combating youth problems, particularly drug abuse, in the community.

He said that establishing a hotline where troubled persons could call for aid and the youth services program that would provide a variety of services to the community are two examples of the positive approach HELP should take.

Representatives of HELP, the Wheeling Youth Commission and the now-defunct TORCH Mental Health Clinic have worked to revise the youth services proposal program for presentation before the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC). The groups hope to receive an ILEC grant to begin the program.

A HELP sub-committee is also working this summer on plans to establish a hotline in the community by the fall.

Kearns said that the drug survey recently completed by Dist. 214 demonstrated that drug abuse is a problem in the area.

"The community made no expression of concern, surprise or alarm. The tendency was to ignore it (the survey). Perhaps this is because they feel helpless to do anything," Kearns said.

Kearns added that schools cannot take on the whole task of combating drug abuse, but that community support is necessary for any successful drug abuse program.

HELP members also voted Wednesday to donate $100 to the hotline sub-committee.

THE WALLS OF Wheeling's oldest building came tumbling down this week as the final chapter in a fight between the village and the late Arthur Fass-

bender Sr. The 127 year old building had been a thorn in the side of the Wheeling Village Board since Dundee Road was widened in 1968. An agreement shortly before Fassbender's recent death was finalized recently between the village board and Fassbender's son.

Oldest Building Being Torn Down

Wreckers began tearing down the 127-year-old Fassbender building, bringing to an end three years of controversy over the building, the oldest in Wheeling.

As demolition progressed, a Circuit Court judge dismissed a demolition suit the Village of Wheeling had filed against the building at Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road.

'Larry The Legend' To Introduce Girls

When the girls walk on stage tomorrow night to begin competition for the Miss Buffalo Grove Pageant, they will be introduced by radio personality Larry "The Legend" Johnson.

Johnson, who will be master of ceremonies for the first annual pageant, hosts a midnight to 6 a.m. radio show on station WIND.

Eight girls have entered this year's competition which will be held at 8 p.m. at James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School. Admission is $1. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer said that the village asked Wednesday that the suit be dismissed because the owner of the building had begun demolition. Hamer said the building was about three-fourths demolished then.

Hamer explained that the suit was dismissed "without prejudice," which he explained means it could be reinstated within 30 days if the building is not completely demolished as promised.

The village's suit, which had sought a court order that the building be demolished for safety and health reasons, was being heard by Judge Nathan Cohen in the Chancery Division of Cook County Circuit Court.

The dismissal of the suit brings to an end a three-year controversy between village officials and the late Arthur Fassbender Sr. over the fate of the building.

FASSBENDER, WHO died March 25, had maintained that the building had historic value and should be preserved.

It was Fassbender's birthplace, the site of his hardware store, and for many years served as a post office, bank, and restaurant.

He had sought village board permission to remodel the building as an office building. A portion of the building was destroyed with the widening of Dundee Road in 1968.

Village officials had staunchly refused to allow remodeling of the building however. They saw it as an eyesore on the main corner in the village and also were concerned about the health and safety standards in the old structure.

In the three years the building was the subject of several court suits, including one in 1969 that led to Fassbender being fined $100 for remodeling the building without a permit.

SHORTLY BEFORE his death Fassbender told village zoning board of appeals he would demolish the building if the village would grant him a variation to allow a new building to be built seven feet back from the sidewalk.

Fassbender said then that he needed the variation to have room for three offices in the building.

Since Fassbender's death the village completed hearings on the request, and the village board voted to grant the variation if the building were torn down.

A. S. Krisor, Fassbender's attorney, testified at a recent hearing that a new office building would be constructed on the lot, probably beginning next year.

Planned Unit Law Finalized

A new planned unit development ordinance was finalized by the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission at their meeting Wednesday night.

It will be presented to the village board for their approval at Monday night's village board meeting, according to Plan Commission Chairman Merrill Hoyt.

"It (the ordinance) will be a complete, separate article under the zoning ordinance. It sets forth procedures for granting planned unit zoning," Hoyt said.

The new ordinance sets a maximum of 24 units per acre.

16 units per acre for apartment developments and outlines other building regulations, Hoyt explained.

Hoyt termed the new ordinance a "definite improvement" over the old system of granting planned unit zoning.

"In the past, planned unit zoning was tagged on as a special use to R-9 zoning and there is a question about what is an allowable density under R-9," he said.

In the past, density under R-9 zoning with a special use has ranged from 16 to 24 units per acre.

AFTER NEARLY two hours, rescuers in Arlington Heights freed construction worker Alphonse Neri, 47, who was buried under 16 feet of earth when an excavation pit located across from Corrado's Restaurant, 317 W. Rand Road caved in. Happiest of all to see Neri alive was his friend and co-worker, Thomas Urso, 30, who was also trapped, but rescued an hour earlier. "I was amazed to see him alive. It seemed like we dug forever before we heard him yelling," said Frank DeFrancesco, their boss. (Photo by Jay Needleman)

Air Pocket Saves Buried Worker

by TOM ROBB

Kept alive only by an underground air pocket, one construction worker was buried under 16 feet of earth and another was trapped following a sewer caisson cave-in yesterday in northern Arlington Heights.

Rescuers worked for nearly two hours to free 47-year-old Alphonse Neri, 4007 S. Artesian, Chicago, who was buried alive when the side walls of a 16-foot hole caved in.

Neri, an employee of Tremar Inc., a local firm, survived the ordeal only by putting his head in the open end of a sewer pipe where enough air was trapped to sustain him.

Another worker, Thomas Urso, 30, of 1505 N. 21st St., Melrose Park, was trapped up to his neck in the landslide for about 30 minutes before fellow construction workers and 11 men from the Arlington Heights Fire Department rescued him, said Frank DeFrancesco, president of Tremar.

Jack Ryan, director of public relations for Northwest Community Hospital said, "both men are doing all right considering the ordeal they've been through." Neri suffered a broken hip and Urso a possible broken arm.

The excavation site is located just south of Rand Road and directly across from Corrado's Restaurant, 310 W. Rand Rd.

The men were two of eight workers who were tunneling a sanitary sewer from north of Rand Road to the Greenbrier Apartment complex at Rand and Kennicott.

THE CAVE-IN occurred shortly before 1 p.m. Urso was freed by 1:30 p.m., and firemen and workers lifted Neri from the hole by stretcher basket at 2:20 p.m. "I heard two guys yell to make a run for it, but it was too late," said Urso, who was buried to the top of his head and regained his breath only after a fellow worker scooped dirt away from Urso's face.

It took at least 20 rescuers close to two hours to free Neri, however, who was at the bottom of the hole when the accident occurred.

"I used the big machine to dig most of the dirt off of him and stopped when I heard him screaming — otherwise the machine would have killed him," said DeFrancesco.

Workers then had to use shovels to get closer to the victim. "The last few inches we had to use our fingers to dig," said Arlington Heights fireman Richard Frost, who like other workmen, was sweating and breathless because of the speed at which he worked.

Fearing further cave-ins and that Neri's air supply was dwindling, state and local police roped off the area to a large crowd of bystanders to aid the rescuers in their work.

"It came in three waves — one slide, another and then another," Urso said. "I saw Al disappear and was sure he was dead. I can't believe it."

Neri and Urso have worked as a team in excavation pits for several years. Both veteran laborers, "we've been through this before, but this is as close as you'll get," he added.

State Extends Dr. Middleton Appeal Deadline To Mid-July

The deadline for Dr. James Middleton's appeal to retain his license to practice medicine has been extended to mid-July.

The medical examining committee of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education revoked Dr. Middleton's license June 1 after two former women patients said the doctor drugged and sexually assaulted them.

Edward Price, chief attorney for the state agency, said the doctor was found guilty of "engaging in dishonorable and unprofessional conduct of a character likely to deceive, defraud or harm the public."

Price said Dr. Middleton, who is facing criminal charges of deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery, also was found guilty of using "fraud and deceit" to obtain a license in the state.

When the revocation was announced June 1, Price explained that Dr. Middleton could continue his practice while appealing the ruling. Price said the doctor could appeal for a rehearing before the director of the state agency within 20 days.

YESTERDAY, however, Price said the deadline for the appeal would fall in mid-July because the registered letter notifying the doctor of the revocation was not mailed until "today or yesterday."

Price said the doctor actually has 20 days after the letter is mailed to file his appeal.

If the letter was mailed yesterday, the deadline for appeal would be July 14.

If the request for a rehearing is denied, or if it is granted and the appeal denied, the doctor then would have 35 more days in which to request a hearing in the Circuit Court of Cook County.

PRICE said he expected Dr. Middleton to file a petition for rehearing prior to the deadline. "If he doesn't, it's all over — he's finished," he said.

If the first appeal is not filed within the 20 days, Price explained, "He waives his rights to a hearing in the circuit court."

Price said that if and when the doctor's appeals run out, Price would "physically send someone out there to take his license off the wall."

Meanwhile, Dr. Middleton is continuing his practice in offices at 969 Elmhurst Rd., unincorporated Des Plaines. He is scheduled to appear again on the criminal charges July 7, at which time Judge Robert Downing will rule on the doctor's request for a change in judges.

Trustee Hughes Is Expected To Resign Position

Trustee John Hughes is expected to resign from the village board within the next few weeks. He will be leaving his position as president of the Suburban National Bank July 1.

He and his family will be moving to Wisconsin.

Hughes has not submitted a formal resignation to the village board yet. However, he said he intends to resign as soon as he is certain when he will leave Palatine.

He has purchased 200 acres of property in Wisconsin and plans to develop it into a campground. At the same time, he'll also be associated with some Chicago banks.

A board member for more than five years, Hughes was appointed in 1966 and won election to a four-year term in 1969. The term expires in 1973.

He is chairman of the administration and finance committee.

HUGHES HAS BEEN a Palatine resident for 8 years. He lives with his wife and four sons, Glen, Ray, Craig and William, at 315 N. Plum Grove Rd.

He has been in the banking and financial field for 19 years and has been with the Suburban National Bank of Palatine since December, 1968, when it was formed.

Hughes has been in the banking and financial field for 19 years. Prior to coming to the Suburban National Bank of Palatine he was with the Palatine National Bank for six years.

He is past president and director of the Palatine Chamber of Commerce, past chairman of the board of directors of the Countryside YMCA and past president of the Palatine Township school trustees.

He presently is serving as a director of the Countryside YMCA.

HUGHES' REPLACEMENT as president of the bank was announced recently by the chairman of the bank's board of directors, Gerald F. Fitzgerald. He is Glen E. Short, formerly senior vice president of the bank.

Short's promotion culminates seven years of banking experience which began in 1964 in the Evanston Trust and Savings Bank's installment loan department.

In January, 1968, Short came to the Schaumburg State Bank as assistant vice president. He was named vice president there in October, 1967, and joined the Suburban Bank Group in May 1970, as vice president of Suburban Bank in Hoffman Estates.

A native of Michigan, he and his wife and three children have lived in Schaumburg since 1967.

Vandalism Shuts Lake Water Pump

Vandalism has forced the removal of a water pump from Lake Rossiter, north of U.S. 14 and west of Rte. 53, which has been used for flood control in Palatine's Winston Park area.

However, the pump will remain in operation when it is needed and will only be stored in the village garage to prevent further damage to it.

David Hunter, of the Illinois Division of Waterways, said vandals apparently damaged the suction hose of the pump early Sunday, although the pump itself was not damaged.

During rainy periods or when the level of Rossiter Lake rises, the pump will be put back into operation, he said.

The pump was first installed at the lake to reduce the lake's depth and increase the size of the storage basin to hold flood waters in rainy weather. It has eased flood conditions in Winston Park while construction work continues on a culvert on U.S. 14.

By pumping water out of the lake, the storage capacity of the retention basin increases, preventing flooding.

$90,000 Contract Awarded

A contract for almost $90,000 was awarded to Pritscher and Erbach of Arlington Heights by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board Wednesday to move the district into an industrial arts program for junior high students in the fall.

Sections of Carl Sandburg and Plum Grove schools will be converted into workshop and kitchen areas to provide seventh and eighth grade students with a full curriculum in industrial arts and home economics.

According to the contract, 63 days will be allowed for delivery and installation of the equipment. Although such a time limit will make preparation of the facilities "very close" to the fall opening of school, Dist. 15 architect Richard Donatoni told the board he did not expect any problems in reaching the deadline.

"Most of the work is inside work, so we don't have to worry about weather conditions," he said.

SEVERAL MONTHS AGO the board approved expansion of the junior high curriculum to include the industrial arts program for boys and home economics for girls. While only offered at two schools in the fall, the program will eventually be available at all junior high schools.

Palatine Hills Junior High School on Smith Street, which will begin construction this summer, will be totally equipped for industrial arts and home economics when it opens in 1972.

Donatoni told the board he will have final plans on the junior high school ready for the July 7 board meeting. At that time, board members will review his drawings and give formal approval to them. Bids on the construction job will be let shortly after that so that work can be started this summer.

APPLEHEAD DOLLS made by Deni Sargol of Palatine will go with her when she travels to Milan, France Sunday on a special trip financed by the Girl Scout's Juliette Lowe Friendship Fund.

Teen To Help In Milan

Deni Sargol of 1770 Lee Ct., Palatine has sailed the Atlantic Ocean, lived in British Columbia, been involved in youth training in Mystic Seaport, Conn., and has made several canoe trips in the wilds of the U.S.

This summer she will do some primitive camping along the Riviera in France and help restore the village of Melan, also in France.

Deni just turned 17. She is involved in these things all on her own, as a Girl Scout.

Deni's trip to France, which begins Sunday, is the culmination of most of the other things she has been active in since she became a Girl Scout 10 years ago in second grade. She will be traveling with five other girls from the United States as an international opportunity financed by the Girl Scouts' Juliette Lowe World Friendship Fund.

All of her past activities were considered in her selection for the honor. She is a first class Girl Scout and a junior and senior lifesaver. Her program aid, public relations aid, service aid and all the Girl Scout badges, plus her troop teaching, campouts, the day camp counseling, helped to make her eligible.

THE TRIP INVOLVES two days orientation in New York, four days staying in a scout hostel in Paris with boys and girls from all over the world, and then traveling to Melan.

The scouts will stay a week in Melan, where they will be in charge of building and restoring buildings, including replacing stained glass windows and repairing wrought iron fixtures.

Later they will spend four days in primitive camping along the Riviera. The last week will be spent participating in the "home hospitality" program of Girl Scouting. She will be living with different families in France.

Deni doesn't know yet with whom she will be living, but she has made the family some presents anyway. The presents are applehead dolls and macrame bracelets.

"I thought it would have more meaning if it was something I made myself," she explained, as she pointed out the different features on the dolls.

They are made by carving facial characteristics on apples, and letting them dry for three days. The heads are then wrapped to homemade bodies such as nylon wire around wire or bottles. Clothes are then sewn to fit the dolls' personalities. She has a Popeye, grumpy, clown, fisherman and many others.

APPLEHEAD DOLLS are not new to Deni. She has entered them in county and state fairs where she has won honors.

The 17-year-old is also a junior leader in 4-H, recipient of a state outstanding award, and representative of Cook County at the Illinois State Fair for three years. She is also secretary of the North Cook County Federation.

Her 4-H work has included dog care, veterinary science, home economics, sewing, cooking, demonstrations, public speaking, counseling and camp work.

She will again be participating in the County Fair July 30 to Aug. 1, although she will not be returning from her Girl Scout trip until July 31.

She will then be involved in the state fair in mid-August since she is narrator for her 4-H club's show which was accepted as an entry for the State Share the Fun event.

Deni also plans to do some counseling at a YMCA day camp this summer and hopes to fit in an intensified course to gain water safety instructor certification, the highest you can go in water safety learning.

A SENIOR AT Fremd High School, Deni is president of Orchestra and a member of the student council.

She says she would like to attend college at Colorado State University, possibly majoring in business administration and minoring in data processing.

For someone who has spent much of her life in or on the water it may seem strange for Deni to attend school in the snow country, but she explains, "I love snow skiing too."

She won't forget her other interests gained from Girl Scouting and 4-H, however.

"I'll raise my kids in scouting and then we can go canoeing, water skiing and sailing."

She also wants to be a troop leader like her mother, Clare "happy" Sargol, who has been Deni's leader for 10 years, and served as a leader for her older daughters also.

Girl Scouting is looked upon with high esteem by Deni. "It's fantastic. That's all I can say. There are so many people I never would have known or things I never would have learned to do."

Air Pocket Saves Buried Worker's Life

by TOM ROBB

Kept alive only by an underground air pocket, one construction worker was buried under 16 feet of earth and another was trapped following a sewer caisson cave-in yesterday in northern Arlington Heights.

Rescuers worked for nearly two hours to free 47-year-old Alphonse Neri, 4007 S. Artesian, Chicago, who was buried alive when the side walls of a 16-foot hole caved in.

Neri, an employee of Tremar Inc., a local firm, survived the ordeal only by putting his head in the open end of a sewer pipe where enough air was trapped to sustain him.

Another worker, Thomas Urso, 30, of 1506 N. 21st St., Melrose Park, was trapped up to his neck in the landslide for about 30 minutes before fellow construction workers and 11 men from the Arlington Heights Fire Department rescued him, said Frank DeFrancesco, president of Tremar.

Jack Ryon, director of public relations for Northwest Community Hospital said, "both men are doing all right considering the ordeal they've been through." Neri suffered a broken hip and Urso a possible broken arm.

The excavation site is located just south of Rand Road and directly across from Corrado's Restaurant, 310 W. Rand Rd.

"We just got back from lunch and jumped into the hole when it happened," Urso said. "It came so fast we couldn't do anything but stand there."

The men were two of eight workers who were tunneling a sanitary sewer from north of Rand Road to the Greenbrier Apartment complex at Rand and Kenilcott.

THE CAVE-IN occurred shortly before 1 p.m. Urso was freed by 1:30 p.m., and firemen and workers lifted Neri from the hole by stretcher basket at 2:20 p.m.

"I heard two guys yell to make a run for it, but it was too late," said Urso, who was buried to the top of his head and regained his breath only after a fellow worker scooped dirt away from Urso's face.

It took at least 20 rescuers close to two hours to free Neri, however, who was at the bottom of the hole when the accident occurred.

"I used the big machine to dig most of the dirt off of him and stopped when I heard him screaming — otherwise the machine would have killed him," said DeFrancesco.

Workers then had to use shovels to get closer to the victim. "The last few inches we had to use our fingers to dig," said Arlington Heights fireman Richard Frost, who like other workmen, was sweating and breathless because of the speed at which he worked.

Fearing further cave-ins and that Neri's air supply was dwindling, state and local police roped off the area to a large crowd of bystanders to aid the rescuers in their work.

"It came in three waves — one slide, another and then another," Urso said. "I saw Al disappear and was sure he was dead. I can't believe it."

Neri and Urso have worked as a team in excavation pits for several years. Both veteran laborers, "we've been through this before, but this is as close as call as you'll get," he added.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The Senate approved a limited "bill of rights for draftees" which would guarantee they could be represented by legal counsel and present witnesses before local Selective Service boards.

The Transportation Department spent $12,782 in 1969 to publish a children's book entitled "The Supersonic Pussycat" in an attempt to propagandize youngsters on the virtues of the now-defunct supersonic transport plane SST, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said.

An ex-Pentagon official who helped develop the policy for protecting security information said 99.5 per cent of classfied government material — including published portions of a "top secret" history of the Vietnam War — could safely be made public.

A natural gas explosion flared through a water tunnel in Sylmar, California suffocating trapped miners in one of the worst underground disasters in California history. At least one man survived.

The State

The Illinois Supreme Court approved the refunding of 19 million of the $39 million the state collected four years ago under a service extension of the sales tax.

Local 401 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees has voted unanimously to support a state-wide sick-call strike by state employees over a wage dispute with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Last Saturday at 8 a.m. Vince Dimeo, Arlington Park's outsider explained the morning workouts to Railbird Club members at the race track. Children were given rides on the merry-go-round. Incidentally, the canopy around it cost $3,000. Coloring books were also given to the children. Railbird meetings are every Saturday from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.

During the tour of the barns, many were amazed to find the stable area has accommodations for approximately 2,100 horses. There are also 754 rooms which are used for feed, equipment and living quarters for stable area personnel.

The Arlington Park Race Track uses approximately one million gallons of water daily. About one half of this total is used during the daily watering of the main track and the training track. About 200,000 gallons are used in the daily watering of the horses. The remaining 300,000 gallons are used for the washing of horses and miscellaneous use by stable area personnel.

The stable area also has a recreation hall and a track kitchen. Directly adjoining the stable area, at the northwest corner, is the Arlington Park trailer court. There are 170 mobile homes in the park and they are occupied by owners, trainers, jockeys, jockey agents and other people essential to the daily operation of Arlington Park.

Tomorrow at 8 a.m. take the family to the Railbird Club. Enter the race track on Euclid Avenue gate 5. Racing official Norman Towne will be on hand to talk with you and answer questions. Kids can ride the merry-go-round, get a copy of "Tale of the Thoroughbred" coloring book, and, if you want, take the tour of the stables. All for free.

CUB SCOUT pack 68 will be collecting cans and glass for recycling on Saturday at Topps in Rolling Meadows from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Helium filled balloons will be on sale Sunday, 3:30 p.m. at the ice cream social at St. Paul United Church, 144 E. Palatine Rd. Before you release the balloon put your name and address on it. Who knows, someone may find it and contact you! The Camp Fire Girls recently held a balloon release and received replies from near and far! In addition to ice cream there will be cake, coffee, tea and pop.

TAKE YOUR LAWN chairs and go to the Palatine Hills Recreation area (near the gold course) to hear the Palatine Village Band at 8 p.m. tonight. Selections you will hear are the Block "M" Marches written for the University of Michigan by Jerry Bilek, "Sequoia," "Evening in the Village," "Bella Bartok," "Where Have All the Flowers Gone," "The Syncope Clock," "Pavane," "Cantabile," two spirituals, "Deep River," and "Were You There," and two marches, "Little March," and "Medallion." Prose and Panthers, 4-H group, will have goodies for sale during the concert.

The Gourmet Group of the Palatine Newcomers Group is sponsoring a Texas Barbecue at the homes of Mrs. Jean Sevey and Mrs. Helen Murphy on Saturday. Their past two lunas were a great success.

Mrs. Pat Masucci, 358-3393 and Mrs. Polly Herzler, 358-3382 are interested in forming an alumni group composed of women who have belonged to the Newcomers Club three years or more. Call them if you're interested!

TAKE YOUR preschoolers to the library this morning at 11 a.m. for finger games, a picture film and a story. No advance registration is necessary.

Incidentally, Mrs. Alma Mehn, children's librarian has been pleased with the attendance at the Turn About program at various locations in Winston Park. If you forgot to send your 6 to 8 years olds, be sure to send them next week.

Shively Quits As A Principal

Richard Shively, principal of Virginia Lake School in Palatine, resigned this week from his position and has requested a teaching position in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

Shively, who has been with Dist. 15 for 10 years, resigned as principal for personal reasons that he felt made him unable to fulfill his contract.

However, he will remain with the district in a teaching capacity, probably in the intermediate grade levels.

Rossiter Lake Closed To Public

Rossiter Lake will be closed to the public. Palatine police reported Thursday. Owners of the lake said they feared lead to possible drownings, leaving the owners open for possible lawsuits.

Palatine Police Lt. Edward Campeau said police will be patrolling the area and asking anyone not authorized to be there to leave.

Mining Machine Rumble Continues

Residents living near the metropolitan sanitary district sewer line which is being tunneled under the railroad tracks by Wood Street just east of Smith Street can expect to be hearing a mining machine running 24 hours a day a while longer.

"It's just something we'll have to live with till they're done," Village Mgr. Bert Braun told village trustees after explaining the problem.

Residents near the tunnel had called Braun asking what was happening.

Braun said the physical requirements of the job necessitate having the machine running 24 hours a day. He said railroad personnel were also on the job 24 hours a day for inspection purposes.

THE TUNNELING, which began June 14, will last until the machine eats its way 200 feet under the tracks. The MSD only managed to cover four feet in every eight hour shift in the first 24 hours of the job.

Since then more complications have occurred with water being discovered in certain areas of the tunnel. The water must be removed before the machine can continue.

The tunneling has been stopped temporarily until the water can be removed. No estimate could be given by construction personnel on how soon they expect to resume the tunneling.

AN OIL TRUCK overturned about 5:45 a.m. yesterday while making a turn from Busse Road to Golf Road in Mount Prospect. The driver of the truck, Joseph H. Ament, 27, of Rockford, suffered minor cuts and bruises on his left arm, but refused medical aid, according to Mount Prospect Police. Ament was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. The truck is owned by the Jensen Co., of Rockford. (Photo by Jim Frost).

Speakout

Residents Like Bike Path Idea

Palatine and Rolling Meadows residents have a lot of children. Children ride bikes. Even adults have gotten into the swing of things and started bike riding again. But suburbia hasn't offered much place to ride except in the streets.

Several Northwest suburbs are considering the idea of bike paths and most local residents, when asked about the possibility of paths in their area, were all for them.

Mrs. Thomas S. Rivera of 132 Elizabeth Ct., Palatine, said, "I think it's terrific. We all ride bikes." Mrs. Rivera has children aged 8, 10, 11 and 12.

She said they are looking forward to the completion of a bike path proposed in Palatine along Salt Creek so they can ride up to Buffalo Grove. She said the children sometimes ride along Lake Rositer but it is dangerous and they can't go unless she is along.

MRS. ROBERT N. LINDQUIST of 3608 Pheasant Dr., Rolling Meadows, said, "There's a definite need for a bike path." She has three children riding bikes and thinks it's very dangerous for them to ride in the streets.

Mrs. Lindquist also rides a bike and said she would ride with the children on a bike path if one was built. "It would be more relaxing and the surroundings would be much prettier," she added.

Police To Assist In Drivers' Class

The Palatine Police Department is assisting in the operation of the driver's education class being offered by the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

Sgt. Gordon Mosby of the Palatine Police Department will be the instructor for one of the classroom lessons of the program. Mosby speaks both Spanish and English. Some of the participants in the program are of Mexican-American background and speak only Spanish.

Fifty-six people are enrolled in the program, which is given Thursday evenings at the Congregational United Church of Christ in Arlington Heights. The program, designed for low-income persons, features both classroom instruction and on-the-road-driver training.

Beth Hayes, 18, of 2008 Thrush Ln., Rolling Meadows said she sometimes rides her bike to work at Northwest Community Hospital along Central Road and finds it very dangerous.

She added, "I know a lot of older kids who would ride bikes for transportation if there was a safe place to ride."

MRS. CARL EHRHARDT of 1442 Glencoe St., Palatine liked the idea of a bike path for a different reason. Palatine is seeking federal funds to furnish its path. Mrs. Ehrhardt said, "We should take all we can from the government. That money might as well be for our own use."

Casey Donato, 15, of 3803 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows, said it would be a good idea because there would be less accidents. He added, "I'm sure my parents would like a bike path a lot. My dad doesn't like kids riding in the street, and mom rides a bike."

Mrs. William Costello of 1113 Eaton Ct., Palatine, said "I'd rather see something for mini-bikes. You can only ride them in the fields, and there aren't too many places like that here."

$100 In Baseball Equipment Stolen

About $100 worth of equipment has been stolen from five baseball fields in Palatine, according to Fred Hayes, vice president of Palatine Boys Baseball's central division.

Three of the fields are at the St. Theresa Catholic Church School, 445 N. Benton, and two are at Palatine Community Park.

The three fields at the St. Theresa school were built this year at a cost of about $12,000 to the baseball league.

Three pitching rubbers and one home plate were stolen.

Money for the fields was raised by holding a raffle and by charging a fee to all boys participating. According to Hayes, more equipment would be needed next year, but replacement of the stolen equipment may restrict some needed purchases.

Thirty teams use the fields every day of the week, said Hayes. The church and the park also use the fields at certain times. "Besides the loss of the equipment," Hayes said, "our agreement with the church may be in jeopardy if more damage is done to their property."

The league is offering a reward for information leading to identification of those involved in the vandalism. "We'd just like to get our equipment back," Hayes said.

Be Careful Of Solicitors

Discovery of solicitors without licenses recently in Palatine has prompted Village Mgr. Berton Braun to again caution residents about door-to-door solicitors. Young persons have been going door-to-door recently seeking money for decals with an ecology symbol on them.

Claiming to be members of the Citizens for Better Environment, a group with a supposed address on Clark Street in Chicago, the solicitors said they were authorized to solicit by the group. However they had received no permission to go door-to-door either from Palatine police or the village hall. They were discovered when they knocked at the residence of a state policeman in Palatine who happens to be assigned to investigating such groups. They were asking $1 for the decals and seeking signatures on a petition allegedly in support of clean environment. The authenticity of the persons and the Citizens for a Better Environment are being checked by the state police.

Fitness Pentathlon Will Be Wednesday

Palatine's fourth annual AAU Physical Fitness Pentathlon will take place Wednesday at the Palatine Community Park, according to Duane Hosmer, park district recreation director.

The meet, sponsored by the Palatine Park District and Jewel-Osco, is for boys and girls 6 to 18 years old. There are five different contests, with fitness standards set for each age group. Anyone meeting the standards receives a certificate of achievement.

The contests, Hosmer said, include a run-walk, situps, standing long jump, push ups and ball throw.

The meet drew almost 300 children last year, according to Hosmer. "We're hoping for an even bigger turnout this year," he said.

Registration for the meet begins at 9:15 a.m., and the contests get underway at 10.

Park District Teen Dance Set

The Orphanage will be the featured band at a teen dance from 8 to 11 p.m. Saturday at the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex.

The dance, sponsored by the park district, will cost $1.50 per person. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

Funds raised will be used to finance the park district's Free Place Coffeehouse. The monthly dances sponsored by the park district are the sole support of the Free Place.

Oak Parker Charged With Theft Of Boat

An Oak Park man, who allegedly stole a boat from the Sports Chalet in Rolling Meadows, has been charged in St. Charles, Ill., with the theft.

Gerry Spera, 29, was charged with the possession of a stolen boat after it was found on the Fox River near St. Charles Saturday.

Rolling Meadows police received a report of the Sports Chalet theft two weeks ago and sent reports to state law enforcement agencies. The boat was found by St. Charles police.

Spera was also charged with possession of a stolen car. He was released on $10,000 bond in connection with the two charges.

Sales Tax Returns Are High In City

Rolling Meadows sales tax returns continue to top $90,000 each month with the latest report of sales tax returns for the month of March $92,123.88 released yesterday by City Clerk Eileen Kornatz.

The Rolling Meadows portion of state motor fuel tax for May was $16,906.83, according to the city clerk.

BEER Committee Will Study Ecology

Mayor Roland Meyer has established a special city council committee to study ecology in Rolling Meadows.

The BEER committee was established this week to coordinate beautification and recycling programs with other groups in the city, Meyer said.

BEER, an abbreviation for beautification, environment, ecology and recycling, has only two committee members with vacancies for other officials or residents. Committee Chairman is Ald. Daniel Weber and Mrs. Alice McFeggan has been named a member.

Mrs. McGeggan appeared before the city council this week to tell officials the success of the local PEP organization to promote environmental awareness. She is chairman of the PEP recycling committee and urged the city council to begin research into recycling as a city project.

Ald. Thomas Scanlan has announced that a recycling program is being studied in conjunction with the public works garbage collection system.

Businessman Raps Policies Of City Second Time

George Bonner made his second appearance this week before city officials in less than three months alleging business license inconsistencies, poor sign inspections by city employees and accused the city council of overburdening the small businessman in Rolling Meadows.

"The last time I was here I did a lot of yelling," Bonner told the city council. "This time I'm going to sit and talk about some of the things I think should be changed."

Bonner, owner of the Union 76 service station on Kirchoff Road, remained seated during his speech to city officials and began citing examples he contended showed the city's benefits "toward the homeowner's advantage."

"They get monogrammed garbage bags, free bags, the real estate tax is being abolished," he said, "while most all the money which is used to give these benefits comes from the sales surplus — provided by businesses."

"IF MOST OF the money comes from businesses we should get some of it back," Bonner continued. "City hall is being enlarged, the city garage is improved, officials get a raise. . . this is fine, but businesses should get their share."

"This is what the businessman gets," Bonner alleged businessman receive high business license fees, no free garbage pickup and a sign inspection fee.

The sign inspection fee, Bonner objected to most. He explained that his sign inspection cost $32.

"I don't mind paying a guy for inspections, if he inspects the sign. Bonner said his sign inspection took one minute and five seconds.

"The guy just got out of his car and walked around the sign — and it cost me $32. That comes to $1,800 an hour. I don't think this is in line for an eyeball examination."

"At least the guy could shake it or kick it. I was robbed of $32," Bonner claimed. BONNER CONTINUED, this time in the area of business license fees. "My business license costs $100 and it is $40 to $60 higher than area service stations."

He suggested several ways, which he said would improve the business licensing to make it more equitable. "Base the license on frontage and the total number of pumps."

After his presentation, Mayor Roland Meyer had some questions to ask Bonner. "When you put in that car wash, you said it would not be advertised. You are in total violation of your agreement with the city."

Bonner answered that permission had been given for advertising by the building and zoning committee until the end of the month.

MEYER ASKED FOR more factual information from Bonner. He said the city is considering extending garbage pickup to commercial and industrial operations and also apartments.

"This will be a reduced fee, some businesses are now getting their garbage picked up for a 40 per cent discount," Meyer did ask City Mgr. James Watson to find out who inspected the sign at Bonner's service station.

Meyer had a word for businessmen. "Ninety per cent of businessmen don't live here and don't care what happens in this town."

$90,000 Contract Awarded

A contract for almost $90,000 was awarded to Pritscher and Erbach of Arlington Heights by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board Wednesday to move the district into an industrial arts program for junior high students in the fall.

Sections of Carl Sandburg and Plum Grove schools will be converted into workshop and kitchen areas to provide seventh and eighth grade students with a full curriculum in industrial arts and home economics.

According to the contract, 63 days will be allowed for delivery and installation of the equipment. Although such a time limit will make preparation of the facilities "very close" to the fall opening of school, Dist. 15 architect Richard Donatoni told the board he did not expect any problems in reaching the deadline.

"Most of the work is inside work, so we don't have to worry about weather conditions," he said.

SEVERAL MONTHS AGO the board approved expansion of the junior high curriculum to include the industrial arts program for boys and home economics for girls. While only offered at two schools in the fall, the program will eventually be available at all junior high schools.

Palatine Hills Junior High School on

Smith Street, which will begin construction this summer, will be totally equipped for industrial arts and home economics when it opens in 1972.

School Board Approves Policy

After more than a year of research and writing, the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 school board Wednesday approved the first stage of developing a complete policy manual to direct the activities of the school district.

Some 30 different people, including board members, administrators and principals, have been involved in compiling the manual, which will formally establish policy for all facets of operating a school district.

This represents the first formal compilation of the regulations by which the school district is run. Previously, many rules were a matter of practice rather than policy.

Approval was given to policies Wednesday for all facets of the district, in general administration areas, business, personnel and pupils.

Teen To Help In Milan

Deni Sargol of 1770 Lee Ct., Palatine has sailed the Atlantic Ocean, lived in British Columbia, been involved in youth training in Mystic Seaport, Conn., and has made several canoe trips in the wilds of the U.S.

This summer she will do some primitive camping along the Riviera in France and help restore the village of Milan, also in France.

Deni just turned 17. She is involved in these things all on her own, as a Girl Scout.

Deni's trip to France, which begins Sunday, is the culmination of most of the other things she has been active in since she became a Girl Scout 10 years ago in second grade. She will be traveling with five other girls from the United States as an international opportunity financed by the Girl Scouts' Juliette Lowe World Friendship Fund.

All of her past activities were considered in her selection for the honor. She is a first class Girl Scout and a junior and senior lifesaver. Her program aid, public relations aid, service aid and all the Girl Scout badges, plus her troop teaching, campouts, the day camp counseling, helped to make her eligible.

THE TRIP INVOLVES two days orientation in New York, four days staying in a scout hostel in Paris with boys and girls from all over the world, and then traveling to Milan.

The scouts will stay a week in Milan, where they will be in charge of building and restoring buildings, including replacing stained glass windows and repairing wrought iron fixtures.

Later they will spend four days in primitive camping along the Riviera. The last week will be spent participating in the "home hospitality" program of Girl Scouting. She will be living with different families in France.

Deni doesn't know yet with whom she will be living, but she has made the family some presents anyway. The presents are applehead dolls and macrame bracelets.

"I thought it would have more meaning if it was something I made myself," she explained, as she pointed out the different features on the dolls.

They are made by carving facial characteristics on apples, and letting them dry for three days. The heads are then wired to homemade bodies such as nylon wrapped around wire or bottles. Clothes are then sewn to fit the dolls' personalities. She has a Popeye, granny, clown, fisherman and many others.

APPLEHEAD DOLLS are not new to Deni. She has entered them in county and state fairs where she has won honors.

The 17-year-old is also a junior leader in 4-H, recipient of a state outstanding award, and representative of Cook County at the Illinois State Fair for three years. She is also secretary of the North Cook County Federation.

Her 4-H work has included dog care, veterinary science, home economics, sewing, cooking, demonstrations, public speaking, counseling and camp work.

She will again be participating in the County Fair July 30 to Aug. 1, although she will not be returning from her Girl Scout trip until July 31.

She will then be involved in the state fair in mid-August since she is narrator for her 4-H club's show which was accepted as an entry for the State Share the Fun event.

Deni also plans to do some counseling at a YMCA day camp this summer and hopes to fit in an intensified course to gain water safety instructor certification, the highest you can go in water safety learning.

A SENIOR AT Fremd High School, Deni is president of Orchestra and a member of the student council.

She says she would like to attend college at Colorado State University, possibly majoring in business administration and minoring in data processing.

For someone who has spent much of her life in or on the water it may seem strange for Deni to attend school in the snow country, but she explains, "I love snow skiing too."

She won't forget her other interests gained from Girl Scouting and 4-H, however.

"I'll raise my kids in scouting and then we can go canoeing, water skiing and sailing."

She also wants to be a troop leader like her mother, Clare "happy" Sargol, who has been Deni's leader for 10 years, and served as a leader for her older daughters also.

Girl Scouting is looked upon with high esteem by Deni. "It's fantastic. That's all I can say. There are so many people I never would have known or things I never would have learned to do."

Air Pocket Saves Buried Worker's Life

by TOM ROBB

Kept alive only by an underground air pocket, one construction worker was buried under 16 feet of earth and another was trapped following a sewer caisson cave-in yesterday in northern Arlington Heights.

Rescuers worked for nearly two hours to free 47-year-old Alphonse Neri, 4007 S. Artesian, Chicago, who was buried alive when the side walls of a 16-foot hole caved in.

Neri, an employee of Tremar Inc., a local firm, survived the ordeal only by putting his head in the open end of a sewer pipe where enough air was trapped to sustain him.

Another worker, Thomas Urso, 30, of 1505 N. 21st St., Melrose Park, was trapped up to his neck in the landslide for about 30 minutes before fellow construction workers and 11 men from the Arlington Heights Fire Department rescued him, said Frank DeFrancesco, president of Tremar.

Jack Ryan, director of public relations for Northwest Community Hospital said, "both men are doing all right considering the ordeal they've been through." Neri suffered a broken hip and Urso a possible broken arm.

The excavation site is located just south of Rand Road and directly across from Corrado's Restaurant, 310 W. Rand Rd.

"We just got back from lunch and jumped into the hole when it happened," Urso said. "It came so fast we couldn't do anything but stand there."

The men were two of eight workers who were tunneling a sanitary sewer from north of Rand Road to the Greenbrier Apartment complex at Rand and Kennicott.

THE CAVE-IN occurred shortly before 1 p.m. Urso was freed by 1:30 p.m., and firemen and workers lifted Neri from the hole by stretcher basket at 2:20 p.m.

"I heard two guys yell to make a run for it, but it was too late," said Urso, who was buried to the top of his head and regained his breath only after a fellow worker scooped dirt away from Urso's face.

It took at least 20 rescuers close to two hours to free Neri, however, who was at the bottom of the hole when the accident occurred.

"I used the big machine to dig most of the dirt off of him and stopped when I heard him screaming — otherwise the machine would have killed him," said DeFrancesco.

Workers then had to use shovels to get closer to the victim. "The last few inches we had to use our fingers to dig," said Arlington Heights fireman Richard Frost, who like other workmen, was sweating and breathless because of the speed at which he worked.

Fearing further cave-ins and that Neri's air supply was dwindling, state and local police roped off the area to a large crowd of bystanders to aid the rescuers in their work.

"It came in three waves — one slide, another and then another," Urso said. "I saw Al disappear and was sure he was dead. I can't believe it."

Neri and Urso have worked as a team in excavation pits for several years. Both veteran laborers, "we've been through this before, but this is as close as call as you'll get," he added.

Officials Discuss Revenue Sharing With Ogilvie

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Ald. Frederick Jacobson have met with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie to discuss the proposed revenue sharing program.

No city council stand has been taken regarding the program.

Meyer told the city council he had some questions about revenue sharing that he did not "get answered at the meeting." Meyer asked whether the city money will come from the federal government and the state sales tax rebates would be reduced.

Undoubtedly Meyer would disfavor any program to cut the sales tax revenue in Rolling Meadows which totaled more than $1 million last year and continues to be received by the city at a rate of nearly $100,000 a month.

Meyer said Gov. Ogilvie could not answer the question of whether the sales tax would be reduced if revenue sharing is adopted.

Rossiter Lake Closed To Public

Rossiter Lake will be closed to the public, Palatine police reported Thursday. Owners of the lake said they feared all the unsupervised swimming would lead to possible drownings, leaving the owners open for possible law suits.

Palatine Police Lt. Edward Campeau said police will be patrolling the area and asking anyone not authorized to be there to leave.

The Palatine Village Band will be presenting a free concert this evening at 8 p.m.

AN OIL TRUCK overturned about 5:45 a.m. yesterday while making a turn from Busse Road to Golf Road in Mount Prospect. The driver of the truck, Joseph H. Ament, 27, of Rockford, suffered minor cuts and bruises on his left arm, but refused medical aid, according to Mount Prospect Police. Ament was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. The truck is owned by the Jensen Co., of Rockford. (Photo by Jim Frost).

Mining Machine Rumble Continues

Residents living near the metropolitan sanitary district sewer line which is being tunneled under the railroad tracks by Wood Street just east of Smith Street can expect to be hearing a mining machine running 24 hours a day a while longer.

"It's just something we'll have to live with till they're done," Village Mgr. Bert Braun told village trustees after explaining the problem.

Residents near the tunnel had called Braun asking what was happening.

Braun said the physical requirements of the job necessitate having the machine running 24 hours a day. He said railroad personnel were also on the job 24 hours a day for inspection purposes.

THE TUNNELING, which began June 14, will last until the machine eats its way 200 feet under the tracks. The MSD only managed to cover four feet in every eight hour shift in the first 24 hours of the job.

Since then more complications have occurred with water being discovered in certain areas of the tunnel. The water must be removed before the machine can continue.

The tunneling has been stopped temporarily until the water can be removed. No estimate could be given by construction personnel on how soon they expect to resume the tunneling.

Residents Like Bike Path Idea

Palatine and Rolling Meadows residents have a lot of children. Children ride bikes. Even adults have gotten into the swing of things and started bike riding again. But suburbia hasn't offered much place to ride except in the streets.

Several Northwest suburbs are considering the idea of bike paths and most local residents, when asked about the possibility of paths in their area, were all for them.

Mrs. Thomas S. Rivera of 132 Elizabeth Ct., Palatine, said, "I think it's terrific. We all ride bikes." Mrs. Rivera has children aged 8, 10, 11 and 12.

She said they are looking forward to the completion of a bike path proposed in Palatine along Salt Creek so they can ride up to Buffalo Grove. She said the children sometimes ride along Lake Rosier but it is dangerous and they can't go unless she is along.

MRS. ROBERT N. LINDQUIST of 3808 Pheasant Dr., Rolling Meadows, said, "There's a definite need for a bike path." She has three children riding bikes and thinks it's very dangerous for them to ride in the streets.

Mrs. Lindquist also rides a bike and said she would ride with the children on a pike path if one was built. "It would be more relaxing and the surroundings would be much prettier," she added.

Police To Assist In Drivers' Class

The Palatine Police Department is assisting in the operation of the driver's education class being offered by the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

Sgt. Gordon Mosby of the Palatine Police Department will be the instructor for one of the classroom lessons of the program. Mosby speaks both Spanish and English. Some of the participants in the program are of Mexican-American background and speak only Spanish.

Fifty-six people are enrolled in the program, which is given Thursday evenings at the Congregational United Church of Christ in Arlington Heights. The program, designed for low-income persons, features both classroom instruction and on-the-road-driver training.

Beth Hayes, 18, of 2908 Thrush Ln., Rolling Meadows said she sometimes rides her bike to work at Northwest Community Hospital along Central Road and finds it very dangerous.

She added, "I know a lot of older kids who would ride bikes for transportation if there was a safe place to ride."

MRS. CARL EHRHARDT of 1442 Glencoe St., Palatine liked the idea of a bike path for a different reason. Palatine is seeking federal funds to furnish its path. Mrs. Ehrhardt said, "We should take all we can from the government. That money might as well be for our own use."

Casey Donato, 15, of 3803 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows, said it would be a good idea because there would be less accidents. He added, "I'm sure my parents would like a bike path a lot. My dad doesn't like kids riding in the street, and mom rides a bike."

Mrs. William Costello of 1113 Eaton Ct., Palatine, said "I'd rather see something for mini-bikes. You can only ride them in the fields, and there aren't too many places like that here."

$100 In Baseball Equipment Stolen

About $100 worth of equipment has been stolen from five baseball fields in Palatine, according to Fred Hayes, vice president of Palatine Boys Baseball's central division.

Three of the fields are at the St. Theresa Catholic Church School, 445 N. Benton, and two are at Palatine Community Park.

The three fields at the St. Theresa school were built this year at a cost of about $12,000 to the baseball league.

Three pitching rubbers and one home plate were stolen.

Money for the fields was raised by holding a raffle and by charging a fee to all boys participating. According to Hayes, more equipment would be needed next year, but replacement of the stolen equipment may restrict some needed purchases.

Thirty teams use the fields every day of the week, said Hayes. The church and the park also use the fields at certain times. "Besides the loss of the equipment," Hayes said, "our agreement with the church may be in jeopardy if more damage is done to their property."

The league is offering a reward for information leading to identification of those involved in the vandalism. "We'd just like to get our equipment back," Hayes said.

County Reverses, Asks Apartments For River-Euclid

Reversing the decision it made a little more than a year ago, the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals has recommended rezoning of 10 acres at River Road and Euclid Avenue in Prospect Heights for apartments.

This is the second time in two years George Martin Sloan, owner of the property, has asked the county to rezone his land from single-family residential to multiple-family. The first time the county denied his request.

The Cook County Board is scheduled to consider the zoning board's recommendation at its meeting July 6. The county board will make the final decision on the rezoning request.

Several community leaders in Prospect Heights say they plan to ask the county board at the meeting to postpone its decision until the Mount Prospect Village Board makes a ruling on an annexation petition. Residents in the "new town" area of Prospect Heights (including Sloan's land) have petitioned for annexation to Mount Prospect.

"I am surprised that with the annexation pending, the county has moved ahead without any consideration that Sloan's land may be annexed to Mount Prospect," said Marie Caylor, one of the leaders of the annexation movement and an officer of the Euclid-Lake Association. "I don't think it is correct for the county board to take on this case at this time."

"WE WILL HAVE a representative appear at the board hearing to present our views," said Patrick Link, president of the River Trails Park District and attorney representing the annexation petitioners. "If the county approves the rezoning, but Sloan does not secure a building permit before the village grants the annexation petition, then the village can reverse the county's decision. I think the county is just spinning its wheels."

Paul Marcy, secretary of the zoning board, however, said the county must continue to process Sloan's request: "We have to keep the wheels turning. We can't jeopardize the rezoning applicant (because annexation is pending)."

Sloan has proposed building eight three-story apartment buildings with a total of 192 living units on the site. Approximately one-third of the units, 64 apartments, will be one-bedroom. The remainder will be two-bedroom. Estimated rental fee is $175 per month for one-bedroom apartments and between $265 and $285 for two-bedroom units. About 1½ parking spaces per unit are included in Sloan's plans.

Link said the proposed development would be a "tremendous load on Burning Bush park, located on the east side of Lee Street near Sloan's land."

PAUL TAIT, president of the Parkview Homeowners Association, termed the development "detrimental to neighboring residents. The Dist. 26 Indian Grove School on Lee Street is already crowded. And the development will increase traffic on River Road."

Sloan's request a year ago turned down by the county board, called for building 11 six-story apartment buildings and nine townhouses with a total of 254 living units. Plans also included a swimming pool, tennis courts, putting green and club house.

At that time, almost 100 residents objected to Sloan's proposal. The residents were from the River Trails and Parkview subdivisions to the south of the rezoning site; and the Euclid-Lake and Rainbow Ridge subdivisions to the north and west of the site.

However, this time no homeowners filed an objection with the zoning board.

Record Park Program Signup

Registration for the Prospect Heights Park District summer program is at a record high this year.

Park Director Ronald Greenberg reported that registration this year is twice that of last year for morning recreation, archery and preschool classes. "The first and second sessions for swimming lessons are already completely filled," he said.

Residents still may register for the playground and preschool programs. The morning recreation program is held from 9 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday at the playground at Lions Park, Camp McDonald Road and Elm Street in Prospect Heights. The preschool program is held in two sessions in the morning at John Muir School on Oak Avenue.

Greenberg said the district will add a second class for archery lessons if enough people register for it.

Registration fees have totaled $800 thus far. Residents may register for programs at the district park office from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Saturday, at 9 N. Elmhurst Rd. in Prospect Heights.

As to the swimming pool operation, Greenberg said, "We have sold season swim passes totaling $5,000. We hope our pass sales will total $8,000."

Stoplight Installed At Woodland Trails

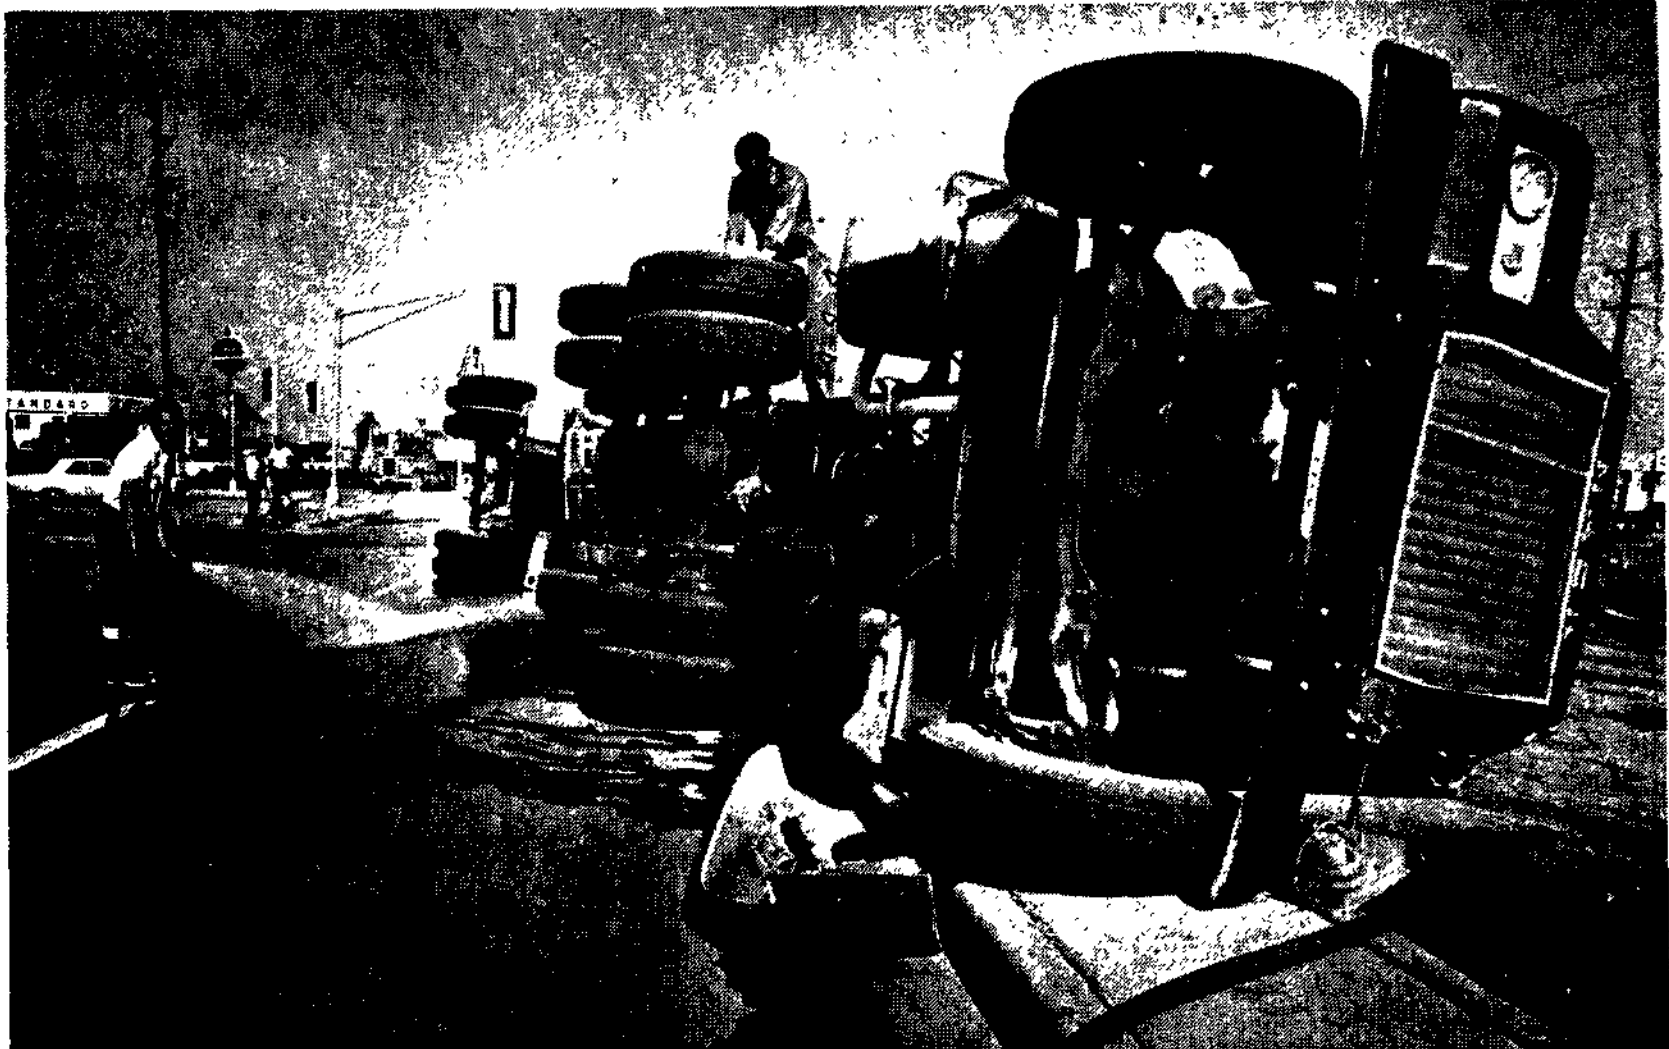

A new stoplight has replaced crossing guards on Euclid Avenue at the Woodland Trails Park in Prospect Heights.

The $40,000 traffic signal system was installed at the intersection of Euclid Avenue and Sycamore Lane last week by the River Trails Park District. One of the features of the light is a button pedestrians can push to stop traffic.

"It is a real relief to have the light in," said Park Director Marvin Weiss. "During the first week the swimming pool at the park was open, the light wasn't completed, and we had to use a crossing guard," Weiss said that during that week he was also at the intersection to help the crossing guards in heavy traffic periods.

"On an average time we have 1,200 people at the pool. Of this number, 400 are kids who use the traffic light," Weiss said.

AN OIL TRUCK overturned about 5:45 a.m. yesterday while making a turn from Busse Road to Golf Road in Mount Prospect. The driver of the truck, Joseph H. Ament, 27, of Rockford, suffered minor cuts and bruises on his left arm, but refused medical aid, according to Mount Prospect Police.

Ament was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. The truck is owned by the Jensen Co., of Rockford. (Photo by Jim Frost).

HELP Organization Elects Officers

New officers were elected Wednesday at a meeting of HELP, Inc., an organization seeking to curb drug abuse in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove-Prospect Heights area.

The new president of the group is Donald L. Kearns of Buffalo Grove. Kearns replaces Richard Stanowski of Wheeling as president of the organization.

The new vice president of HELP is Freddie Mitchell, counselor at Wheeling High School. Elected secretary-treasurer of the organization was Ruth Wiedler of Wheeling.

HELP members also discussed plans for establishing a hotline in the community and the proposed youth services program for troubled youth.

KEARNS TOLD the small gathering at the meeting that it is important for HELP to take a "good, positive approach" in combating youth problems, particularly drug abuse, in the community.

He said that establishing a hotline where troubled persons could call for aid and the youth services program that would provide a variety of services to the community are two examples of the positive approach HELP should take.

Representatives of HELP, the Wheeling Youth Commission and the now-defunct TORCH Mental Health Clinic have worked to revise the youth services proposal program for presentation before the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC). The groups hope to receive an ILEC grant to begin the program.

A HELP sub-committee is also working this summer on plans to establish a hotline in the community by the fall.

Kearns said that the drug survey recently completed by Dist. 214 demonstrated that drug abuse is a problem in the area.

"The community made no expression of concern, surprise or alarm. The tendency was to ignore it (the survey). Perhaps this is because they feel helpless to do anything," Kearns said.

Kearns added that schools cannot take on the whole task of combating drug abuse, but that community support is necessary for any successful drug abuse program.

HELP members also voted Wednesday to donate $100 to the hotline sub-committee.

Today Is Registration Deadline For Big Parade

Today is the deadline for registration of floats and other marching units for the upcoming Fourth of July parade, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce.

Nick Drakos, one of the co-chairmen of the parade, said 25 floats and 15 marching bands have been signed up for the parade.

Persons who want to register a float or marching unit for the parade can call Drakos at 253-8832 or John Leabaster at 439-4830. A special, late registration period will run through Wednesday, Drakos said.

The grand marshal for the parade will be Mount Prospect businessman George Busse. He will lead a parade that will include between 60 and 75 separate units, Drakos said.

The parade will begin at 3 p.m. Sunday, July 4. It will proceed south on Emerson Street from Gregory Street to Lions Park. Prizes will be awarded at the conclusion of the parade for winning floats in five separate categories.

Group Seeking Hotline Funds

The hotline sub-committee of HELP, Inc. is seeking donations to establish a hotline in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove-Prospect Heights community. The purpose of the hotline would be to give troubled persons a place to call for assistance.

Persons desiring to give donations to the hotline should contact Bobbie Willin at 296-1464, a member of the hotline sub-committee.

Current plans call for the hotline to be manned by volunteers who would be screened and trained before they would be allowed to participate. The sub-committee hopes to set up the hotline by the fall.

The Nation

The Senate approved a limited "bill of rights for draftees" which would guarantee they could be represented by legal counsel and present witnesses before local Selective Service boards.

The Transportation Department spent $12,782 in 1969 to publish a children's book entitled "The Supersonic Pussycat" in an attempt to propagandize youngsters on the virtues of the now-defunct supersonic transport plane SST, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said.

fied government material — including published portions of a "top secret" history of the Vietnam War — could safely be made public.

The Soviet Union and Iraq have signed a protocol of cooperation aimed at strengthening the Arab hand in the struggle against Israel, Radio Baghdad announced.

Vatican officials have said a papal booklet advising newlyweds to produce large families for "the fatherland" is being revised.

The State

The Illinois Supreme Court approved the refunding of $19 million of the $39 million the state collected four years ago under a service extension of the sales tax.

Local 401 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees has voted unanimously to support a state-wide sick-call strike by state employees over a wage dispute with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

The Market

The stock market started out on a firm footing but the groundwork gradually crumbled and prices finished lower for the fifth time in six sessions. Prices were irregular on light trading on the American Stock Exchange.

HUNDREDS OF BOY Scouts from this area will be special guests at today's White Sox game. Free tickets to the team's annual Scout Day were given to boys who helped in the Scouts' recent "Keep America Beautiful Day" project. On June 5 they picked up litter along railroad tracks, highways, the Des Plaines River, and in parks, forest preserves, churches grounds, and school grounds.

"The kids were amazed at the amount of trash they found and how long it took to clean up a two or three-block area," commented Paul Titzke, public relations director at Boy Scout headquarters. "We hope they get the message that a little trash piles up and makes lots of garbage."

While cleaning up, the boys found some unusual "litter," such as watches, golf clubs, and three new (probably stolen) bicycles which had been dumped in the Des Plaines River. On July 5 and again on Aug. 5 each Scout group has been asked to return to the area they cleaned to see how it looks. If it has become littered again, they will do another cleanup.

GOOD NEWS DEPARTMENT: SP-4 Jack Porter arrived home this week for a "rest and relaxation" leave from Vietnam. On July 5 he will return to Vietnam to complete his tour of duty there. A 1968 Wheeling High School graduate, Jack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Porter, 1001 Greenfield Ln.

GAIL BENSEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Nix, 215 S. We-Co-Tr., arrived home this week after a year in Asmara, Ethiopia. Gail's husband, Paul, has been stationed at the U.S. Army telecommunications center in Asmara. He expects to be discharged and arrive home next month.

While Paul worked placing Ethiopians in government jobs, Gail taught music in the American Dependent School. She also played for the church choir and gave private piano lessons. As a finale to the school year, she played "Pomp and Circumstance" on the organ for the June graduation ceremony.

Although a U.S. Army rest center was at the nearby Red Sea, the Bensons seldom visited it. Local guerrillas hiding in the mountains shot at Americans traveling the road between Asmara and the Red Sea. Now servicemen wanting to visit the rest center must go by air, making it an expensive trip. However, Gail and Paul enjoyed a brief trip to Yemen, Saudi Arabia.

When Paul arrives home, the Bensons plan to leave for Lincoln, Ill., where he will work for Myers Industries. Gail plans to teach music in Beason, Ill. She is a 1966 Prospect High School graduate and received her degree in education from Millikin University in Decatur, Ill.

Panel Urges $100,000 School Plan

A recommendation favoring a $100,000 plan to expand existing facilities at Fairview School in Mount Prospect will be made to the Dist. 57 school board July 6.

A committee formed by the board to study facilities at the school, 300 N. Fairview Ave., chose the plan Wednesday night over one calling for a $200,000 addition and remodeling. "Being practical and budget conscious, I think we have to go to the lower-cost route," said Leo Floros, board member and chairman of the committee.

The expansion plan includes enlarging the current 2,400 square-foot multipurpose room, used for physical education, and building a stage, an equipment storage area and a nurses' office. The expansion would increase the size of the area by about 3,340 square feet.

The plan was drawn up by architect S. Guy Fishman after parents requested enlargement of the school's facilities.

IN ASKING FOR enlarged facilities the parents showed board members a chart that showed physical education facilities at the district's five other elementary schools was almost twice the size of Fairview's. The other schools also have more stage and storage area, they said.

IF THE FAIRVIEW multipurpose room is expanded, the school would lose one classroom that is part of a board-approved plan to expand the library (resource center). At a request of the committee, Supt. Eric Sahiberg will make a recommendation to the board concerning new plans for expansion and relocation of the library which is currently the size of one classroom.

The cost of the expansion will total between $100,000 and $110,000, according to estimates made by architect S. Guy Fishman. However, the estimates cover only construction costs and do not include the price of furnishings.

To pay for the expansion, committee members talked about selling district-owned land or conducting a building bond referendum. Sahiberg pointed out that according to latest figures, the chance of passing such a referendum in Cook County is about 50-50. The school board will make the final decision, if the expansion plan is adopted.

THE MORE expensive addition plan calls for building a new multi-purpose room on the southwest corner of the school building. The proposed addition would total about 4,700 square feet. The plan also calls for remodeling of the existing gym area into a library (resource center), which would give the school use of an additional classroom.

Members of the committee include board members Edith Freund and George Foster; Asst. Supt. J. C. Eusehart, Fairview principal Cyril Kozel and parents of children attending the school.

Rupley School Gets Assistant Chief

A new assistant superintendent for instruction was hired Monday and a new principal was appointed for Ira L. Rupley School, Elk Grove Village, at the meeting of the Board of Education of Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59.

Erwin Stevenson, who received his doctorate in school administration from Indiana University this month, will assume his duties as assistant superintendent for instructional programs on July 1, Supt. James Erviti told the board.

Stevenson was hired at a salary of $21,000 a year for the position which has been vacant this year because Robert Brower was on a leave of absence.

Brower, who held the position during the 1969-70 school year, received an extension of his leave this spring. He had been in the district since 1960.

STEVENSON BEGAN his career in 1960 as an elementary school teacher in a district in Minneapolis, Minn. He has served as an administrative assistant and principal in districts in Minneapolis and served as manager of general education for the Westinghouse Learning Corp., Edinburg Ind., from 1966-69.

The corporation was involved with developing educational programs for public schools and for educationally disadvantaged students.

During the summer of 1970, he worked for the U. S. Office of Education in the Adult Basic Education division. He dealt with teacher training for the teaching of reading to adults.

Following the appointment of Stevenson, Erviti told the board that he was naming Anne Kennard, director of testing and evaluation, as principal of Rupley School, to replace Ron Glovetski.

Glovetski, who has been with the district 10 years, is resigning to take a position with a school district in Glenview.

AFTER NEARLY two hours, rescuers in Arlington Heights freed construction worker Alphonse Neri, 47, who was buried under 16 feet of earth when an excavation pit located across from Corrado's Restaurant, 317 W. Rand Road caved in. Happiest of all to see Neri alive was his friend and co-worker, Thomas Urso, 30, who was also trapped, but rescued an hour earlier. "I was amazed to see him alive. It seemed like we dug forever before we heard him yelling," said Frank DeFrancesco, their boss. (Photo by Jay Needleman)

Air Pocket Saves Buried Worker

by TOM ROBB

Kept alive only by an underground air pocket, one construction worker was buried under 16 feet of earth and another was trapped following a sewer caisson cave-in yesterday in northern Arlington Heights.

Rescuers worked for nearly two hours to free 47-year-old Alphonse Neri, 4007 S. Artesian, Chicago, who was buried alive when the side walls of a 16-foot hole caved in.

Neri, an employee of Tremar Inc., a local firm, survived the ordeal only by putting his head in the open end of a sewer pipe where enough air was trapped to sustain him.

Another worker, Thomas Urso, 30, of 1505 N. 21st St., Melrose Park, was trapped up to his neck in the landslide for about 30 minutes before fellow construction workers and 11 men from the Arlington Heights Fire Department rescued him, said Frank DeFrancesco, president of Tremar.

Jack Ryan, director of public relations for Northwest Community Hospital said, "both men are doing all right considering the ordeal they've been through." Neri suffered a broken hip and Urso a possible broken arm.

The excavation site is located just south of Rand Road and directly across from Corrado's Restaurant, 310 W. Rand Rd.

"We just got back from lunch and jumped into the hole when it happened," Urso said. "It came so fast we couldn't do anything but stand there."

The men were two of eight workers who were tunneling a sanitary sewer from north of Rand Road to the Greenbrier Apartment complex at Rand and Kennicott.

THE CAVE-IN occurred shortly before 1 p.m. Urso was freed by 1:30 p.m., and firemen and workers lifted Neri from the hole by stretcher basket at 2:20 p.m.

"I heard two guys yell to make a run for it, but it was too late," said Urso, who was buried to the top of his head and regained his breath only after a fellow worker scooped dirt away from Urso's face.

It took at least 20 rescuers close to two hours to free Neri, however, who was at the bottom of the hole when the accident occurred.

"I used the big machine to dig most of the dirt off of him and stopped when I heard him screaming — otherwise the machine would have killed him," said DeFrancesco.

Workers then had to use shovels to get closer to the victim. "The last few inches we had to use our fingers to dig," said Arlington Heights fireman Richard Frost, who like other workmen, was sweating and breathless because of the speed at which he worked.

Fearing further cave-ins and that Neri's air supply was dwindling, state and local police roped off the area to a large crowd of bystanders to aid the rescuers in their work.

"It came in three waves — one slide, another and then another," Urso said. "I saw Al disappear and was sure he was dead. I can't believe it."

Neri and Urso have worked as a team in excavation pits for several years. Both veteran laborers, "we've been through this before, but this is as close a call as you'll get," he added.

District Schools: A Fine Place For Learning

Schools in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 are "a fine place for children to learn," according to a recent report released by the Illinois office of the superintendent of public instruction.

The report, given to school board members earlier this week, is based upon findings of a 22-member team that visited the district's seven schools in March. The team of curriculum specialists periodically checks school districts to see if they are meeting state requirements, according to Assistant Supt. Richard Percy.

Curriculum guides, supplementary materials available to teachers upon request and the quality and quantity of audiovisual equipment impressed the state visitors, according to the report.

The report also commends the district for the library services provided in each of the schools. Most of the libraries are open from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. during the school day.

THE REPORT ALSO said the team was impressed with "the adequacy of the school buildings" and the "good teacher morale and rapport." The visitors also complimented the district on its instrumental music program.

Several suggestions for improvement in the district were made by the team. The report suggests that "the physical education program be expanded to meet the Illinois State Code." The code says school districts should offer physical education every day.

According to Percy, some form of physical education is given daily to Dist. 57 students in the kindergarten through sixth grade schools. At the junior high level, students receive instruction in physical education three times a week.

Other suggestions included establishing a guidance counseling service for students and exploring the possibility of more individualized and independent study at the junior high level to "make maximum use of the fine library facilities."

Teachers, Board Fail To Yield

The Mt. Prospect District 37 School Board and teacher bargaining teams stood firmly behind their proposals last night as no move was made to bring the two parties closer to a contract settlement.

Neither side made an attempt to close the gap between the board's offer of the current salary schedule and the teachers' request for a 9 per cent pay hike.

The two teams met last night for the 10th time to negotiate a 1971-72 teacher contract.

David Metzler, chairman of the negotiations team for the Mount Prospect Education Assn. (MPEA) asked for discussion of impasse procedures because no new proposals were made. Under the procedural agreement reached between the board and the MPEA, mediators can be called in to help settle an impasse in negotiations.

However, the board's negotiating team and its professional negotiator, Richard Zwiback, would not discuss a possible impasse. "We would not discuss it because before an impasse is reached, there must be mutual consent that both parties have been bargaining in good faith. In view of the fact that the MPEA went upward in its proposal, we do not consider they have been bargaining in good faith," said Leo Flores, chairman of the board's team.

AT A NEGOTIATIONS meeting last week, teacher negotiators increased their salary demands by 3 per cent in reaction to a board counter proposal that did not change the offer of the current salary schedule.

"I can't see how they can say we are not bargaining in good faith when none of the proposals has been in writing," said Metzler. "We have had too much verbal discussion and basically everything is just hearsay."

Both sides have agreed to put their proposals in writing in time for the next negotiations meeting on July 8. Metzler said the MPEA would rewrite its salary proposal but would not say what the new request would be. He did say, however, that the new salary proposal would be less than the original made by the MPEA in February that called for a 10 1/2 per cent pay hike.

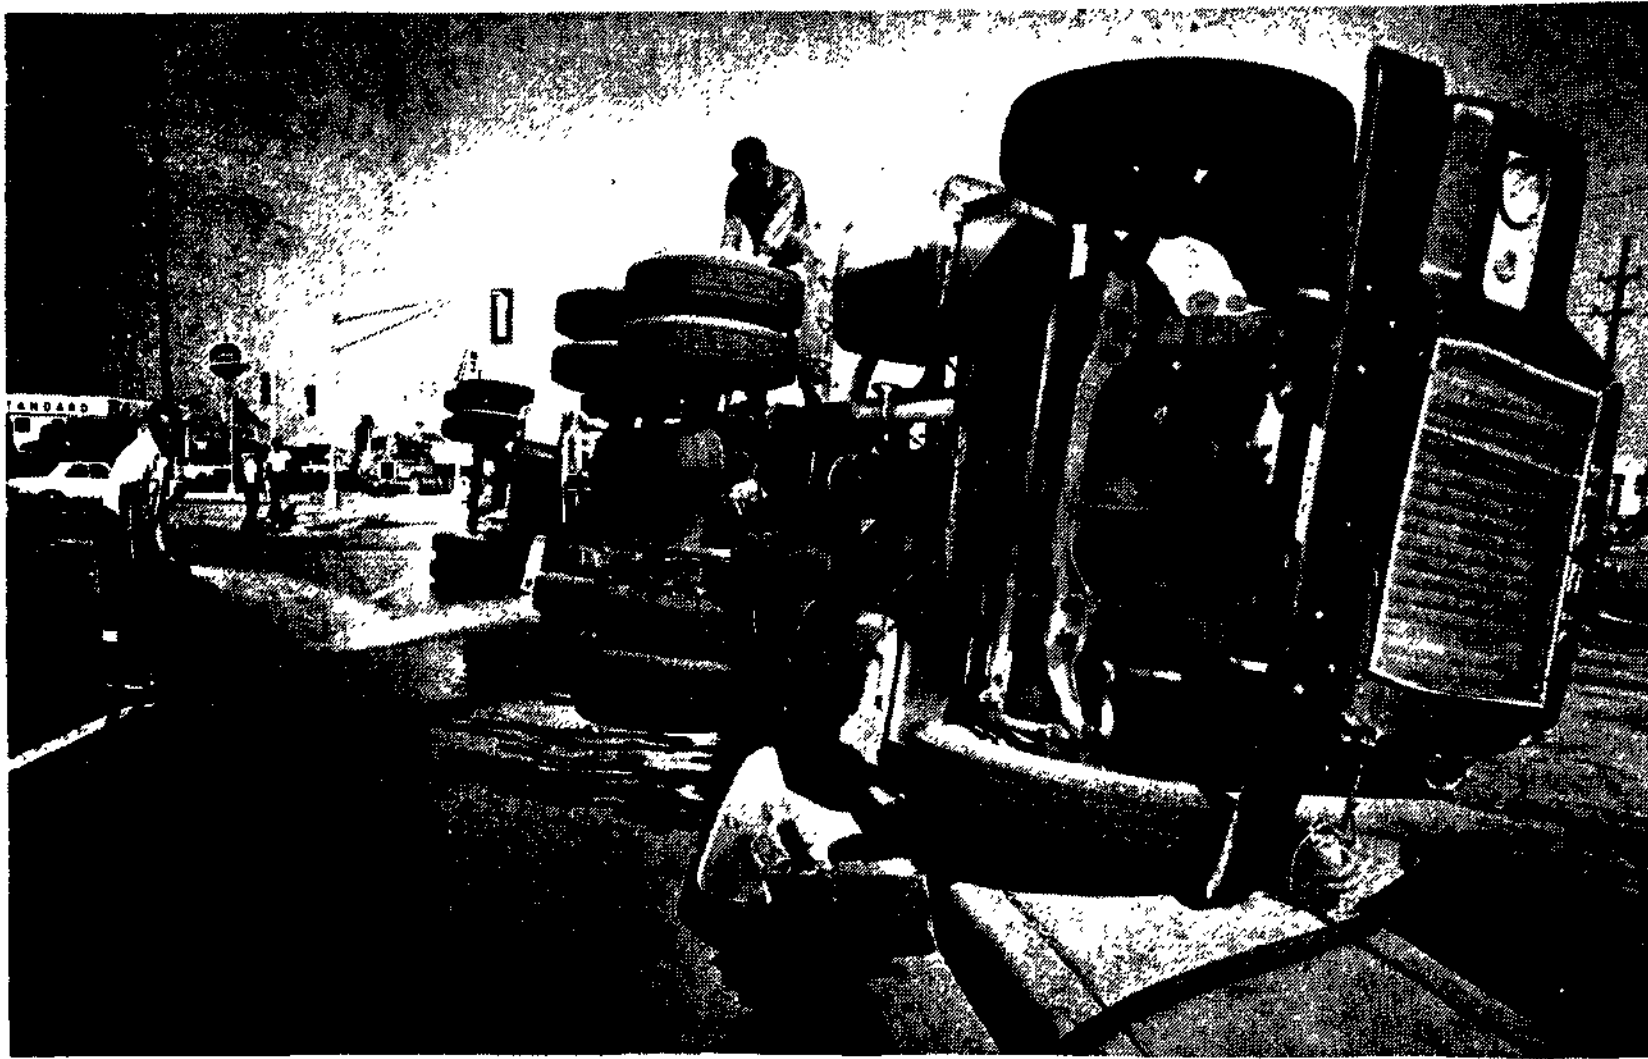

Flores said it is "possible and probably" that the board will make a move in its proposal. However, he said the move would probably not be made "as long as the MPEA is so far apart and talking 9 per cent which is really out of line." He said he did not know if the board would ever agree to declaring an impasse.

School Alarm System Pondered In District

The River Trails Dist. 26 School Board is investigating various alarm systems to protect its schools from break-ins.

District administrators have studied systems ranging in cost from $300 to $4,000. The systems vary from a complicated microwave device that throws a beam across a hallway to a wire taped on windows.

The board has asked the administrators to consult with agencies such as the police department about protection systems.

AN OIL TRUCK overturned about 5:45 a.m. yesterday while making a turn from Busse Road to Golf Road in Mount Prospect. The driver of the truck, Joseph H. Ament, 27, of Rockford, suffered minor cuts and bruises on his left arm, but refused medical aid, according to Mount Prospect Police.

Ament was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. The truck is owned by the Jensen Co., of Rockford. (Photo by Jim Frost).

Annexation Study Due In A Month

A feasibility study of the annexation of part of unincorporated Prospect Heights to Mount Prospect will be turned over to the village board within a month, according to Acting Village Mgr. John Zimmermann.

The study is being prepared by the village's department chiefs and Zimmermann. He said that most department heads had turned in their findings. However, the over-all report has not been put together.

The study was prompted by an annexation petition that involves about 1 1/2 square miles and about 8,000 persons. The area, known as "new town" Prospect Heights, is northeast of the village. It stretches as far east as River Road, as far north as Willow Road and as far west as Crabtree Lane. The southern edge of the parcel is Kensington (Foundry) Road.

The petition effort was initiated by a group of Prospect Heights homeowners associations.

The petition was turned over to the village in May, after a circuit court hearing on the matter. The court's authorization to submit the request to the village came after the sole objection (from the Forest River Fire Protection District) was withdrawn.

AT THE TIME the matter was turned over to the village, Mayor Robert Teichert said that after the study was complete, it would be turned over to the village board. After the board receives the report, "It will be a month to two months before we are in a position to vote on the petition," he said.

Among the department heads who prepared reports are Larry Pairitz, fire chief; Newell Esmond, police chief; and David Creamer, public works director.

Pairitz said fire department personnel "evaluated such things in the area as the streets, buildings and street signs—everything that would affect fire protection."

In addition, he said the department "made practice fire runs to the area" from our own station and the Forest River district fire station during various times of the day and in various traffic situations.

CREAMER SAID that his study dealt with such things as the condition of the streets, curbs, and sidewalks. "What we concerned ourselves with was how the area would affect the department of public works—how we would have to gear ourselves to the responsibilities for that area," Creamer said.

Creamer said that the addition area would create a need for additional men and equipment for his department.

River-Euclid Rezoning Approved

Reversing the decision it made a little more than a year ago, the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals has recommended rezoning of 10 acres at River Road and Euclid Avenue in Prospect Heights for apartments.

This is the second time in two years George Martin Sloan, owner of the property, has asked the county to rezone his land from single-family residential to multiple-family. The first time the county denied his request.

The Cook County Board is scheduled to consider the zoning board's recommendation at its meeting July 6. The county board will make the final decision on the rezoning request.

Several community leaders in Prospect Heights say they plan to ask the county board at the meeting to postpone its decision until the Mount Prospect Village Board makes a ruling on an annexation petition. Residents in the "new town" area of Prospect Heights (including Sloan's land) have petitioned for annexation to Mount Prospect.

"I am surprised that with the annexation pending, the county has moved ahead without any consideration that Sloan's land may be annexed to Mount Prospect," said Marie Caylor, one of the leaders of the annexation movement and an officer of the Euclid-Lake Association. "I don't think it is correct for the county board to take on this case at this time."

"WE WILL HAVE a representative appear at the board hearing to present our views," said Patrick Link, president of the River Trails Park District and attorney representing the annexation petitioners. "If the county approves the rezoning, but Sloan does not secure a building permit before the village grants the annexation petition, then the village can reverse the county's decision. I think the

Group Seeking Hotline Funds

The hotline sub-committee of HELP, Inc. is seeking donations to establish a hotline in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove-Prospect Heights community. The purpose of the hotline would be to give troubled persons a place to call for assistance.

Persons desiring to give donations to the hotline should contact Bobbie Willin at 296-1464, a member of the hotline sub-committee.

Current plans call for the hotline to be manned by volunteers who would be screened and trained before they would be allowed to participate. The sub-committee hopes to set up the hotline by the fall.

Nick Drakos, one of the co-chairmen of the parade, said 25 floats and 15 marching bands have been signed up for the parade.

Persons who want to register a float or marching unit for the parade can call Drakos at 253-9832 or John Leabaster at 439-4830. A special, late registration period will run through Wednesday, Drakos said.

The grand marshal for the parade will be Mount Prospect businessman George Busse. He will lead a parade that will include between 60 and 75 separate units, Drakos said.

The parade will begin at 3 p.m. Sunday, July 4. It will proceed south on Emerson Street from Gregory Street to Lions Park. Prizes will be awarded at the conclusion of the parade for winning floats in five separate categories.

HUNDREDS OF BOY Scouts from this area will be special guests at today's White Sox game. Free tickets to the team's annual Scout Day were given to boys who helped in the Scouts' recent "Keep America Beautiful Day" project. On June 5 they picked up litter along railroad tracks, highways, the Des Plaines River, and in parks, forest preserves, churches grounds, and school grounds.

"The kids were amazed at the amount of trash they found and how long it took to clean up a two or three-block area," commented Paul Titzke, public relations director at Boy Scout headquarters. "We hope they get the message that a little trash piles up and makes lots of garbage."

While cleaning up, the boys found some unusual "litter," such as watches, golf clubs, and three new (probably stolen) bicycles which had been dumped in the Des Plaines River. On July 5 and again on Aug. 5 each Scout group has been asked to return to the area they cleaned to see how it looks. If it has become littered again, they will do another clean-up.

GOOD NEWS DEPARTMENT: SP-4 Jack Porter arrived home this week for a "rest and relaxation" leave from Vietnam. On July 5 he will return to Vietnam to complete his tour of duty there. A 1968 Wheeling High School graduate, Jack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Porter, 1001 Greenfield Ln.

GAIL BENSEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Nix, 215 S. We-Ga-Tr., arrived home this week after a year in Asmara, Ethiopia. Gail's husband, Paul, has been stationed at the U.S. Army telecommunications center in Asmara. He expects to be discharged and arrive home next month.

While Paul worked placing Ethiopians in government jobs, Gail taught music in the American Dependent School. She also played for the church choir and gave private piano lessons. As a finale to the school year, she played "Pomp and Circumstance" on the organ for the June graduation ceremony.

Although a U.S. Army rest center was at the nearby Red Sea, the Bensons seldom visited it. Local guerrillas hiding in the mountains shot at Americans traveling the road between Asmara and the Red Sea. Now servicemen wanting to visit the rest center must go by air, making it an expensive trip. However, Gail and Paul enjoyed a brief trip to Yemen, Saudi Arabia.

When Paul arrives home, the Bensons plan to leave for Lincoln, Ill., where he will work for Myers Industries. Gail plans to teach music in Beason, Ill. She is a 1966 Prospect High School graduate and received her degree in education from Millikin University in Decatur, Ill.

Panel Urges $100,000 School Plan

A recommendation favoring a $100,000 plan to expand existing facilities at Fairview School in Mount Prospect will be made to the Dist. 57 school board July 6.

A committee formed by the board to study facilities at the school, 300 N. Fairview Ave., chose the plan Wednesday night over one calling for a $200,000 addition and remodeling. "Being practical and budget conscious, I think we have to go to the lower-cost route," said Leo Floros, board member and chairman of the committee.

The expansion plan includes enlarging the current 2,400 square-foot multipurpose room, used for physical education, and building a stage, an equipment storage area and a nurses' office. The expansion would increase the size of the area by about 3,340 square feet.

The plan was drawn up by architect S. Guy Fishman after parents requested enlargement of the school's facilities.

IN ASKING FOR enlarged facilities the parents showed board members a chart that showed physical education facilities at the district's five other elementary schools was almost twice the size of Fairview's. The other schools also have more stage and storage area, they said.

IF THE FAIRVIEW multipurpose room is expanded, the school would lose one classroom that is part of a board-approved plan to expand the library (resource center). At a request of the committee, Supt. Eric Sahlberg will make a recommendation to the board concerning new plans for expansion and relocation of the library which is currently the size of one classroom.

The cost of the expansion will total between $100,000 and $110,000, according to estimates made by architect S. Guy Fishman. However, the estimates cover only construction costs and do not include the price of furnishings.

To pay for the expansion, committee members talked about selling district-owned land or conducting a building bond referendum. Sahlberg pointed out that according to latest figures, the chance of passing such a referendum in Cook County is about 50-50. The school board will make the final decision, if the expansion plan is adopted.

THE MORE expensive addition plan calls for building a new multi-purpose room on the southwest corner of the school building. The proposed addition would total about 4,700 square feet. The plan also calls for remodeling of the existing gym area into a library (resource center), which would give the school use of an additional classroom.

Members of the committee include board members Edith Freund and George Foster; Asst. Supt. J. C. Busenhardt, Fairview principal Cyril Kozel and parents of children attending the school.

Rupley School Gets Assistant Chief

A new assistant superintendent for instruction was hired Monday and a new principal was appointed for Ira L. Rupley School, Elk Grove Village, at the meeting of the Board of Education of Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59.

Erwin Stevenson, who received his doctorate in school administration from Indiana University this month, will assume his duties as assistant superintendent for instructional programs on July 1, Supt. James Ervitt told the board.

Stevenson was hired at a salary of $21,000 a year for the position which has been vacant this year because Robert Brower was on a leave of absence.

Brower, who held the position during the 1969-70 school year, received an extension of his leave this spring. He had been in the district since 1960.

STEVENSON BEGAN his career in 1960 as an elementary school teacher in a district in Minneapolis, Minn. He has served as an administrative assistant and principal in districts in Minneapolis and served as manager of general education for the Westinghouse Learning Corp., Edinburg Ind., from 1966-69.

The corporation was involved with developing educational programs for public schools and for educationally disadvantaged students.

During the summer of 1970, he worked for the U. S. Office of Education in the Adult Basic Education division. He dealt with teacher training for the teaching of reading to adults.

Following the appointment of Stevenson, Ervitt told the board that he was naming Anne Kennard, director of testing and evaluation, as principal of Rupley School, to replace Ron Glovetski.

Glovetski, who has been with the district 10 years, is resigning to take a position with a school district in Glenview.

AFTER NEARLY two hours, rescuers in Arlington Heights freed construction worker Alphonse Neri, 47, who was buried under 16 feet of earth when an excavation pit located across from Corrado's Restaurant, 317 W. Rand Road caved in. Happiest of all to see Neri alive was his friend and co-worker, Thomas Urso, 30, who was also trapped, but rescued an hour earlier. "I was amazed to see him alive. It seemed like we dug forever before we heard him yelling," said Frank DeFrancesco, their boss. (Photo by Jay Needleman)

Air Pocket Saves Buried Worker

by TOM ROBB

Kept alive only by an underground air pocket, one construction worker was buried under 16 feet of earth and another was trapped following a sewer caisson cave-in yesterday in northern Arlington Heights.

Rescuers worked for nearly two hours to free 47-year-old Alphonse Neri, 4007 S. Artesian, Chicago, who was buried alive when the side walls of a 18-foot hole caved in.

Neri, an employee of Tremar Inc., a local firm, survived the ordeal only by putting his head in the open end of a sewer pipe where enough air was trapped to sustain him.

Another worker, Thomas Urso, 30, of 1505 N. 21st St., Melrose Park, was trapped up to his neck in the landslide for about 30 minutes before fellow construction workers and 11 men from the Arlington Heights Fire Department rescued him, said Frank DeFrancesco, president of Tremar.

Jack Ryan, director of public relations for Northwest Community Hospital said, "both men are doing all right considering the ordeal they've been through." Neri suffered a broken hip and Urso a possible broken arm.

The excavation site is located just south of Rand Road and directly across from Corrado's Restaurant, 310 W. Rand Rd.

"We just got back from lunch and jumped into the hole when it happened," Urso said. "It came so fast we couldn't do anything but stand there."

The men were two of eight workers who were tunneling a sanitary sewer from north of Rand Road to the Greenbrier Apartment complex at Rand and Kennicott.

THE CAVE-IN occurred shortly before 1 p.m. Urso was freed by 1:30 p.m., and firemen and workers lifted Neri from the hole by stretcher basket at 2:20 p.m.

"I heard two guys yell to make a run for it, but it was too late," said Urso, who was buried to the top of his head and regained his breath only after a fellow worker scooped dirt away from Urso's face.

It took at least 20 rescuers close to two hours to free Neri, however, who was at the bottom of the hole when the accident occurred.

"I used the big machine to dig most of the dirt off of him and stopped when I heard him screaming — otherwise the machine would have killed him," said DeFrancesco.

Workers then had to use shovels to get closer to the victim. "The last few inches we had to use our fingers to dig," said Arlington Heights fireman Richard Frost, who like other workmen, was sweating and breathless because of the speed at which he worked.

Fearing further cave-ins and that Neri's air supply was dwindling, state and local police roped off the area to a large crowd of bystanders to aid the rescuers in their work.

"It came in three waves — one slide, another and then another," Urso said. "I saw Al disappear and was sure he was dead. I can't believe it."

Neri and Urso have worked as a team in excavation pits for several years. Both veteran laborers, "we've been through this before, but this is as close a call as you'll get," he added.

Recycling Fights Pollution

Arlington Heights residents have seemingly met the challenge of fighting pollution on the local level judging from their use of the permanent bottle and can drop-off location.

The location was established June 16 and a little more than a week later, containers have been emptied four times. The 24-hour-a-day drop-off point is at the village's south fire station, 2000 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Four bins of one-cubic yard each have been emptied three times because they were full. The fourth time, the bins were emptied in preparation for public works employees to take loads of the material to a recycling plant Wednesday.

The village established the drop-off point following the interest in three one-day locations established during Earth Week held in April.

"WE HAVE had a good level of participation," said John Coste, assistant village manager. He said a second permanent location will be established at the north fire station, 3030 N. Arlington Heights Rd., when the area behind the station is paved in the near future.

If these two locations prove popular enough, a third drop off point may be established in the central part of the village. Officials have previously stated they received requests for permanent locations, but said they weren't sure the locations would be used.

The first week of operation has shown the need for a larger container for white glass and the village is presently working on revamping a 20-yard container for use at the south fire station.

This container will be divided into three sections, with about 10 cubic yards for white glass, five cubic yards for brown glass and five cubic yards for other colored glass.

Residents may deposit their bottles and cans in the containers presently stored behind the south fire station. The material must be separated into the appropriately marked containers for white, brown, other colors of glass and cans, both tin and aluminum.

ALL CAPS and rings must be removed from bottles. Otherwise, as more bottles are thrown in, the glass becomes broken and the metal is difficult to separate from the glass.

Coste reported that only a few bottles were put in the wrong containers and residents mostly followed directions.

A letter about the permanent drop-off location was sent to various community organizations last week. The letter, signed by Village Pres. Jack Walsh, stated, "With your help and the participation of your membership, this type of ongoing ecology program can produce meaningful results in our community."

The money resulting from the recycling operation will be put into a special account for ecology projects, including ideas suggested by a proposed environmental control commission.

A hearing on the duties for such a commission will be held Monday by the legal committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The legal committee has agreed on creating a commission but is holding the hearing to allow residents to suggest what types of duties and responsibilities the commission should have.

TAKING HIS FIRST breath of fresh air in nearly two hours, Alphonse Neri looks out on a world he thought he would never see again. Air stored in the small pipe, shown here, kept him alive. He was able to put his head into the pipe as the landslide crashed down and buried him below 16 feet of damp, heavy mud and clay. "During the last few inches, we used our fingers to dig him out," one rescuer said.

The Nation

The Senate approved a limited "bill of rights for draftees" which would guarantee they could be represented by legal counsel and present witnesses before local Selective Service boards.

The Transportation Department spent $12,782 in 1969 to publish a children's book entitled "The Supersonic Pussycat" in an attempt to propagandize youngsters on the virtues of the now-defunct supersonic transport plane SST, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said.

An ex-Pentagon official who helped develop the policy for protecting security information said 98.5 per cent of classified government material — including published portions of a "top secret" history of the Vietnam War — could safely be made public.

A natural gas explosion flared through a water tunnel in Sylmar, California suffocating trapped miners in one of the worst underground disasters in California history. At least one man survived.

CBS President Frank Stanton, risking a possible contempt of Congress citation, has refused to furnish a House subcommittee with subpoenaed materials edited out of his network's "Selling of the Pentagon" documentary.

The World

Le Duc Tho, a member of the North Vietnamese Communist politburo, returned to the scene of the Vietnam peace talks after a 14-month absence but said Hanoi had no concessions to make "for the time being".

The Soviet Union and Iraq have signed a protocol of cooperation aimed at strengthening the Arab hand in the struggle against Israel, Radio Baghdad announced.

Vatican officials have said a papal booklet advising newlyweds to produce large families for "the fatherland" is being revised.

The War

North Vietnamese troops overran Fire Base Fuller near the Demilitarized Zone DMZ but intensive air and artillery fire drove the Communists off and turned the base into a no-man's land.

The State

The Illinois Supreme Court approved the refunding of 19 million of the $39 million the state collected four years ago under a service extension of the sales tax.

Local 401 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees has voted unanimously to support a state-wide sick-call strike by state employees over a wage dispute with Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Help Parade — Obey Parking Rules

The sponsorship of the Arlington Heights Jaycees and the participation of nearly 70 units promise to make tomorrow's Independence Day Parade one of the largest and most spectacular in the area. Residents are asked to observe parking restrictions along the route, Arlington Heights police said yesterday.

Arlington Heights Police Sgt. Jack Weber said, "We are hoping to make the parade the best possible, but we need the cooperation of the people."

It takes only one parked car to disrupt the parade as it leaves Arlington Park Race Track at 9:30 a.m. and winds its way south on Wilke Road, east on Campbell Street, north on Dunton Avenue, and west on Euclid Avenue to Arlington High School.

Parking restrictions along this route will be in effect from 7 to 11:30 a.m. "Meters will be bagged (covered) and we'd appreciate residents not parking in this area," Weber said.

But parking on all streets adjacent to the route will be permitted as usual, he added.

WEBER SAID the early — 7 a.m. — deadline for parking is necessary because past experience has shown that some people do not observe the restrictions.

And based on past experience, the parking restrictions are the only way to guarantee a safe and orderly parade route, Weber said.

The largest such celebration in the Northwest suburbs, the parade will feature floats, marching bands, color guard units and as a special feature, the Blue Flame rocket car which recently broke the land speed record at 622.407 miles per hour.

The theme of this year's parade is "Freedom Our Heritage," and will include the appearance of several well-known personalities and local officials.

Participating in the festivities will be George Halas Sr., owner of the Chicago Bears, and Bear coaches Jim Dooley and Don Shinnick.

Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights village

president; State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights; U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-13th, and Samuel Wilwer, president of the Illinois Constitutional Convention, also will be on hand.

Other featured guests will be Bud Mills, president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. R. W. Le-Meilleur, chairman of the chamber, and Frank Davis, outgoing president of the Jaycees.

Cars transporting the special guests will be interspersed among entries such as the Chicago Mounties, Junior Color Guard, Corsairs Drum and Bugle Corps and a host of others.

Continue Rand Area Hearing

by SANDRA J. BROWNING

The public hearing on the Rand Road Area Study was continued Wednesday night by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

The study, which includes proposals for the types of developments to be built along Rand from Rte. 53 to Euclid St., will be the subject of another hearing Sept. 8, the first open date on the commission's calendar.

A summary of the report was presented by its creator, Village Planner Joseph Kesler, who said he was surprised at the small turnout of about only 25 citizens at the hearing. Kesler said he estimated 1,200 people resided in the area covered by the report.

Kesler divided the area, encompassing more than 800 acres, into several planning districts. Each parcel was treated individually in the report and listed specific uses for the land. These uses included commercial development, multi-family complexes and some single-family homes.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS for future developments included land that fronts on Rand Road and, at some points, extends back from the highway almost 2,000 feet.

Explaining the scope of the report, Kesler said about 600 acres of the land studied was not within the village boundaries. "Physically, it's part of the Village Legally, it's not," he said.

Although the area has "a number of serious problems," Kesler said there was still a possibility of implementing a good plan along the highway.

The Village planner stressed the study was merely a proposal. The suggestions cannot be implemented unless a developer decides he wants to be annexed to the village and requests approval. If no developments are proposed, the area will remain in the same state as it is now.

Commissioner Richard Durava said the study will give the plan commission guidelines by which it can judge future proposed developments. Before, the commission was faced with voting on proposed developments with "no goal in mind," he said.

IN CRITICIZING the proposals, Frank Weinberger said the proposed commercial development would double the already heavy traffic load on Rand Road. The resident, who lives at 1225 N. Stratford Rd., pointed out one of the purposes of the planning was not to have Rand be a "commercial strip" but most of the land was proposed for business use.

Kesler said the proposal was still in "preliminary stages" and added that Rand would "need a lot of improvements." He said the village would have to work in cooperation with the state which has jurisdiction over Rand.

Another resident, Norbert Gresey, of 1214 N. Forrest Ave., asked about how flooding in the area could be controlled. Kesler explained that as areas were annexed, developers would be required to provide storm water retention and storm sewers which would result in decreasing flood problems.

Ed Weir, 1815 N. Vail Ave., said he didn't like the number of apartment complexes proposed as buffers between proposed commercial developments and existing single-family homes. Weir said he thought people would prefer a fence between their home and business use.

With a fence as a buffer between homes and businesses, the residents would have to "put up with the mess"

Weir said. With an apartment complex, only during business hours in the day, the problems and lack of privacy is a 24-hour-a-day problem. "A six-foot fence is better to look at from your home than a three-story apartment building," he said.

KESLER EXPLAINED he didn't think fences served as a good buffer but added that each individual area would be considered separately to see "how to protect residential areas" from businesses.

Plan commission members said they were generally pleased with the plan but continued the hearing to allow time for Kesler to check with state highway officials about Rand Road.

'Scare-Mongers,' Home Rule Could Be Detrimental

The fear instilled by "scare-mongers" and misunderstanding of the new Illinois Constitution's Home Rule provision, which Arlington Heights is eligible for July 1, could hurt the village more than residents realize.

Mrs. Virginia McDonald, a village resident and delegate to the Illinois Constitutional Convention, told members of the Arlington Heights Village Board Legal Committee Monday night:

"After 100 years, a change will understandably create a panic and clamor which could be detrimental to this municipality and government in general — a panic which could be avoided by understanding."

John Woods, former mayor of Arlington Heights and Con-Con delegate who was instrumental in formulating the home rule provision, said the legislative powers Arlington will receive from the new provision "will be broad and sweeping."

"BUT THE IDEA THAT a home rule unit can do anything it feels like doing is a gross misconception. Experience in other states where such power is provided is that too broad a power is consistently knocked down in the court. It simply does not hold up," he added.

Under the 1870 Constitution, local governments have only those powers which the state, through the general assembly, chooses to give them.

The new provision automatically gives municipalities like Arlington Heights, with a population of more than 25,000, broad legislative powers, but all powers are subject to limitation by future action of the Illinois General Assembly, Woods said.

In effect, home rules gives a qualifying municipality (others of smaller population can secure home rule only by referendum) the same powers of the state, but with the state having the final word.

AT THE OUTSET, home rule units are prohibited from doing certain things, Woods said. For example, Arlington Heights cannot levy an income or occupation tax, license for the purpose of gaining revenue, or define and provide punishment for a felony.

Powers Arlington Heights will have include:

—Electing by referendum not to be a home rule unit.

—If a home rule county ordinance conflicts with a municipal ordinance, the municipal ordinance has jurisdiction.

—A home rule unit has the power to adopt, repeal or alter its form of government, pending approval by referendum.

—And basically, a home rule unit has the broad general power to regulate for the protection of public health, safety, morals and welfare; to license for regulatory purposes, to tax and to incur debt.

Woods said, "the powers to regulate, tax and incur debt are the heart cut of this provision, the key language of most interest to village officials."

Some ramifications under this provision mean Arlington Heights could license and regulate solicitors, levy real estate transfers, lease stock transfers and a host of other taxes.

VILLAGE Atty. Jack Siegel said the home rule provision also leaves Arlington free to levy special services taxes in specific geographical locations, a procedure which could feasibly replace the confusing and burdensome special assessment process.

Woods said the provision also leaves Arlington free to levy special service taxes in specific geographical locations, a procedure which could feasibly replace the confusing and burdensome special assessment process.

Woods said the provision opens other possibilities such as absorbing smaller local governmental units into larger units.

Art Show Set At Dana Point Center

An art show will be held this weekend at the Dana Point Shopping Center, 1405 E. Central Rd., Arlington Heights.

The show will be held around the pool area of the center from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Shown will be the original oil paintings and other collections.

Admission is free.

The Arlington Heights Park District, for example, could contract High School Dist. 214 to do the park's bookkeeping work, providing cheaper, more efficient service for the parks while allowing the park district administration more time to devote to recreational programs, Woods said.

Woods said the home rule provision also means a vehicle to explore more "equitable, palatable" methods of financing, and possibly replacing personal property tax.

IN ADDITION, home rule will make it easier to pave the way toward increased inter-governmental cooperation, making ventures such as joint purchasing among neighboring towns a less cumbersome process.

The Northwest Municipal Conference, consisting of leaders from Arlington Heights and 14 other towns, "would be a tremendous way to begin implementation of the new constitution," Woods said. He also cited the need for a combined effort to meet the refuse disposal problems, as one, area towns could collaborate and brainstorm on.

Following the comments of Woods and Mrs. McDonald, the legal committee decided to develop means of involving the public in Con-Con implementation which will be announced soon.

The consensus of the committee was that home rule will not mean the creation of a slew of new ordinances, and as Trustee Ted Salinsky said, "the less regulation the better, since it's a little embarrassing to have ordinances we do not consistently enforce."

MSD Seeks Funds For City's New Treatment Plant

The Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) this week will file applications with a state agency for funds to help finance construction of a $48 million sewage treatment plant on the city's west side.

Application for $26.4 million in federal funds and $12 million in state funds will be made following a recent favorable recommendation for funding from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC), according to James Braxton, an MSD assistant chief engineer.

NIPC recommended funding despite a strong protest from the City of Des Plaines, part of a more than six-year effort to block construction of the plant, which city officials fear will produce obnoxious odors and cut off a possible source of real estate tax revenue.

After announcement of the NIPC decision Monday, Ald. Alan Abrams (8th) said the city should contact the U.S. and Illinois environmental protection agencies, which would help fund the plant, in an effort to block its construction.

BRAXTON TOLD THE Herald that MSD has enough money set aside to build the plant even if no state and federal funds are granted.

Decisions on grants are made by administrators Braxton said. No public hearing or gathering of local community comment is required after the NIPC decision, he said.

Two applications, one state and one federal, will be filed with the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, which decides whether to endorse the federal application on the bases of state priorities and plans, he said.

The state has not yet approved funds for any projects similar to this MSD plant under the current program, he said. These funds come out of the $750 million anti-pollution bond issue passed last November, he said.

The state recently sold $200 million of the bond issue, he said. Before funds for the Des Plaines project are awarded, the state legislature would have to pass an appropriation, he said.

IF THE STATE agrees to provide the $12 million, the federal portion, 55 per cent, could be $26.4 million, he said.

If the state doesn't provide the 23 per cent, the federal government would only be able to provide 33 per cent of the project costs, he said.

While applications are being studied, he MSD will prepare detailed plans for the plant, he said.

Before construction bids can be taken the state must approve a permit, which indicates it has examined the detailed plans and approves the proposed ways of removing contaminants, consistent with state standards, he said.

NIPC officials have said the new treatment plant would fulfill the immediate and future need in the Northwestern suburbs.

The plant has been proposed for a site at the southeast corner of Oakton and Elmhurst Road, where some city officials say it will cause obnoxious odors near single-family housing.

The city's six-year court fight against the MSD plant ended last January when the Illinois Supreme Court ruled that the MSD did not have to obey city zoning ordinances which forbid construction of a sewage plant on the proposed site.

HOBOS JAN BARRY, left, and Debbie Vondrak patrolled Des Plaines neighborhoods in search of litter this week along with other West Park area ecology enthusiasts in a combination "Hobo Day" and "Clean Up Your Act" project. The park district hoboes filled scores of huge plastic bags with garbage. Awards were presented to the best cleaner-uppers.

Middleton Deadline Now Mid-July

The deadline for Dr. James Middleton's appeal to retain his license to practice medicine has been extended to mid-July.

The medical examining committee of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education revoked Dr. Middleton's license June 1 after two former women patients said the doctor drugged and sexually assaulted them.

Edward Price, chief attorney for the state agency, said the doctor was found guilty of "engaging in dishonorable and unprofessional conduct of a character likely to deceive, defraud or harm the public."

Price said Dr. Middleton, who is facing criminal charges of deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery, also was found guilty of using "fraud and deceit" to obtain a license in the state.

When the revocation was announced June 1, Price explained that Dr. Middleton could continue his practice while appealing the ruling. Price said the doctor could appeal for a rehearing before the director of the state agency within 20 days.

YESTERDAY, however, Price said the deadline for the appeal would fall in mid-July because the registered letter notifying the doctor of the revocation was not mailed until "today or yesterday."

Price said the doctor actually has 20 days after the letter is mailed to file his appeal.

If the letter was mailed yesterday, the deadline for appeal would be July 14.

If the request for a rehearing is denied, or if it is granted and the appeal denied, the doctor then would have 35 more days in which to request a hearing in the Circuit Court of Cook County.

PRICE said he expected Dr. Middleton to file a petition for rehearing prior to the deadline. "If he doesn't, it's all over — he's finished," he said.

If the first appeal is not filed within the 20 days, Price explained, "He waives his rights to a hearing in the circuit court."

Price said that if and when the doctor's appeals run out, Price would "physically send someone out there to take his license off the wall."

Meanwhile, Dr. Middleton is continuing his practice in offices at 969 Elmhurst Rd., unincorporated Des Plaines. He is scheduled to appear again on the criminal charges July 7, at which time Judge Robert Downing will rule on the doctor's request for a change in judges.

Mental Health Chief To Eye License Denial

by LEON SHURE

Illinois Department of Mental Health Director Dr. Albert Glass will meet Monday with officials of a private mental health agency in Des Plaines to discuss reasons for denial of a license to continue helping heroin addicts.

The meeting will come after a month of effort, including help from two local state legislators, to get a hearing on the license denial, according to spokesmen for Incentives, Inc., 2424 Dempster, a private-nonprofit, agency. Incentives spokesmen feel the agency has been treated unfairly and arbitrarily.

State spokesmen this week told the Herald that a license to dispense methadone, a drug that some experts say can aid in ending heroin addiction, would not be renewed for Incentives, which has run a methadone program for since April, because it had not "adhered to the contract."

State spokesmen would not give specific reasons for the denial and, with Dr.

Glass, were unavailable for comment Thursday after the Incentives announcement of the Monday meeting.

FOREST HOSPITAL, 555 Wilson Ln., Des Plaines, has been licensed to dispense methadone, and its program will begin July 1, according to Forest spokesmen. The Incentives program license ends July 1, according to Dr. Jeanine Gavin, director of Incentives.

Dr. Gavin told the Herald she had withheld comment because she had been told by Herman Lancaster, public information officer for the Illinois Drug Abuse Program, that Incentives representatives should not speak publicly about the denial because it would prejudice the hearing.

She said she had "begged for a hearing," adding the state was ending a successful program, and the reputation of Incentives has been hurt arbitrarily.

Incentives was notified May 27 that its license would not be renewed to dispense methadone.

Dr. Gavin asked for a hearing and was informed that Incentives would receive no hearing "on this or any other level," she said.

Incentives appealed to State Sen. John Carroll, R-4th, who said he would press for a hearing.

A LETTER WAS then sent to a legislative committee by state drug abuse officials, stating that Incentives had committed a "clerical error," she said.

This error, Dr. Gavin said, was in missing the Wednesday deadline set by the Drug Abuse program for reports each week.

All new programs make mistakes and have delays, she said. These aren't reasons enough to stop a program, she feels.

Dr. Gavin said Incentives then appealed to Dr. Glass. On June 16, Incentives received a call at 5:15 p.m. from Dr. Edward Senay, acting program director, who said the hearing had been at 4 p.m. He said Incentives had not been told because of an error, according to Dr. Gavin.

Dr. Senay said Incentives program had been reviewed and the state had decided not to renew it.

Dr. Gavin then appealed to State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge. The state program officials then offered to allow their attorney to meet the Incentives attorney, but Incentives officials felt this would be used as an excuse for not allowing them to meet with officials.

DR. GAVIN, who has served as director of Community Mental Health at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, said the Incentives program has helped 70 per cent of the 40 addicts being served to end their heroin habits, and to begin therapy.

Dr. Gavin said she considers this an excellent record.

She said her program received praise from Dr. Jerome Jaffee, former head of the Illinois program, who was recently appointed to a high federal post.

The Incentives staff of 27 includes six staff members who work specifically with the addicts, including Dr. John Lowney, a psychiatrist, and Dr. Luann DeCamp, a psychologist, Dr. Gavin said.

The addicts are shocked, disillusioned and do not want to leave the Incentives program for the Forest program, she said.

ACCORDING TO Forest spokesmen, their new methadone program will serve 50 patients and provide counseling and group therapy. The program will be supervised by Dr. Robert Simon, director of medical services.

Illinois Drug program spokesmen have refused to explain specific reasons why the decision had been made. Dr. Senay said a thorough examination had been made, and he feels "no public good" would come from revealing details.

An agency spokesman said Incentives representatives had not been notified of a hearing on their license through "an oversight by someone."

Historical Society Elects New Officers

At the recent meeting of the Des Plaines Historical Society new officers were chosen for the 1971-72 year.

Elected president was David Wolf, 674 Laurel, Des Plaines; vice president, Leo Price, 964 Woodlawn, Des Plaines; Secretary, Mrs. J. Perdue, 1022 E. Villa Dr., Des Plaines; Treasurer, Bert Thornton, 2819 Scottlynne Dr., Park Ridge. George Michalski will serve as a three-year director, Mrs. Jan Simon will be a two year director, and Mrs. Glade Evans will be the one year director.

During the summer months the Historical Society museum at 777 Lee St. will be open each Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Consumer Fraud Mobile Unit Checks Complaints

by TOM VON MALDER

There's a strange noise in the furnace and the housewife calls a repairman. He replaces the worn out filter, but then convinces the housewife she is lucky the furnace has not blown up. She contracts for a new furnace.

If this were a con game and the furnace were sound, it would be a case for the State's Attorney's Fraud and Consumer Complaint Office.

Many people would not report such a case though. They would accept the role of victim because of the bother it would take to lodge a complaint and testify at the state's attorney office, 26th Street and California Avenue, Chicago.

For his reason, the state's attorney's office has created a mobile office for the Fraud and Consumer Complaint Division. The new unit, in operation one week, has already appeared at the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect, and next week will again be in the area.

The schedule for the week will be:

—Monday, Arlington Market Shopping Center, Kensington Road and Dryden Avenue, Arlington Heights, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Elected Chairman

Carol Ann Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Williams, of 1403 Danbury Ln., Des Plaines, was recently elected Fine Arts Week chairman for the school year 1971-72 by the Illinois Wesleyan University student senate.

Fine Arts Week is held each March and brings prominent persons from the various arts to the campus. Among the visitors this year was the noted actress, Miss Helen Hayes.

Miss Williams is a junior English major at IWU. She is a 1968 graduate of Elk Grove High School.

Resident Makes

Kansas Honor Roll

Christina Kaneen, 2187 Westview Dr., Des Plaines has earned a place on the fall semester honor roll of the University of Kansas.

Honor roll standards vary among schools. Some honor the top 10 per cent, others establish a minimum grade-point average, and other set rising minimums for the year levels within the school.

—Tuesday, Mount Prospect Shopping Plaza, Rand and Central roads, Mount Prospect, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.;

—Thursday, Paddock Publications, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

ASST. STATE'S Atty. Michael Simkin, who was at Randhurst Monday and Tuesday, said the main purpose of the mobile unit is to process individual complaints and refer them to another office or some relevant agency.

"Some 40 people stopped in Monday," Simkin said. "Thirty-three were referred to our central office and our two regional offices. Some just came with questions."

He explained the state's attorney's office only have criminal authority in certain areas.

"Our main objective is criminal prosecution. We are not the state collection agency."

The most frequent type cases they handle, he said, are bad checks and stolen credit cards; misapplication of home down payments; and home improvement complaints — as in the example of the unnecessary furnace.

Some of the problems brought to the unit Monday involved escrow money cases, bad checks, deceptive advertising, title problems with car dealerships, and contracts for work which is never performed.

"The mobile unit gives people an opportunity to find out what they can do with their problems," the assistant state's attorney said. "This is the state's attorney's closest contact with the people in a non prosecuting role."

SIMKIN OUTLINED the procedure used for a fraud complaint case. The person with the complaint must go to the Chicago office or one of the two branch offices and fill out a form listing his name and address and the name of the person and company with whom he has a complaint. The complaint must be against an individual and his address must be given.

This is because a letter is sent asking all parties to attend a hearing. At this hearing, it is decided whether or not a criminal warrant should be issued. Once a warrant is recommended, the case is forwarded to the proper court.

Simkin said this takes from two weeks to a month. "Although many cases turn out just to be misunderstandings," he said.

The two district offices are at 9333 Lincoln St., Skokie, 673-1272; and 7186 N. Milwaukee Ave., Niles, 647-732. The Chicago's office telephone number is 542-3066.

Closed Door Policy Replaces 'Lighted School' Plan

by WANDALYN RICE

The "lighted school policy" of two years ago has been replaced by a "closed door policy" in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59.

"Community education was put to bed this week," Leah Cummins, director of public relations for the district, said after the board of education voted to close school buildings for the coming year to all except school-sponsored activities.

The community education program, which began in 1968 with fanfare and a $6,000 grant from the Charles S. Mott Foundation of Flint, Mich. had as its major goal, full use of school buildings for community activities.

Mrs. Cummins served as director of the program, which was kicked off in October 1968, when Elk Grove High School was opened to roller skating under the supervision of the Elk Grove Park District.

In the fall of 1969, Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village became the first, and last, "lighted schoolhouse," open every evening as a community center.

ADULT CLASSES were offered in dancing, crafts, speed reading, local government and other areas. More than 100 participated. The program ended in December, 1969.

In November, 1969, Mrs. Cummins recalled, the district lost a referendum to increase the education and building fund tax rates.

During 1969-70, the district had budgeted $14,000 for the community education program, which received $6,500 in grants. However Mrs. Cummins said all the money was not spent because of the referendum defeat.

"Community education is gone," she said. "I haven't really devoted much time to community ed, since the fall of 1969."

One community education program that continued through this school year was Project 444, a program for 4-year-olds.

More than 500 preschoolers completed the program, which made use of "teacher-moms" this spring. Mrs. Cummins said the program will probably not be possible in any form next year.

In May, when the 4-year-olds "graduated," Mrs. Cummins said, "This program is a beautiful example of the use of community education, which is in large part a tapping of the local resources to provide for a school community need."

THE DISTRICT received no grant this year from the Mott Foundation, Mrs. Cummins said, and she said she has been "putting the brakes on" because of the district's financial problems.

However, she said the heavy use of the school buildings by community groups is partly a result of the community education program. "Some of the things just kept going even though I had my foot on the brake," she said.

The concept of community education and "lighted schools" began in 1939 in Flint, by Charles S. Mott. Schools there have been open to the community ever since.

When community education began in Dist. 59, officials said the program in Flint had resulted in 60 per cent greater use of school buildings with only a 5 per cent increase in operating costs.

This week, Mrs. Cummins said, "We have never had a full-blown community education program in Dist. 59."

Area Bar Association Elects Officers

Election of officers for the 1971-72 fiscal year was held June 9 at the general meeting of the Northwest Suburban Bar Association.

Elected were Raymond W. Edwards, president; Richard A. Nelson, first vice president; Robert Bush, second vice president; Wilhelm Levander, secretary; Jack Owens, treasurer.

Edwards, an Arlington Heights resident, is a trust officer for Chicago Title and Trust Company. Nelson is associated with the Park Ridge firm of McLennon, Sklodowski, Nelson & White, Assoc. Bush, a Mount Prospect resident, also maintains the office of his law firm, Bush & Bush, in Mount Prospect. Owens is a partner in the Park Ridge firm of Owens, Owens & Rinn.

The Northwest Suburban Bar Association also elected four new members to its board of directors at the June 9 meeting.

They are James Sheldon, an officer at the First National Bank of Des Plaines; John White, a member of the law firm of McKenna, Storer, Rowe, White & Haskell; Barrington attorney Thomas L. Ruth, Jr.; and Robert Sklodowski, associated with the Park Ridge firm of McLennon, Sklodowski, Nelson & White, Assoc.

The June general meeting, which was sponsored again this year by the O'Hare International Bank, is the last meeting of the Bar Association's 1970-71 fiscal year. Meetings for fiscal 1971-72 will begin in September with the installation of the newly elected officers and board members.

Officials Ask Land For Housing

The Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) board of trustees Wednesday found itself facing a suburban request for land on which to construct low-cost housing.

Several residents and public officials of Evanston asked the board for five parcels of MSD land for the construction of 17 units of low cost housing.

The property, near McCormick Boulevard in the North Shore suburb, is currently under consideration as a possible site for work on a proposed deep tunnel project.

Ben Sosewitz, MSD general superintendent, told the group that, at the present time, he could not commit the district on whether the property would be used.

He told the group, however, he would be happy to meet further with them or with the entire Evanston City Council to discuss the matter.

THE EVANSTON representatives explained the city was committed to low-cost housing construction and that the MSD lands had become "crucial." They explained lands owned by the elementary school district had been considered for a possible site.

Sosewitz said the deep tunnel project, to cost between $750 million and 1.25 billion, might require the sites for a tunnel shaft. He said final results of a study should be available by Dec. 24.

He said he might later say "yes" to their request if it would not delay the deep tunnel project or cost the taxpayers money.

Sosewitz further explained MSD, state and county officials are discussing the deep tunnel project, before presenting proposals to the federal government for help in funding.

Grass, Shrub Sprinkling Caused Water Shortages

A long, hot summer usually means a shortage of water for many towns in the Northwest suburbs.

People are not taking many more baths, flushing their toilets more or drinking great quantities of lemonade.

Nor is construction of new apartment complexes and roads to blame.

Grass and shrubs. That's where the water is going. On hot summer days, especially if there is no shade, lawns and shrubs burn up quickly. And to prevent this, most suburban homeowners water them down as heavily as they can, so their lawns stay green instead of brown.

SPRINKLING BANS affected four area towns this week, in Palatine, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights.

Most area towns have restricted sprinkling ordinances in which homeowners can only sprinkle every other day. One method is for even numbered addresses to sprinkle on even numbered days of the month and odd numbered addresses on odd numbered days.

In Palatine a sprinkling ban went into effect last Thursday and remains in effect, despite weekend rains. The ban was imposed because of a shortage of water and declining water pressure, so now residents are not allowed to water their lawns from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. Hopefully, according to Village Manager Berton Braun, the ban is just temporary.

A ban in Mount Prospect, which went into effect last week, was lifted Tuesday, for residents living south of Golf Road.

Council To Discuss Land Acquisition

The Des Plaines City Council will meet in executive session Monday night to discuss land acquisition possibilities. The meeting is closed to the public.

Topics may include discussion of senior citizen housing sites, land requirements for widening Prairie Avenue, and the need to acquire land for increased downtown parking, city spokesmen said.

On Honor Roll

Des Plaines resident Deborah Berto was recently named to the honor roll at Central Washington State College.

To be eligible for the honor roll a student must complete at least 12 credit hours during the quarter and achieve a minimum of 3.25 grade point average for the quarter.

No other part of the village was affected, but Acting Village Mgr. John Zimmerman said lifting the ban may just be temporary.

Zimmerman hinted that a permanent situation may be set up in which residents in this area may water their lawns every other day.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS has already experienced two sprinkling bans this year because people used more water than the village could supply.

L. A. Hanson, village manager, said residents could also expect periodic bans throughout the summer. One ban came in May and another, which went into effect last week, has been lifted.

The solution is a simple one: Expand the village water supply. But to do this, new wells have to be dug. These cost money, and even then there is no guarantee they will not be depleted. Hanson said although bans are blamed on this year's dry spring, residents use up to 12 million gallons a day in a town with only a 7-million-gallon storage capacity.

It is a seasonal problem and water shortages are nonexistent in the winter, when only four million gallons a day serves the domestic, recreational and fire needs of Arlington Heights.

Hanson said even with new wells, it isn't necessarily a permanent solution and that the only guaranteed supply would come from Lake Michigan. But to channel water from the lake to the Northwest suburbs would be costly, he said.

IN HOFFMAN ESTATES Monday an ordinance was passed continuing a ban on water there except for sanitary and drinking purposes.

The only exception will be made for persons who apply for a special permit to sprinkle new lawns and new shrubbery for two hours every day.

Persons requesting a special permit must produce receipts showing proof of money spent for the new plantings. Residents violating the ban are subject to a fine up to $100 for each violation.

Major cause of the problem in Hoffman Estates was a well which was only operating at 40 per cent capacity. And now it has been shut down for repairs, which are expected to take two weeks.

Apartment residents were interested in seeing the ban maintained to prevent a repeat of severe water pressure problems experienced last week.

No water was available at times during that period for even drinking, bathing and toilets, at Moon Lake Village and Hilldale Village apartment complexes.

Readers Helping To Save The Center

The Herald's campaign to raise money to save The Salvation Army Community Counseling Center was off to a "good start" this week.

In an effort to save the family service agency, located in Des Plaines, the Herald has launched an appeal to its readers to donate $1 to a special emergency fund.

Early response from 92 readers netted $222, including a number of donations in excess of $1.

"We are encouraged by this initial support," said Charles E. Hayes, editor in chief of the Herald, "and additional donations are coming in every day. But we have a long way to go before the center can begin to meet this most severe financial emergency in its history."

"We urge all Herald readers to send in their dollar donations today," said Hayes. "It is a small price to pay in behalf of strengthening and enhancing family life in our communities."

Operated under auspices of The Salvation Army, the center is the only professional family service agency available to residents of Northwest suburbs. Unless the means is found to meet an immediate deficit of $15,000, it will be forced to curtail its service.

A MODEST FEE structure is insufficient to meet operating expenses, and the center must depend upon support from Community Chests, taxing bodies, foundations, and private contributors.

Its current financial emergency grew out of the recent freeze on allocation of all township funds as well as the general state of the national economy.

Initial contributors to the Herald Center Fund include readers from 11 suburbs, all served by the Center.

Reports from the community gardening project indicate trouble with the squash bug and striped cucumber beetle. Many of the insects that attack squash are the same devils that zero in on cucumbers, pumpkins, and other cucurbits.

The adult squash bug is a dingy, blackish-brown 3/8 inch long pest; newly hatched it has a red head and legs and green body. It stinks when crushed.

Handpick, when possible. Next time, remember to companion plant with radishes, nasturtiums, or marigolds in the hills.

Sprinkle plants with black pepper to repel squash vine borers. Choosing resistant varieties, such as butternut squash, helps prevent the onslaught.

BACTERIAL WILT is a disease spread by the striped or 12-spotted cucumber beetle. As the beetles feed, their droppings contain the bacillus which falls on the wounds they made in feeding. If you suspect bacterial wilt, cut across a stem and squeeze it to press out some of the plant juices. Touch the juice to your finger and slowly move your finger away. Juice from a healthy plant will not string out. But that from a diseased one will be sticky and stringy. Once a plant has bacterial wilt, there is no cure. The only answer is to control the cucumber beetles. Remove and destroy wilted plants found early in the season.

For bad infestations of the cucumber beetle, mix a handful of wood ashes and a handful of hydrated lime in two gallons of water. Be sure to hit both sides of the leaves.

GARDEN CLUBBER Marilyn Wachsmuth of Arlington Heights reports that the squirt solution of Basic H (a Shaklee soap product) kills black caterpillar — the furless kind that hatches in tents, on trees and bushes. These monsters are notorious for gorging on rose leaves. One teaspoon (and only one) dropped on them — zap. If birds are inclined to lunch on them — don't worry — it's non-toxic. From Rose Grower Magazine: Use one gallon of water, pour one tablespoon of Basic H into the water. Spray the rose bushes for aphids, red spider and mildew. Use it by adding the Basic H to water, not water to Basic H, or it will foam too much. And don't forget, a corn-cob mulch under the rose bush helps prevent blackspot. This practice controls the splashup of soil-borne organisms which you'll notice always start from the bottom up.

Tree Tanglefoot, available at nurseries and garden centers, looks like brown, sticky petroleum jelly, and is an excellent trap for tree crawling insects. Squeeze out sticky bands of Tree Tanglefoot around affected trees.

IT'S DEVASTATING to plant expensive summer bulbs, nurture them from sprouts up, only to come home and find they've been flower-napped, and probably dying along some curb. Remember to caution your children against swiping other people's flowers without permission. Encourage their curiosity by giving them a piece of the action and a few flats of their own to appreciate.

Corn production is beefed up with black plastic mulch, and bean production is stepped up with aluminum foil mulch.

Ugly, grey lumps on carrots and parsnips, bumpy stems on tomato plants? The minor menace is nematodes. Experiments at the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station have found that interplanting marigolds dramatically reduces the nematode population. Results are more spectacular the year after the marigolds are planted.

"I'M COMPLETELY, UTTERLY at your service," love-smitten Norman Cornell (Harmon Dresner) tells indignant Sophie Rauschmeyer (Judy Jonassen) as bored Andy Hobart (Bob Behling) looks on. The scene is from "The Star Spangled Girl" now playing at Country Club Theatre in Mount Prospect.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Thank heavens readers have stopped sending samples through the mail of the little black insects which invaded their kitchen cupboards. But letters still come with the same plaint. The weevil is here, and what to do about it? Once the weevil has infested an area, there's only one thing to do. Clean out every box that has had evidence of them. Save nothing, as eggs laid could hatch and the whole procedure would have to be repeated. I went through it as a bride many years ago and it hurt to throw out all the food.

Too many people hold some foods back, hoping they haven't been tainted — and the infestation goes on and on. Anything that has been allowed to stay open is suspect. Therefore, clear the shelves and wash them thoroughly. Then use a household spray over the area. Let dry thoroughly before reusing the shelves. Any kind of grain — flour, rice, split peas, dried beans, and so on, should be put in glass jars or airtight containers the minute they are brought home from the store. As a further preventive, one friend keeps bay leaves under her shelf paper. I tape pieces of bay leaf on the inside cover of flour containers and such. Because of constant vigilance, I've never been bothered since those early days.

FUNNY BEADS

By Marilyn Hallman

Comics, liquid starch, and toothpicks are all you need to make these beads. Pour some starch into a shallow bowl. Tear a full sheet of newspaper on its folds into four sections. Tear long strips across each section. Each strip should be about one inch at the wide end and taper to a point at the other.

Dip the strip into the starch. Hold it over the bowl and slide it between your thumb and finger to remove the excess starch. Starting at the wide end, roll the strip of paper loosely around a round toothpick. Then slide the bead off the toothpick. Let it dry on waxed paper. When the beads are dry, string them with a large eyed needle and strong thread or dental floss.

Spiro: The Objective Is To Win

I AM RARELY in agreement with Vice President Spiro Agnew and his political and philosophical viewpoints. But the Vice President and I are certainly in agreement when it comes to the philosophy of winning in sports.

Agnew wrote an article in Sports Illustrated in the June 21 issue about his golf game and all of its mishaps, his tennis game and his ping-pong game. But in the midst of telling of his famous misdeeds on the course and the courts, he also expounded on his philosophy of playing to win.

In his Sports Illustrated article, Agnew wrote, "In sport, the objective is still to win. You are not allowed to think that way anymore in many walks of life. People who exhibit that tendency are said to be 'aggressive' or 'unsympathetic' or 'insensitive' or they 'lack compassion'."

He added, "I would not want to live in a society that did not include winning in its philosophy; that would have us live our lives as identical lemmings, never trying to be anybody at anything, all headed in the same direction, departing not from the appointed route, striving not for individual excellence. I would rather be a failure in a competitive society — which is our inheritance — than to live in a waveless sea of nonachievers."

Agnew further expressed, "A man who has not known failure cannot fully appreciate success. You can't know pleasure in any greater degree than you have known pain. The affluent, born to wealth, every whim catered to, cannot appreciate the fine food and the luxuries because they are routine."

And finally, "From defeat, from failure, from hardship, something builds within a person. And if he can throw off his disappointment and dismay and come back and try again, he develops a kind of personal cohesiveness that keeps him together as a man throughout life. That's the message of sport. Not only trying to win, to achieve, but learning how to cope with failure."

Petraglia Rolls On

Johany Petraglia, who has already broken the professional bowling tour record for most money won in a single year, keeps rolling. Petraglia shattered the old mark when he won $325 in the ABC Masters tournament to bring his 1971 earnings to $87,478.

There are many persons who believe that winning is overemphasized. They believe that too many coaches strive too much to win, win, win. These persons follow the philosophy introduced by the famous sportswriter Grantland Rice that, "It matters not if you won or lost, it's how you played the game."

But I tend to side with the fellow, I think it was Notre Dame football coach Frank Leahy, who said, "If winning didn't matter, they wouldn't keep score." Bear Bryant put it in another simple manner, "Winning isn't everything, but it sure beats anything that comes in second."

There are those, and they do not seem to be in the minority anymore, that profess that sport should be fun. Let's go out and have a good time. If we win, fine. If we lose, well, that's okay too. Let's get our kicks out of PARTICIPATING. Let's just have fun with sports. Who cares who wins?

For a short time, I accepted this type of philosophy. But then, one man, my high school football coach, put it on the line better than any way I have heard since:

"The cost of winning is very high. You are going to have to strive to win, work to win. It is going to cost you a lot of time, a lot of sweat and a lot of energy to win."

"We could go out on this practice field and screw around and not worry about the game Friday night. We can just mess around and have fun on the practice field."

"But to me, there is no more fun in the world than coming off the field Friday night as a winner. That is the ultimate — to achieve, to reach your goals. What could possibly be better?"

I became sold to this philosophy. Now, don't get me wrong on this subject. I, nor Spiro Agnew, nor Bear Bryant advocate the theory of winning at any cost.

The situation came up a month ago in Illinois that football practice would be allowed in the high schools for six weeks — in the summer.

I expounded at length in this column that this was not a very good situation. Young men should have other activities in their lives other than football. Six weeks of football in pads in the summer, in the young men's free time, is not permitting allowance of enough time for partaking in other activities.

If a coach does not conduct these summer practices he is going after victories at ANY cost. Too high of a cost.

This is wrong. But when the football season begins a boy should commit himself to becoming the best football player possible. He should strive to win. The coach should also strive to win.

The coach should play his best players, or, at least, those striving to improve themselves, as much as he can. He should try to get the most out of his individuals. He should try to get the most out of his team.

There are many who say that a coach should play every player on his team in every game. Everyone should get a chance to play no matter what.

But this philosophy is just the opposite expounded by our system of free enterprise. For instance, if the vacuum cleaner you are manufacturing is better than mine, then Mr. Average American is going to buy your vacuum cleaner. And I had better come up with a better means of making my vacuum cleaner or I am going to go out of business.

This is the way it should be in our free enterprise system.

This is the way it should be in sports. This is a competitive society we live in. And in what better way can a young man learn the way of life of this society than through sports?

If a boy is not the first string tackle or the first string forward or the starting second baseman, he should strive to improve himself. But, if a boy is allowed to play, anyway, without making strides to improve himself, then he will never get the utmost out of himself. The incentive would be gone. He will not have known what it is like to strive — and succeed.

One has to admit that there are those with limited athletic ability. They will never make All-State or All-Conference or, even, first string. But that is no reason why they should not strive to succeed in their sport. Maybe they should seek out other sports. There are so many sports, that even those with limited natural talents can find a place to become relatively successful.

I know of 140 pounders who have been All-State linebackers. There was a 5-foot-4 guard playing college basketball in this state who averaged more than 30 points per game. There are thousands of other cases in which those with limited tools to work with have been successful in sports.

All it took was a lot of hard work.

Is this wrong? Is it wrong to try to become the best you can possibly be? Should you not try to be the best quarterback, the best linebacker, the best second baseman, the best vacuum cleaner manufacturer?

Is it wrong to try to win? Or should we be, as Spiro Agnew warns against, "identical lemmings in a waveless sea of nonachievers."

If that is the case, then we might as well not have sports at all.

Two Mid-Teen Games Tonight

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Wednesday's scheduled Des Plaines Mid-Teen League baseball game between Kunkel and Allen's was postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

According to Mid-Teen commissioner Al Carstens the game has tentatively been rescheduled for Wednesday, July 7.

Two games are scheduled for today and two more for Sunday as the races in both the American League and the National League become more heated as the season goes on.

A pair of second place teams will encounter at 6 p.m. with the Optimists meeting Kunkel. The Optimists are one-half game behind American League leading Bantam with a 2-3 record. Bantam has a 2-2 mark. Kunkel, meanwhile, trails the Elks by one-half game with a 4-0 record. The Elks are 5-0.

In other action today, Allen's, which is 0-3-1, will meet First National Bank, which is 1-2-1. In an earlier meeting this year, the two teams played to a 2-2 tie.

The two league leaders will clash on Sunday at 1 p.m. with the Elks being the home team against Bantam. Burchard, which is looking for its first win (not including Thursday's games), will encounter ter Sellergren which is 2-2.

All Des Plaines Mid-Teen games are played at Maine West High School.

Terri Buck: Notre Dame's Latest All-Star Performer

by IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Luxurious Terri Buck may have had more to do with the changing face of education at Notre Dame than anyone since granite Knute Rockne.

When Terri Buck comes a-prancing onto the football field, long hair and short skirt caught in the wind, beating her pompons to the cheer, cheer for old Notre Dame, she would never be mistaken for Terry Hanratty.

And next fall, senior Terri Buck becomes a full-fledged student at the University of Notre Dame, once the bastion and symbol of all that was hairy-cheested about American higher education.

For the past three years she has been a student at all-female St. Mary's College in South Bend, the so-called sister school to Notre Dame. Now, St. Mary's is being absorbed by Notre Dame.

Cheerleader Terri Buck may have been directly responsible for this colossal comed reversal. She has the looks of Loren and, as it turns out, the influence of Montessori.

"I guess it was felt that if they can accept a girl on the football field at Notre Dame, then it would be all right to have them in the classroom, too," said Miss Buck at breakfast in a New York restaurant recently.

It wasn't an overnight thing, to be sure. Only for the last two years have Notre Dammers permitted a soprano to cheer on the field. Football, as the world knows, is Notre Dame's most sacred institution. Before this, the Fighting Irish die-hard believed that a woman's place was in the stands, holding the flask.

Miss Buck admits that she is not the sole influence for the educational upheaval at Notre Dame. The times and Father Theodore Hesburgh, the liberal president of Notre Dame, are mainly responsible. Unquestionably, Miss Buck did indeed become an admired figure by a large segment of the Notre Dame student body. But there were still the Neanderthals.

In one game she got stuck on the leg by a thrown egg. "Well," she said not taking it personally, "the game was get-

POOR TIMING

Dear Sirs: As you know, Paul Splittorff (formerly of Arlington Heights) makes his major-league pitching debut in Chicago this week.

It's too bad, however, that the game is scheduled for the afternoon (Wednesday). This deprives a lot of interested area fans from viewing the game on television or even listening on the radio. Not many people have a Wednesday afternoon free from work.

Which brings me to a gripe. Why do the White Sox schedule so many Wednesday and Thursday games in the afternoon instead of at night? Other teams do this much less often. It always happens on "getaway" day for the visiting team, but it is not necessary to catch a plane in late afternoon or early evening to make the next series.

Wednesday nights and Thursday nights are OK in other towns. Why not here? The Sox are only hurting their own attendance as it is usually atrocious at such games. Which is more important, the fans or the convenience of 25 ballplayers?

THE PORTER MYSTERY

Dear Sir:

Bulls' fans were told that Howard Porter belonged to us and to us alone. And now the story comes out that the Bulls owe the Pittsburgh Condors something for Porter's services, yet we aren't told why.

Is Porter the Bulls' property or isn't he? The Bulls did not sign Porter until after the NCAA tournament. But Villanova has been forced to forfeit all of its games because Porter signed a pro contract. If that is the case, who did he sign with? Was it Pittsburgh?

Nicholas Christopoulos

Hoffman Estates

Basketball fans can at least admire the NBA and the ABA for holding on to Top Secret information. That's more than we can say about the United States Defense Department.

Apparently Howard Porter will be in a Bulls' uniform next year. It is not known what the Bulls had to give up for him, or will give up. But the cost could not have been too high. Porter is an outstanding blue chip prospect and should develop well with Chet Walker and Bob Love at forward.

Bulls' fan should be happy to get Porter — no matter what the cost and no matter what legal action had to be taken. — Larry Mlynczak

COLUMBIAN PREDICTIONS PRAISED

Dear Sir:

My man Dave Hill didn't make the cut in last week's United States Open, but I appreciated Paul Logan picking him fourth in his predictions column last Thursday.

I'd also like to congratulate him on tabbing Lee Trevino first and Jack Nicklaus second. He must know his professional golfers.

I hope he also predicts the Western Open. However, I would like to see him rank Davey for first. He's due to win one and I hope it's the Western.

Charles Michealis

Mount Prospect

Thanks for the compliment, Chuck. However, I must point out that I also blew the rest of my top 10. Besides Hill failing to make the cut, Bill Casper and Tom Weiskopf did too. — Paul Logan

PIRATES, METS ALL THE WAY

Dear Sirs:

Sufficiency in numbers on a pitching staff is the key to any championship team. That's why Pittsburgh and New York will fight it out in the National League East, and the Cubs will have to be resigned to third place. The Cubs have four decent starters but nothing after that either starters or in the bullpen. Don't let this recent surge fool you.

I like Pittsburgh to win everything this year, even the World Series. They have that ideal mixture of youthful speed and veteran strength, and even if their starting pitchers aren't overly impressive, Murtaugh (Danny) has a lot of them.

Harry Dennington

Mount Prospect

Before you resign the Cubs to a third-place finish, Harry, you had better check with a Mr. Albert (Red) Schoendienst in care of the St. Louis Cardinals. The Pirates, though, are certainly the team to beat. They're deep at every position and can field a lineup with six .300 hitters at the top and still leave their hottest slugger (Al Oliver) on the bench. To avoid the rush, cash in your Cubs' third place destination tickets for a second-division reservation. — Jim Cook

General Box Tops Jaycees

General Box, behind the pitching of Paul Anderson, handed the Jaycees their first loss of the season 7-4 in west 4A baseball.

Anderson had allowed only one run on three hits before tying and yielding three runs in the final inning, but General Box held on for the win.

In other action the Jaycees bounced back to defeat the Optimists 16-0 with Frank Vaia and Ken Kueker sharing the pitching duties and combining for 12 strikeouts and a 3 hit shut-out. Vaia supplied the offense with a double, single and home run in four at bats along with Kueker who added four singles in five trips to the plate.

Firemen continued their winning ways by out slugging Sugar Bowl 12-3 in a game that was delayed by rain and finally called after six innings because of darkness. Tony Salazar was the winning pitcher allowing only three hits and fanning nine batters.

Air Pocket Saves Buried Worker's Life

by TOM ROBB

Kept alive only by an underground air pocket, one construction worker was buried under 16 feet of earth and another was trapped following a sewer caisson cave-in yesterday in northern Arlington Heights.

Rescuers worked for nearly two hours to free 47-year-old Alphonse Neri, 4007 S. Artesian, Chicago, who was buried alive when the side walls of a 16-foot hole caved in.

Neri, an employee of Tremar Inc., a local firm, survived the ordeal only by putting his head in the open end of a sewer pipe where enough air was trapped to sustain him.

Another worker, Thomas Urso, 30, of 1305 N. 21st St., Melrose Park, was trapped up to his neck in the landslide for about 30 minutes before fellow construction workers and 11 men from the Arlington Heights Fire Department rescued him, said Frank DeFrancesco, president of Tremar.

Jack Ryan, director of public relations for Northwest Community Hospital said, "both men are doing all right considering the ordeal they've been through." Neri suffered a broken hip and Urso a possible broken arm.

The excavation site is located just south of Rand Road and directly across from Corrado's Restaurant, 310 W. Rand Rd.

"We just got back from lunch and jumped into the hole when it happened," Urso said. "It came so fast we couldn't do anything but stand there."

The men were two of eight workers who were tunneling a sanitary sewer from north of Rand Road to the Greenbrier Apartment complex at Rand and Kennicott.

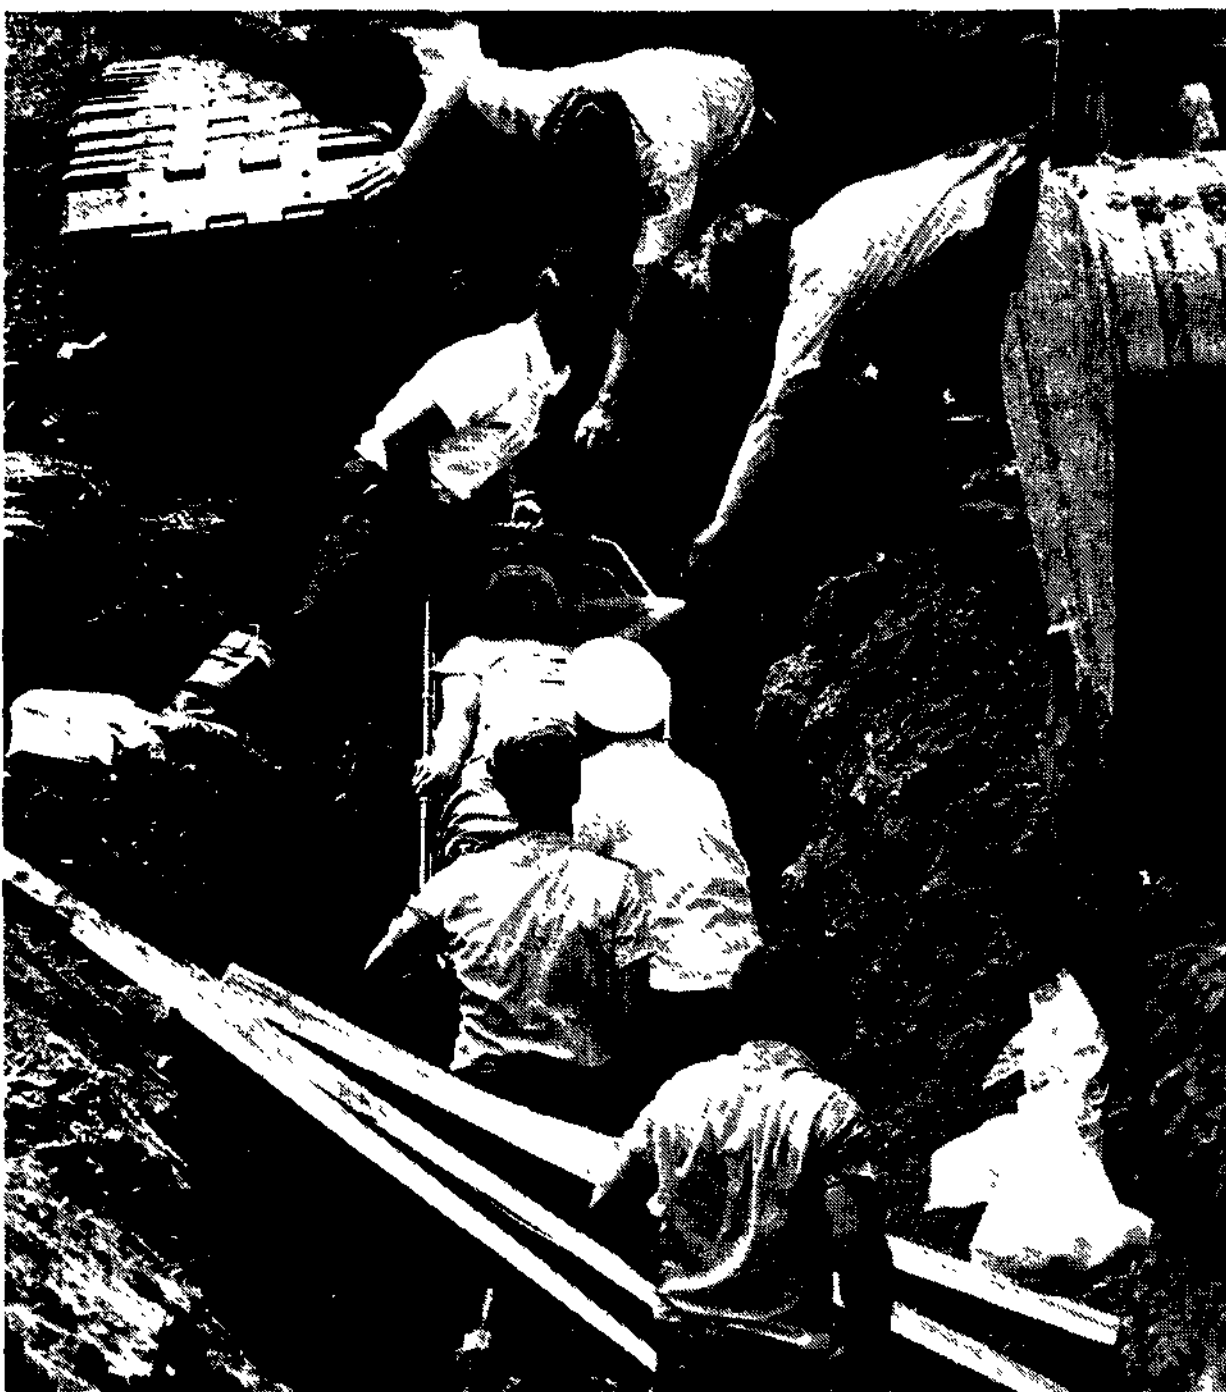

THE CAVE-IN occurred shortly before 1 p.m. Urso was freed by 1:30 p.m., and firemen and workers lifted Neri from the hole by stretcher basket at 2:20 p.m.

"I heard two guys yell to make a run for it, but it was too late," said Urso, who was buried to the top of his head and regained his breath only after a fellow worker scooped dirt away from Urso's face.

It took at least 20 rescuers close to two hours to free Neri, however, who was at the bottom of the hole when the accident occurred.

"I used the big machine to dig most of the dirt off of him and stopped when I heard him screaming — otherwise the machine would have killed him," said DeFrancesco.

Workers then had to use shovels to get closer to the victim. "The last few inches

AFTER NEARLY two hours, rescuers in Arlington Heights freed construction worker Alphonse Neri, 47, who was buried under 16 feet of earth when an excavation pit located across from Corrado's Restaurant, 317 W. Rand Road caved in. Happiest of all to see Neri alive was his friend and co-worker, Thomas Urso, 30, who was also trapped, but rescued an hour earlier. "I was amazed to see him alive. It seemed like we dug forever before we heard him yelling," said Frank DeFrancesco, their boss. (Photo by Jay Needleman)

we had to use our fingers to dig," said Arlington Heights fireman Richard Frost, who like other workmen, was sweating and breathless because of the speed at which he worked.

Fearing further cave-ins and that Neri's air supply was dwindling, state and local police roped off the area to a large crowd of bystanders to aid the rescuers in their work.
